GERMANS USE FLAMING LIQUIDS IN ATTACKS

Fierce Fighting at Verdun—The French Recapture Trench After Desperate Struggle

Flaming Liquids Used
Paris today announces that while the crown prince's troops succeeded in carrying a redoubt east of Hill 304, literally crushing its defenders, a spirited counter-attack ultimately drove them out. Flaming liquids were used freely by the Germans in their attacks on the principal English salients.

Along British Front

BRITISH LOSSES FOR CLEMENCY

Casualties Among Officers in May 1901—Total Losses 27,905

LONDON, June 30.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Casualties among officers in the British army continue to grow. Published lists for the month of May show that 466 were killed, 1030 wounded and 55 missing—a total of 1601. This brings the aggregate losses since the beginning of the war to 27,905, of whom 8574 were killed or died of wounds, 17,424 were wounded and 1907 are missing.

Losses during the month have been heaviest in the Indian contingent in Mesopotamia with 48 killed and 197 wounded. The Canadians lost 33 killed and 80 wounded; field artillery 19 killed, 80 wounded; Lancashires 26 killed, 41 wounded; Australians 27 killed, 24 wounded; London regiments 12 killed, 36 wounded, 11 missing; engineers 12 killed, 43 wounded; Yorkshires 14 killed, 28 wounded.

Among officers of high rank, Brig. Generals Houghton, Herby, Rice and Morrison were killed or died of wounds; three other brigadier generals were wounded and 11 lieutenant colonels were killed.

ORPET MURDER TRIAL

WAUKEGAN, Ill., June 30.—Testimony that the man in the woods who shot and killed the late Senator William H. Orpet, charged with the murder of William H. Orpet, was introduced in the senate today by Senator Martin of New Jersey. It was referred to the foreign relations committee.

Saturday, July 1st, is "Quarter Day" at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

BROOKLYN BRIDGE

Brooklyn bridge was opened in 1883. It is built over the East river between New York and Brooklyn, 5569 feet in length and therefore is one of the longest bridges in the world. Every day thousands and thousands of people cross and recross this bridge. Our store has been longer in service than the Brooklyn bridge. It was opened in 1875 with one employee. Like the bridge it has accommodated thousands of customers every day for many years. By going to Chalfoux's you get the best and obtained a reputation for good and faithful service.

Private Advices Say Carranza is Determined to Stand by Orders to Gen. Trevino to Attack the American Troops if They Move in Any Direction Except North—Faction in Carranza Cabinet Wants New Demand for Withdrawal of All United States Troops in Mexico—Report Pershing's Line Cut is Denied—Thousands of National Guardsmen Nearing Border

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Private advices reaching Washington from a reliable source in Mexico City today said Gen. Carranza and his advisers had determined to stand by orders to Gen. Trevino to attack American troops in Mexico moving in any direction except toward the border, and that no way was seen to avoid a break with the United States.

A faction of the Mexican cabinet, it was said, was urging an even more defiant attitude and wanted to include in the reply to the American request for a statement of intention, a new demand for immediate withdrawal of all United States troops now on Mexican soil.

The advices did not indicate when the response from Carranza might be expected. The last word on the subject to the state department came in a message from Special Agent Rodgers who said he expected the note to be handed him Wednesday night.

INVESTIGATE REPORT OF PLAN TO CUT AMERICAN LINE

COLUMBUS, N. M., June 30.—Scouting detachments sent to investigate reports that Carranza cavalry were concentrating in large numbers near Guzman, have informed Gen. Pershing that there is no cause for apprehension, according to news received here today. They found no evidence that the Mexicans were preparing to cut the American line of communication. The garrison at Guzman, they said, had been somewhat increased by cavalry arriving from the south.

MEXICAN LINE RIDER KILLED BY AMERICANS

EL PASO, Tex., June 30.—A Mexican line rider of the Carranza customs service was killed last night by a squad of American soldiers who fired across the Rio Grande into Mexican territory near Yuleta, 12 miles east of El Paso, according to a report received by Gen. Gonzalez in Juarez today.

Mexican officials claimed that the guard, named Juan Moreno, was riding along the Mexican side of the river in the performance of his duty with a few low customs guard, when the Americans opened fire without warning. The story as told by the survivors placed the number of Americans at eight.

Considerable indignation was expressed in Juarez over the affair, and Gen. Gonzalez sent a complaint to Gen. Bell, who said he would investigate.

The military supplies lost in the Carranza fight arrived in Juarez from Chihuahua today. They consisted of 27 horses, 83 rifles, a number of pistols, several thousand cartridges and other equipment.

The troops of the Tenth brought here from Chihuahua City remained at the hospital at Fort Bliss, awaiting release after it has been proven that they contracted no dangerous disease in Mexico.

They corroborated reports that the number of Mexican dead at Carranza was much larger than announced by Gen. Francisco Gonzalez. A number of officers other than Gen. Gomez were among the dead, they said.

GUARD AGAINST WRECK—PERSHING'S LINE INTACT

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 30.—While thousands of National Guardsmen were moving toward border stations, extra precautions were being taken to prevent the exact routings and schedules of the numerous special trains from becoming known.

Gen. Funston was instructed to exercise the utmost precaution in concealing details of the mobilization and general movements of all railroads carrying troops were requested not to make public the movements of trains.

It was explained at Gen. Funston's headquarters that the unusual measures were not taken to prevent the news of just where the American troops would be stationed from reaching Mexicans, but to render more difficult any attempt that might be made to wreck one of the trains.

Information obtained by the intelligence officers indicated that such an attempt might be made. Train wrecking, either by the removal of rails or by the use of dynamite, is so common to warfare in Mexico that the general staff at Washington and the military authorities here regarded as almost essential such secrecy of movement.

It was hoped at Gen. Funston's headquarters that the greater part of the troops now moving would be on the border by Saturday night that early in the coming week such disposition would have been effected as to render available for prompt action the heavy reinforced army along the international line.

Reports that a strong Mexican force had interrupted Gen. Pershing's line of communication were denied.

Factories Will Close

The local cotton and worsted mills, a part of the Saco-Lowell shops and practically the entire plant of the United States Cartridge Co. will close their doors tomorrow noon, not to reopen again until Wednesday morning, and in this way the employees will be given a rest and a brief vacation.

The Talbot mills of North Billerica will also close tomorrow noon until Wednesday morning, notices to that effect having been posted in the various departments of the plant.

At the U. S. Cartridge Co. it was stated this morning that with the exception of one department, where a few women will be kept at work, the entire plant will close tomorrow until Wednesday morning, this including the night work.

The department stores as well as the grocery and meat establishments will keep open as usual on Monday, but on Tuesday most of them will close all day.

The usual midway features will be conducted on the South common and there will be attractions not yet announced.

NEW MEN'S BATTALION

ONE ORGANIZED IN UNITED STATES CARTRIDGE SHOP—DRILL IN GARAGE

The Men's battalion, which was organized among the officials and employees of the U. S. Cartridge Co. last week, met last evening in the company's garage and prior to the drilling a business meeting was held, in the course of which considerable business was transacted.

The men were addressed by several officials of the company and they were shown samples of uniforms. It was decided to purchase a khaki uniform similar to that now being worn by the members of the Business Men's battalion and the members were informed that the cost per uniform, coat, trousers, belt, hat and puttees, would be $3.00 apiece.

Twenty new members were recruited into the organization last evening, bringing the number of "soldiers" up to 35. It is hoped that within a few months the battalion will be composed of over 200 members. It was also voted to hold drills in the open building next Thursday evening, and a large tract of land owned by the company and located in South Lowell has been selected. Some members of the battalion, who are electricians, have volunteered to wire the place and install electric lights, the power to be supplied gratis by the company.

The men were drilled last evening by Capt. Lagerholm and Lieut. Hinman, two experienced military men, and the result of the evening's work was very gratifying to both the men and officers. Inasmuch as none of the evening employees were present at the drill, it was arranged to have a drill in the day for them in order to also give them an opportunity to join the battalion. A place will be selected for the day drills, officers will be appointed and a date for the drill will be set later.

COMMISSION AGREES ON HOSPITAL PLANS

Architect Instructed to Prepare Working Plans for Certain Buildings—City Hall News

The contagious hospital commission held a meeting in the mayor's reception room at city hall this forenoon and discussed, at considerable length, the plans submitted by Architect Henry L. Bourke. The plans submitted by Mr. Bourke were but tentative or preliminary plans and it was voted to instruct him to prepare working plans for an administration building, three tuberculosis shacks, boiler house and laundry. These buildings will cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $14,000.

Dr. Charles E. Simpson, of the state board of health was present at the meeting and said the state board would be willing to let the question of the isolation or contagious hospital for an administration building, three tuberculosis shacks, boiler house and laundry. These buildings will cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $14,000.

REPORT OF INQUEST HELD TAUSCHER FREED

German Army Officer Acquitted of Conspiracy to Blow up Canal

NEW YORK, June 30.—Hans Tauscher, former German army officer, was acquitted today by a jury of conspiracy to blow up the Welland canal. The case went to the jury shortly before noon.

Judge Hand, in his charge, instructed the jurors that if they found that Tauscher knowingly furnished dynamite or the pistols for the alleged plot, they must find him guilty of conspiracy.

"Testimony which I do not find has been disputed," the court said, "has been adduced to show that von der Goltz sent and equipped by Capt. von Pappen did go to Canada and finding the canal guarded by soldiers, returned to this country. The only matter of dispute is whether Tauscher was aware of the purpose for which von der Goltz and Capt. von Pappen wanted the dynamite and the pistols furnished by Tauscher."

THIS IS IMPORTANT

FEDERAL DEPARTMENT WILL INVESTIGATE ACTION OF THE STATE BOARD OF INSANITY

STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 30.—Agents of the federal department of labor are soon to begin an investigation in Massachusetts to determine whether the federal immigration law has been violated by the state board of insanity or by any of the officials of institutions under its jurisdiction, in obtaining foreigners for positions in the institutions under their control. The attention of the federal department has been called by Rep. Frederick E. Dowling of Boston, to an advertisement which appeared recently, for several consecutive weeks, in the Digby Courier, a weekly newspaper published in Digby, Nova Scotia, a copy of which is given below:

"WANTED"

"Young women as attendants at the Wrentham State Hospital. Salary first six months $20, second six months $22; after one year $28, including board, room and laundry. George L. Wallace, Supt., Wrentham, Mass."

Haughton, assistant commissioner-general, advises Rep. Dowling that the advertisement is a clear violation of section 6 of the immigration act, and states that "an investigation through the Boston office will be directed at Wrentham, Mass., to determine who is responsible for the advertisement referred to, and to ascertain whether or not there are aliens now in the employ of that hospital as a result of this advertisement."

Discussing the matter today, Representative Dowling said: "I am informed that it is a common practice of several of our state institutions to advertise in Nova Scotia papers for hospital attendants, and that a considerable portion of the 10,000 employees of institutions under the control of the state board of insanity come from that section. If my information is correct, it means that aliens are being brought into this state to receive in our institutions training which fits them to become nurses, and are finally turned out as graduate nurses, to compete with our own girls who have been forced to their large expenditures and to put in years of hard work before they are permitted to practice nursing."

"In my judgment it is a serious evil, and if the federal department is unable to cope with it under the immigration law, I shall present to the next legislature a bill which will prohibit the employment of aliens in our state institutions."

THE PAY OF SOLDIERS

IN U. S. ARMY PAY RUNS FROM 50 CENTS A DAY FOR PRIVATES TO $30.56 FOR LIEUT. GENERAL

The Sun has received many queries of late as to soldiers' pay in the United States army, for in these days when so many good men are going into military service, there is considerable public interest in the payroll schedule and the following rates of pay in the United States army per day are published for the benefit of those who are interested:

Private: Cavalry, artillery, infantry, signal corps; second class private, engineers and ordnance, musician, trumpeter—50 cents.
First class private: Engineers, ordnance, signal corps, hospital corps—60 cents.
Corporal: Cavalry, artillery, infantry; wagoner; artificer; farrier; sad-

dlar; mechanic; field artillery—70 cents.

Corporal: Engineers, ordnance, signal corps, hospital corps; chief mechanic; mechanic; coast artillery; private; bands—80 cents.
Sergeant: Cavalry, artillery, infantry—$1.00.

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughed at on account of your fat, but go to A. W. Dows & Co., or any good druggist, and get a box of Oil of Koezin capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body. It costs little, is absolutely harmless and a week's trial should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of unsightly fat.

try, hospital corps; stable sergeant; company quartermaster sergeant; cavalry, artillery, infantry; cook, acting cook, hospital corps; fireman; corporal; bands; horseshoer; cavalry; mechanic, field artillery, performing duty as horseshoer—$1.

APPLICATIONS FOR ENLISTMENT CONTINUE TO REACH HEAD-QUARTERS

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 30.—Applications for enlistment in a proposed volunteer division which Col. Theodore

Roosevelt is preparing to organize if there is a call for volunteers are so numerous that the colonel's secretary, Walter J. Hays, issued today a statement in which he said:

"We have been literally deluged with telegrams and letters with applications from men who wish to join a volunteer division. It is physically impossible to reply individually to the organizations and to the men who have communicated with us, but I will see that their applications are carefully filed for future reference so that in the event of hostilities they can be apprised of what action is contemplated."

PROSPERITY BAROMETER

Iron and Steel Industry Booming
—Big Business Wants to Control Government Again

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Articles fashioned from iron and steel are of universal consumption. They enter into the economy of every household and of every individual citizen, even the babe in arms. Hence it is no fiction that the iron and steel industry is the infallible barometer of trade. When dearth is in the field, when the heart is empty, when the day is shipless, when retrenchment is imperative, the fires in the steel mill are not lighted and the sound of the trip hammer is not heard. The wage of labor is reduced and the ranks of the unemployed are swelled. Indeed ours is the iron age.

The American people are the most enormous producers and the most prodigious consumers of iron and steel solvents in the world. For fifty years we have been told that the iron industry of the United States cannot possibly exist without a protective tariff levied to secure it in the home market against the predatory paupers of foreign parts. True, Mr. Andrew Carnegie, who knows more about iron and steel than any other citizen of this or any other country, testified before a congressional commission that the American iron and steel industry had outgrown its baby clothes, that it was no longer an infant, but that we would turn out steel at a less cost than any other nation and at the same time pay a higher wage to labor than any other nation.

Government Abandoned to Trusts

But for more than half a century our congress invited our iron and steel manufacturers to come forward and write in our tariff laws the degree of protection they wished. Long ago the republican party set the fashion that congress should shirk its constitutional duty and abdicate its legislative privilege to write our tariff laws. The wool manufacturers wrote Schedule "K," the cotton spinners wrote the cotton schedule, the drug men wrote the chemical schedule, the sugar men the sugar schedule and so on and so forth to the end of the chapter. Neither Nelson W. Aldrich nor Seneca E. Payne knew what was in that monstrosity that is called the Payne-Aldrich tariff.

The people tired of that and determined to force their government to divorce itself from "Big Business." To that end Woodrow Wilson was elected president and a congress democratic in both houses was chosen in 1912. They immediately set to work and fashioned a tariff bill, not for the few of our people who eat taxes, but for the many who pay taxes. The manufacturer was given free raw materials and told to compete with paupers from all quarters.

Calamity Cry

And then the cry was calamity! The poor, undone iron industry was to shut up shop. We were to spin no more wool or cotton; we were to cease tanning hides into leather or fashioning anything from leather. Sheep and cattle were to starve in rich pastures, coal mines were to close, railroads were to haul nothing as there was to be nothing to haul, banks and trust companies were to go into liquidation. These were only a few of the disasters and afflictions that were to overtake our country because of a wicked democratic tariff. Beware of false prophets. How about iron and steel? In the month of February our production of pig iron was at the rate of 38,200,000 tons a year and that is the highest ever known in any country in the world. Nor is that all. At the end of February the United States Steel Corporation had unfilled orders reaching to the stupendous totals of $568,000 tons, a figure heretofore unequalled in history. Mark you, the price of steel was steadily advancing because of the fact that our mills were physically inadequate to the demands and during the month of February the increase in orders amounted to 646,199 tons.

Tide of Prosperity

March beat February with orders for 9,331,001 tons, and April beat March with orders for 9,829,551 tons and the tide is still rising, the flood of which seemingly is far in the future. During the month of April the United States Steel Corporation delivered from its mills finished products amounting to 51,000 tons daily, and the orders exceeded the shipment by about 20,000 tons.

I believe the United States Steel is the largest private corporation in the world. Its business is enormous and it pays a wage as high as any like concern in our country. Does any rational man believe that this concern, with hundreds of millions of money at its command, needs protection from paupers, the Lord knows whom, located the Lord knows where? Why, not even a mollicodde believes that.

Now these are not war orders, and all the war orders placed in our country do not amount to five per cent of the total of industrial business.

Mr. Lincoln opined it was not good policy to swap horses when crossing a stream. This prosperity American business enjoys is not a mere stream; it is a resistless torrent.

GRAND EXALTED RULER

BANQUET AND SPEECHES

James R. Nicholson of Springfield, Mass., grand exalted ruler, who is about to retire from the position at the head of the national organization of Elks, was tendered a reception and banquet in Prescott hall last night by the members of Lowell lodge, No. 87, B.P.O.E.

The affair is one that will long be remembered by the members of the organization for it brought together one of the largest gatherings of Elks ever held in this city. Col. William L. Grayson of Savannah, Georgia, president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, who is very well known in this city, was a guest during the evening. William F. Regan, past exalted ruler, acted as toastmaster. A feature of the program was the singing of a number dedicated to Grand Exalted Ruler Nicholson and composed by Christopher J. Hagan and James H. Buckley. Among others who contributed to the entertainment were James E. Donnelly, Andrew A. McCarthy, Edward J. Handley, R. J. Robinson and Joseph A. Molloy.

The interior of Prescott hall was artistically decorated, the predominating colors being purple and white and the national colors.

During the course of the event Toastmaster Regan presented a handsome clock to Exalted Ruler Nicholson on behalf of the Lowell lodge of Elks.

The opening address was made by Toastmaster Regan, who outlined the principles of the Elks and in conclusion paid a touching tribute to Exalted Ruler Nicholson.

The next speaker was Mayor James E. O'Donnell, who was received with cheers. He officially welcomed Exalted Ruler Nicholson as the head, not only of the Elks, but of one of the city's industries, and expressed the hope that Mr. Nicholson might come to Lowell to make his permanent residence here.

Mayor O'Donnell paid a splendid tribute to the Elks as an organization and, at its conclusion, called for a standing recognition of the distinguished guest. Exalted Ruler Nicholson

Exalted Ruler Nicholson said he had made 140 visits since last July, and he felt that it was singularly happy that he should pay his last visitation officially to "the Elks" in Lowell.

"I feel it is fitting that I should come back here to give an account of my stewardship for the past year. I wish to speak especially of the patriotic feature of our work, and I want to say with all possible emphasis that there is no organization in the country of fraternal nature that has done more and has acted with more sincerity than the Elks.

"In such times the work of our order in teaching reverence for the flag, and in emphasizing the value of citizenship under the Stars and Stripes, and in the practical giving of much aid in this time of war stands out like a beacon light.

"I stood last week in Boston streets and witnessed the departure of the troops of this state and I felt that the spirit of '76 was still present. I noted the enthusiasm of the multitudes, the lifting of hats in response to the stirring notes of 'The Star Spangled Banner'; and I heard the rhythmic tramp of soldierly feet to martial melodies. I was deeply impressed. There was a scene which this country alone can produce.

"We have seen the soldiers away with pride and sorrow mingled. They have left a commission to us. The day for practical helpful service has arrived. I have heard from a number of district deputies throughout the country who wanted to resign. I said I would not accept a resignation from those who were on the front, and I knew that they were officials worthy of retention, even though absent for the time being.

"I want to say that the 1349 lodges of Elks throughout the country will stand by the men who have gone to the front, and will show in practical fashion the value of Elkhdom in times of storm."

The toastmaster read a letter from Congressman Rogers in which the writer expressed regret at his inability to attend because of urgent matters demanding his presence in Washington.

District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Costley of Gloucester reported for 16 lodges. He referred to the flag day service in his district and stated that

Saturday--lest you forget

Summing up the main points again

"Self praise may be half flattery"—but telling again the story of this Behr Bros. sale and what led up to it, cannot be resisted.

This sale was born of bigness. Its organizers, including ourselves, gave it breadth, scope and liberalities.

We put a good piano back of it—the Behr Bros.—upon which the idea could stand: a piano which for years has sold right in this section at varying prices up to as high as four hundred dollars.

We fixed its price at the lowest possible dollar that the most economical selling methods would permit—two hundred and fifty-seven dollars.

We arranged the easiest sort of payments—one dollar and fifty cents a week.

We charged the most nominal cash fee to participate in this sale—five dollars—and even credited this five dollars to the price of the instrument selected.

We delivered the instrument immediately—notwithstanding the five dollar initial payment did not cover the cartage.

We planned an exchange privilege, which gives the purchaser one year to fully satisfy himself as to the high character of the piano he obtains.

We got up a joint guarantee which stands today as the strongest guarantee given upon anything that is offered for sale.

And finally—we offered to give anyone their money back—provided they will but ask for it within thirty days of the time their piano is delivered.

After reading over this big, broad-gauged, liberal plan, is it any wonder we remind you not to put off —"Lest you forget." Saturday will be a good day to inspect these instruments.

How to obtain one of these BEHR BROS. instruments

To take advantage of this unusual sale, all you have to do is to send or bring in five dollars, for which we will at once give you a receipt. This five dollars is credited to your account, leaving two hundred and fifty-two dollars to be paid.

The plan then allows you one hundred and sixty-eight weeks' time in which to pay this amount—at the rate of one dollar and fifty cents a week.

You may select your piano at once. It's to your advantage to select it now. It will be delivered immediately—next week or next month. The date of delivery is optional with you.

If not convenient for you to personally select your piano, Mr. Shaw will make the selection for you under your instructions, with the understanding that, if at the end of a thirty days' trial the piano is not satisfactory, we will refund your money.

WE ARE SO LIKELY to forget. We are so likely to put off. We get in the habit of thinking that we have plenty of time for this or that.

This great piano sale is now in mind—when we pencil these thoughts. We have in mind that it was even our own expectation, when this sale opened, that it would continue at least three weeks longer.

Now we know that it cannot possibly run for two weeks longer.

This sale has been electrifying. It has been huge—gigantic—stupendous in its success.

Like a snow-ball rolling down hill, it has gathered size and strength as it progressed.

Yesterday we could scarcely serve our customers. Today—the same thing—and tomorrow, being Saturday—and this reminder to quicken your coming—we no doubt will have the largest single day's orders to fill of any one day since this big sale was announced.

Is it, therefore, too much to ask that you come in the forenoon, if you can find it convenient to do so?

The Player-Piano plan is also outlined again

Fifty Behr Bros. player-pianos are also being sold during this unusual sale.

The usual price of these player-pianos is five hundred to six hundred dollars each.

Our sale price is three hundred and ninety-seven dollars.

The player-piano will also be delivered immediately upon the payment of five dollars.

The payments will be two dollars and twenty-five cents a week—giving you one hundred and seventy-four weeks' time in which to make your payments. The same unconditional guarantee that is given on the piano is given on the player-piano.

You can also get your money back at any time within thirty days.

All of the features of this most unusual sale are carried out in offering the player-piano, with the single exception that the terms on the player-piano are two dollars and twenty-five cents a week instead of—as on the piano—one dollar and fifty cents a week.

You get the same privilege of exchanging within one year as that given with the piano.

Also, a player-piano bench and ten rolls of music (your own selection) are included without extra charge.

These player-pianos are standard 88-note players; that is, they play every note on the piano when the music roll is in motion.

These player-pianos have an automatic shifter which compels the music to play perfectly. Most player-pianos sold at from two hundred to two hundred and fifty dollars more than these will not play perfectly.

it was a splendid success. Charles F. J. McGue of Boston and Mark Sullivan of Boston were also heard in speeches. The latter paid a glowing tribute to Exalted Ruler Nicholson.

He referred briefly to the present democratic administration, and while he said he was unable to burst into rhapsodies over the course of events, he believed with Lodge, that every shoulder now should be put to the wheel of state in this situation; and like Decatur, all should arise and affirm "My country, right or wrong."

Col. Grayson Col. Grayson of Savannah was introduced to the tune of "Dixie." He was perfectly at home. Although for a long time head of the Eagles in this country, he is also an Elk and one of the really enthusiastic type. "This meeting," he said, "seems to typify Americanism; it seems to breathe the true patriotic spirit. This organization by virtue of its principles is forever connected with the future of this country. It isn't often that I have the opportunity of addressing you northerners, and I fully appreciate the honor now extended to me. I yield to no man in my love of the one flag, though I like Dixie, where I was born. It is your flag and my flag. Your heart and my heart beat quicker at its sight. Let us think now of our boys on the way to the border. No matter where they come from, they're our boys, and they're marching to the tunes of 'Dixie' and the 'Star Spangled Banner.'"

Col. Grayson's close brought many cheers and with the audience on its feet "America" was sung with unusual fervor. Exalted Ruler William Scott was heard in a brief exposition of Elks' principles.

As the climax of the occasion Toastmaster Regan made a presentation speech, and with the speech went a handsome clock, the gift of the Lowell Elks. The exalted ruler made a fitting address in appreciation.

On the banquet committee were: Brother John J. Lee, P.E.R., chairman; Abel R. Campbell, secretary and treasurer; Exalted Ruler William Scott, Fred H. Rourke, P.E.R.; Hon. George E. Putnam, Christopher J. Hagan, William D. Regan, P.E.R.; Elias A. McQuade, John J. Healey, James H. Walker, Patrick Kelly.

Dr. Finnegan Resigns
Dr. Francis A. Finnegan, examining physician of the Lowell tuberculosis dispensary has resigned to accept the position with the state board of health, to which he was recently appointed as the result of a competitive examination. Mayor O'Donnell's acceptance of Dr. Finnegan's resignation is contained in the following letter:

Dear Dr. Finnegan: Your letter containing notice of your resignation as examining physician of the Lowell tuberculosis dispensary has been received, and because you are tending to accept an important and responsible position your resignation is accepted cheerfully, but otherwise it would be with regret.

Permit me to express my appreciation of the painstaking and efficient service that you have given the city during your incumbency, and to wish you long and continued success and happiness in your new field.
Respectfully,
James E. O'Donnell,
Mayor of Lowell.

AUTO RUNS WILD

BOSTON, June 30.—Otis Chamberlain, a G.A.R. veteran and the oldest letter carrier in Cambridge, and four companions were seriously injured at about 9:30 o'clock last night when the automobile in which they were riding overturned on Walnut street, Somerville.

These in the automobile were Otis Chamberlain, his wife, Martha J. Chamberlain; their daughter, Edna C. Chamberlain, of 41 Armory street, Cambridge; Mrs. Josephine Brooks and her daughter, Mildred Brooks, of 581 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge. When the car began to descend the steep incline of Walnut street, Somerville, it got beyond the control of Miss Chamberlain. Special Officer Burns, who was doing traffic duty near the base of the hill, observed that the car was running wild and pursued it after it passed the base of the hill. The car swerved to the side of the street and partly overturned. All the occupants were thrown to the street. Officer Burns rushed to the car, and with the aid of spectators raised it from the body of Miss Chamberlain, who was partly pinned to the ground. It is thought that the steering gear failed to move at the command of the driver, and that this was responsible for the runaway and the consequent accident.

JURY IN DISAGREEMENT

NEW YORK, June 30.—The jury in the case of Ray Tancor, accused of perjury in identifying James W. Osborne with Oliver Osborne, disagreed yesterday afternoon and was discharged, with thanks for its attention, by Judge C. E. Wolverton in the United States district court. The jurors started their deliberations at 1:30 on Wednesday, and spent four hours and a half in discussion before they went to the Knickerbocker hotel for the night. They resumed deliberations at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, and tried vainly to reach a decision until 3 in the afternoon. At that hour Foreman Frederick Kelly in answer to Judge Wolverton's inquiry in open court said he thought there was no chance of an agreement.

SISTERS ARE GRATEFUL

The sisters and the children at St. Peter's orphanage cordially thank the good people, their kind friends, who so generously furnished automobiles to take them to the "Kasino" yesterday afternoon. The "lovely ride" will be a happy memory to the children, and will be the chief topic of their conversation for days. They thoroughly enjoyed the afternoon, and were jubilant over their "good time." These children are sincerely grateful to Reverend Father Galligan and to Reverend Father O'Connell who spared no effort to make them happy, and they thank all who interested themselves in their merriment.

BUSINESS MEN'S DRILL

Strenuous Day's Practice at Dra-cut—Trenches Dug and Imaginary Enemies Bombarded

The business men's battalion left for the trenches "somewhere in Dra-cut" yesterday afternoon and there was no weeping or wailing at their departure either. If any fond farewells were taken the scenes were enacted at home for a woman showed at the high school annex, the business men's battalion's armory, when the brave fellows went to the front. They presented a line appearance and as long as they remain the state will never need protection, even though every man constituting the Massachusetts Volunteer militia should be called to Mexico. And while we don't want to boast too much about our own, we have the tendency to ascribe that had Carranza, Villa (alias "Mexico's terrible Teddy") or any other of the wool shearing leaders in Mexico seen the business men on their hike yesterday afternoon they would have taken to the woods. There was earnestness, courage and determination written on their countenances and their very step sounded the keynote of victory. It is fortunate for the state to have men like these to take the place of the volunteer militia in time of need.

They looked the very incarnation of the love of home and God-help-the-enemy. There were long and short fat men, long and short lean men, men who looked overfed and men who looked underfed, but all wearing that "stand together and fight it out to the last ditch" expression that makes the enemy quail. We heard that their appearance on the border line would mean the bobbing up of a "real" flag of truce in Mexico. We were proud of them, we were proud of them and we will be proud of them and if there were more than three tenses we would use them. All glory to them, all hail to them and may no evil ever come to them. That's how we feel about it, and we use the pronoun "we" advisedly for, in its broader sense, "we" means many, and in this instance a great many—all of us. Hurrah!

Our enthusiasm is now at such a pitch that we almost feel it our duty to take a recess in order to let it cool down a bit, but far be it from us to leave those brave fellows on the road permanently with perfect ease and safety. Wet your hair all over with Q-Ban, the only guaranteed hair color restorer, every day and expose it to the sunlight and air. Your hair will gradually and evenly change to its original uniform dark shade. Absolutely no trace of gray hair will be left and nobody can ever tell how it happened. Just think of that! Furthermore, your hair will be much more glossy, lustrous, soft and fluffy than ever before—and fascinating to behold.

The secret of this wonderful change in the color of your hair is mainly brought about by a process of oxidation (oxygen in the air) which results from drying your hair in the sunlight and air after Q-Ban has been applied. Sunlight and air are Nature's own medicines and a very important part of the Q-Ban process. Only in this way—with Q-Ban and the aid of sunlight and air—can the color be permanently and safely restored to your hair. Make no mistake about this—all preparations claiming to instantly restore the color to your hair are fakes or treacherous dyes.

Q-Ban is made from a scientific formula of glycerine, alcohol, ethyle and perfume discovered after years of laboratory study and approved by the greatest chemical experts in the world, including Prof. Von Huber. Everybody uses Q-Ban nowadays, because it is safe and sane and the only guaranteed liquid hair color restorer that is absolutely free from dangerous, dirty, sticky dyes and paints and we want you to know the facts.

Get Q-Ban today—do not let it do anything until you get it at Riker-Jaynes Drug Store, 121 Merrimack St., Lowell, Mass.—50c a bottle—write Riker-Jaynes Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn. Money refunded if not more than delighted. The famous Q-Ban Hair Tonic, Hair Shampoo and Toilet Soap are also available. Write for authoritative booklet on hair culture—free.

One member of the battalion, thoroughly acquainted with the country, led the way to an elevation which commanded a sweep of the vast "war panorama—the Mexican trenches, plainly visible only 500 yards away, to the left the historic old yellow meeting house in which so many happy couples were united, was in danger of being torn to pieces by shells, while other old landmarks had been entirely wiped out. Through the vista of trees the old building of the Navy Yard were dimly outlined (behind the curtain of smoke). A terrific bombardment was in progress, and the crash of shells and whizz of bullets echoed all along the front. "That's a Newton shell," said a fellow who had worked in the Newton Mfg. Co., when a crash more terrible than the rest rent the air.

The commanding general turned to the Associated Press representative who was privileged to accompany this notable party. "Come up here," said the general, "and get a good survey of the scene." And climbing to this point of vantage, the party looked out on one point after another designated as those on which the ravages of war had fallen heaviest.

Meanwhile the main body of the battalion was busy digging trenches. Men unaccustomed to the shovel and the Irish anchor, sometimes called pick, went to it in good shape and before the sun went down a long trench 2½ feet in depth, which is 1½ feet shy of the regulation trench, had been dug and there were those among the diggers who wanted to stay in the trench over night rather than hike home.

While the digging was going on, other companies were putting in their work on the targets and this seemed novel work for most of them, too. Lieut. Cashin of Company K of the Sixth regiment was in command at the target ranges and he was assisted by Lieut. Duffy of Company C and Andrew Y. Rodger, a former militiaman and one time member of the state rifle team. Some of the men who will some day fight for their country—perhaps—made good scores. There was Herford N. Elliott, for instance. He scored 22 out of a possible 25 and Herford was probably the most surprised man in the crowd. This was the 200-yard range, and at the revolver target, 40-foot range, he scored a perfect record in three shots, so if you value your life don't have any words with Herford. Another fellow to keep on good terms with is Ira Boothby. He made a perfect score at the revolver range with five shots. Dr. Matthew Mahoney was the king of the 300-yard range, the most difficult of all. He made 17 out of a possible 25. The heavy automatic pistol was used.

The return trip was made in special electric about 6 p. m. and after their long hike and arduous duties in preparing for the enemy that is liable to be heard from at any time, the boys didn't consider it the least bit graceful to ride home, and according to last night's late despatches the event was considered highly successful.

This last little remark that we are about to make should have been included elsewhere in the story and in this belated fashion it probably should be given a seat in the P. S. row, but P. S.'s don't go in war correspondence, and, anyhow, it doesn't make much difference where or how it goes. If you don't want to read it, you don't have to.

The incident has to do with Omer Smith, the genial, efficient and patriotic janitor at the Market street building, commonly called "police station." On the march to the to-be-made-trenches in Dra-cut, Omer was instructed to keep 35 paces in the rear, acting, so far as our war knowledge goes, as rear guard, but our war knowledge extends only a few hundred yards beyond the old yellow meeting house. It is characteristic of Omer to pay strict attention to orders and yesterday was no exception, but his friends in Aiken street and along through there, didn't seem to appreciate it, for this is what Omer was getting all along the line: "Deposited Omer, his son to me, it's fast chauld, hein? Prends men bi-cycle to te rendras plus vite et te fatiguera moins," which means, in English: "Hurry up Omer, they will lose you. Hot ain't it? Take my bicycle and you will get there quicker and with less exertion." It was very evident that they thought Omer could not keep pace with his comrades.

FRIDAY, SATURDAY AND MONDAY

With conditions forcing many of them to handle and sell woollens not good enough for a South Sea Islander two years ago

I Will Give the Clothing Trade a Jolt this Week

FIRST—I am going to give you woollens—decent worsted woollens—woollens made from silk and worsted yarns and not from the bark of trees, understand me—worsted, not cassimeres.

SECONDLY—I am going to sell these goods on the old time purchasing power of a dollar—not on the present day European war inflation basis.

THIRDLY—To every customer ordering a suit Friday, Saturday and Monday, he has only to ask for it and I will give him a pair of trousers absolutely free of charge, made to his measure.

I want to put two hundred new customers on my books during this sale. In ordinary times you could go any place and get fair clothing for $12.00, $15.00 so many of you never got around to give me a trial.

Today things are different—if you want goods like a man ought to wear and haven't a pocketful of money to pay for a suit, you'd better make up your mind to come to my store, where you know I am a crank on good worsteds and carry nothing else.

WOOD'S COLLEGE

Closing Exercises at Associate Hall—The Graduates

Associate hall was the scene of a very pretty gathering last evening, when the graduating exercises of Wood's Business college took place. The stage was prettily decorated with flags and bunting, intermingled with the class colors, which were crimson and gold. The front and the sides of the stage were covered with lattice work, and interwoven in this were yellow flowers, giving a very beautiful effect, while in the background was set the seal of the school, "Business Efficiency."

MR. ELLIOTT F. WOOD, Principal

The hall was also strung with bunting, and the balconies were covered with white, while the centre of the hall had a network of flowers, giving an unusual touch to the whole, and setting off to advantage the white gowns and dark suits of the graduates.

whose subject was "Patience and Perseverance."

Following the usual custom, Mr. Harold Rostrom Entwistle, president of the class of 1916, presented the school with a bust of George Washington, set on a pedestal. The gift was accepted by the principal, Mr. Elliott F. Wood, who briefly thanked the class and also gave the graduates some good advice.

Hon. James E. O'Donnell addressed the graduates, after which he presented

becoming more and more popular each day.

Secretary John H. Murphy, of the board of trade and Mrs. Murphy have gone to the latter's home in Vermont until after the Fourth.

The last session of the course in personal efficiency which has been given at the Y.M.C.A. during the past 15 weeks was held last night when R. C. Griswold of New York city, the instructor, gave an interesting summary of the former lectures.

The dumps are on the rampage again. This morning at 10:28 a telephone alarm summoned engine 4 to extinguish a fire on Stackpole street dump and at 10:58 hose 12 was called to put out a fire on the Alken street dump.

Miss Matilda Sharpe of 14 Shaffer street is on an extended vacation tour that will include New York City, Washington, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and other points of interest. Miss Sharpe intended to go to Europe but conditions there due to war prevented.

The local employees of the post office are endeavoring to popularize the U. S. Postal Guide, and the monthly supplements as showing clearly the rules of the department relative to parcel post and other matters on which much time is lost at the post office dealing with people who know nothing of the rules.

Mrs. Glendower Evans, a member of the lecture party which is touring the states under the auspices of the Women's Peace party, will speak in Lowell on Saturday evening, July 1, at 7:45 o'clock. The speaker will deliver an address on "The Great War and What to Do About It," and she will speak from an automobile at the corner of Jackson and Central streets.

A very interesting neighborhood suffrage meeting was held Wednesday evening, June 28th, at the home of Miss MacDougall, 51 Gates street, under the auspices of the Massachusetts Woman's Suffrage association. The speakers were Mrs. James Stuart Murphy, chairman of the Lowell district, and Mrs. Wm. E. Sprague of Lowell, and Miss Carson, of Boston.

DEATHS

CARTER.—The many friends of John Townsend Carter, formerly of Lowell, will be grieved to learn of his death at his home in Topsham, Vermont, on June 27. Mr. Carter was well known among those who remember his skill as an artist and wood carver, examples of his art being in many of the public buildings and private homes of this city. He was born in this city on April 8, 1841, and was in business here for many years, as a cabinet maker on Fletcher street. He is survived by a widow, Aileen M. Carter, and three children, Frank J. Carter of Topsham, Vermont, Robert M. Carter of Milwaukee, Wis., and Catherine B. Carter of Lowell.

ROCK.—Joseph Rock, a well known resident of this city, aged 40 years, died today at his home, 23 Arthur street, after a lingering illness. He is survived by his wife, three daughters, Mildred, Beatrice and Doris; two sons, Theodore and Oswald; three sisters, Mrs. Amanda Boule of Fall River, Mrs. Demora of Pawtucket, R. I., and Mrs. Rosanna Bidou of this city; two brothers, Athanasius of Hartford, Conn. and Telephore of this city.

DESMARIS.—Mrs. Frank Desmarais nee Antoinette Martel, aged 42 years, died today at her home, 16 Marshall street. She leaves besides her husband, two daughters, Lea and Berthe and a sister, Mrs. Harry Eno.

LEVASSEUR.—Roland, aged 10 months, died today at the home of the parents, Delphis and Aurore Levasseur, 57 Marshall street.

FUNERALS

DANE.—The funeral of Hermon Dane was held from his home, 19 Grove street, yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. James M. Craig, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and Rev. F. A. Wilson, pastor of the First Congregational church at Andover. Appropriate selections were sung by Mrs. Fred L. Roberts. Delegations were present representing Chevalier and Highland Veritas lodge, 6 L.O.O.F. The following delegation from the Knights of Pythias conducted the committal service at the grave and also acted as bearers: F. E. Porter, C. C. Doff Myrick, F. C. F. Nichols, F. C. A. A. Clark and R. F. Wilkins. Burial was in the family lot in the Spring Grove cemetery at Andover. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Mr. Archibald Higgins, under the direction of Undertaker George W. Healey.

FUNERAL NOTICES

CRIVAN.—The funeral of Mrs. Ann Crivan will take place Saturday morning at 8 o'clock from the funeral chambers of Higgins Bros., 511 Lawrence street. High mass of requiem will be celebrated at the Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock. Burial will take place in St. Patrick's cemetery. Funeral arrangements in charge of Undertakers Higgins Bros.

DESMARIS.—The funeral of Mrs. Frank Desmarais will take place tomorrow morning from the home, 16 Marshall street. Solemn high mass of requiem at Notre Dame de Lourdes church at 9 o'clock. Friends invited. Funeral arrangements in charge of Undertakers Joseph Albert & Son.

LANGLEY.—Died in this city, June 29, at his home, 83 Tremont street, Mark M. Langley, aged 23 years, 1 month, 16 days. Prayers will be said at his home, 93 Fremont street, Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and services will be held at the Universalist church at 2 o'clock. Friends invited to attend. Burial private. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Undertakers Young & Blake.

NUTTER.—The funeral of Mrs. Bridget M. Nutter will take place Saturday morning at 8 o'clock from her home, 19 Albion street. At 9 o'clock a high mass of requiem will be sung at St. Michael's church. Burial in St. Patrick's cemetery in charge of James P. O'Donnell & Sons.

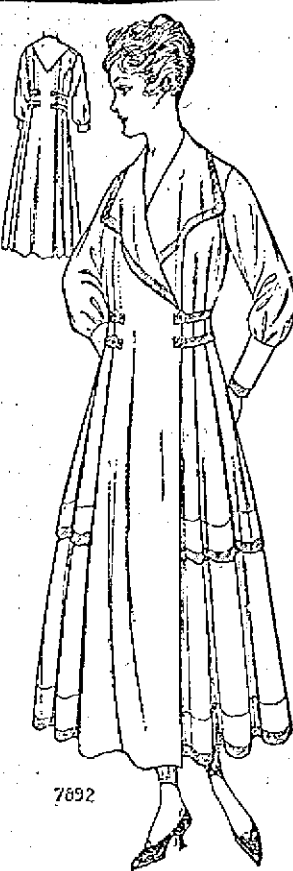

MATRIMONIAL

Mosher-Kiessling
Francis Elmer Mosher of this city and Miss Helen Kiessling of Lawrence were married Wednesday by Rev. Benjamin R. Harris, pastor of Paige Street Baptist church, at his home in Methuen street. The couple will make their home in Chelmsford.

Bourque-Bourque
Emile Bourque and Miss Eva Bourque were married Wednesday evening at St. Joseph's rectory, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Augustin Gratton, O.M.I. Joseph C. Surprenant was best man, while the bridesmaid was Miss Josephine Ledoux. After an extended wedding trip to Canada the couple will make their home at 19 Lombard street.

Slavin-Gruzinger
Michael J. Slavin, formerly of this city and now of Amsterdam, N. Y., and Miss Mary G. Gruzinger of the same place, were married Tuesday morning, the ceremony being performed at a nuptial mass at St. Joseph's church, Amsterdam, by the pastor, Rev. F. Laura. The best man was George Rogers of this city, while the bridesmaid was Miss Elsie Brindley. The bride wore white Georgette crepe and a picture hat and carried lilacs of the valley. The bridesmaid was attired in pink crepe de chine; she wore a picture hat and carried pink roses. The bridegroom's gift to the best man was a gold stick pin, while the bride's favor to the bridesmaid was a wrist watch. After a honeymoon spent in Baltimore, New York and this city, where the couple will be the guests of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Slavin, 612 Chelmsford

WILSON IN FIGHTING MOOD

President Ready to Enforce Golden Rule With Nations at Any Cost to Himself, He Declares

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—President Wilson, describing himself as "a fighting mood," furnished yesterday to a large crowd of auditors in Independence Square, his conception of some of the cardinal American ideals. He declared that America, in dealing with other nations, must "vindicate at whatever cost its principles of liberty, justice and humanity," that "America first" must be translated into action exalting it above all selfish interests, and that the nation's policy and development must be guided by the whole people and not by any group.

IF YOU WORRY, READ THIS

We all have our troubles and worry, of course, makes matters worse. The patient generally recognizes this fact without being able to profit by it.

The doctor who could meet this nervous condition and cure it would be the most popular medical man alive. But he cannot do it because the form of nervous exhaustion known as neurasthenia, of which worry is a characteristic symptom, must be cured by the patient himself. That is why you should write today for the book "Diseases of the Nervous System" and read the chapter on "Neurasthenia." So many people have read it and written back, "This hits my case exactly, I am giving the treatment a trial and being benefited," that the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., has had a lot of these books printed and will send you a copy free on request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a non-alcoholic tonic, particularly suited for nervous, neurasthenic people. Your druggist sells them or they will be mailed postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50.

"I believe," the president said, "that America, the country we put first in our thoughts, should be ready in every point of policy and of action to vindicate at whatever cost the principles of liberty, of justice and of humanity, to which we have been devoted from the first."

"I believe that at whatever cost, America should be just to other people, and treat other people as she demands that they should treat her. She has a right to demand that they treat her with justice and respect, but she has a right to insist that they treat her in that fashion, but she cannot with dignity or with self-respect insist upon that unless she is willing to act in that same fashion toward them."

"That I am ready to fight for at any cost to myself."

Urging that the whole people should shape the national policies, the president said that some men pretended to believe in the average man, but when they acted they showed they did not.

"America first" means nothing unless you translate it into what you do," was a statement that brought prolonged applause. Cheers also greeted the president's declaration that while he was not interested in fighting for himself he was "immensely interested in fighting for the things that I believe in, and so far as they are concerned I am a challenger to all comers."

Officially, the president addressed delegates to the convention to the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, but a mixed crowd heard him. He spoke in the open air, under the shadow of Independence Hall. He left for Washington immediately after the address.

The President's Speech
President Wilson said:
"You will understand that I have not come here to make an extended address. I do not need to explain to you the circumstances which have made it impossible that I should prepare an extended address, but I count myself very fortunate to be able to leave my duties at Washington for a few moments to face this interesting company of men who have the very fine conception that it is their duty to lift the standards and ideals of their profession.

"I understand, gentlemen, that you have associated yourselves together in order to promote candor and truth in the advertisement of your business. I wish very much, gentlemen, that candor and truth might always be the standard of politics as well as the standard of business. I want to challenge your attention for a moment to this aspect of your activities."

"I do not see how a man can devote promotion of a particular business without studying the life of the great nation to whom he addresses his advertising. I do not see how a man can fall, having established the horizon of his business where the great hills of truth lie, to lift his eyes to the great multitude of laboring men and striving women who constitute a great nation like ours, and in the very act of addressing them get in his own consciousness some part of the impulse of their life."

"You cannot commend your business to people that you do not understand, and you cannot understand the people of the United States without wishing to serve them."

"So I come to you with this thought: America is at a point, gentlemen, where it is more than ever necessary that she should understand her own needs; not only that, but be ready to put them into action at any cost. It is one thing to entertain fine principles and another thing to make them work. It is one thing to entertain them in the formulas of words like the splendid words which were uttered in and have given distinction to this ancient and historic guiding light, but it is another thing to do what those same men did, make those words live in the action of their lives. And America is summoned in each new generation to renew not only the pledges that those men made, but to renew the example which they gave to the world."

"I am not interested, and I beg that you will believe me when I say that I never have been interested in fighting for myself, but I am immensely interested in fighting for the things that I believe in, and so far as they are concerned I am a challenger to all comers. It is important, therefore, since I am in fighting mood, to let you know what are some of the things that I do believe in."

Put Country First
"In the first place, I believe, and I summon you to show your belief in the same thing, that it is the duty of every American in everything that he does, in his business and out of it, to think first, not of himself or of any interest which he may be called upon to sacrifice, but of the country which we serve."

"America first" means nothing unless you translate it into what you do. So I believe most profoundly in the duty of every American to exalt the national consciousness by purifying his own motives and exhibiting his own devotion."

"In the second place, that America, the country that we put first in our thoughts, should be ready in every point of policy and of action to vindicate at whatever cost the principles of liberty, of justice, and of humanity to which we have been devoted from the first. You cheer the sentiment, but do you realize what it means?"

"It means that you have not only got to be just your fellow men, but that as a nation you have got to be just to other nations. It comes high."

some of the things I have been obliged to do before I came here you would know that I could not possibly make a speech up—but merely to show my profound interest in a body of men who are not only devoted to business, but devoted to ideals.

"Business is all right so long as it is not sordid, and it cannot be sordid if it is shot through with ideals. A man, no matter how humble his business, can hold his head up among the princes of the world if, as he ought, he will think of himself as the servant of the people and not as their master, as one who would serve and not as one who would govern."

"I congratulate you, my fellow-citizens, upon the ideals of a profession which can lower or exalt business as you choose, and which you have chosen to employ for its exaltation. I came away from Washington to look into your faces and get some of the enthusiasm which I always get when I come away from officialdom and touch hand to hand with great bodies of the free American people."

HIGH CLASS RECITAL

PUPILS OF MRS. CAROLINE WHITE
McNALLY PLEASE AT COLONIAL ITALIA.

A group of the pupils of Mrs. Caroline White McNally gave an exceptionally pleasing and artistic piano-forte recital last evening in Colonial Hall before a large and delighted audience. The program was more exacting than that usually attempted by young pupils, but throughout the pupils played with an intelligent appreciation of the meaning of the music while displaying the brilliant technique which has always distinguished their teacher. The young players were more than mechanical performers; they were real musicians, made so by intelligent supervision and a faithful adherence to the highest standards. Mrs. McNally played in selections with the pupils and in solo and there were vocal numbers by Mrs. Robert Lister, soprano, of Boston. Following was the program in full:

Andra's Dance Grieg
In the Hall of the Mountain King Grieg
Misses Helen Quigley, Mildred Denver, Mary Blake and Mrs. McNally.
Romance, Op. 26 Beethoven
Polonaise, Op. 26, No. 1 Chopin
Miss Ethel Dixon.
Aria, Ritorina Vincitori (Alida) Verdi
Mrs. Lister.

Isabelle Adam
Misses Anna Donohoe, Bertha Chapman, Emma Labrie and Mrs. McNally.
Consolation III Liszt
Novellotto Strakoski
Waltz in E Mozowski
Prelude in E Minor Mendelssohn
Liebestraume Liszt
Love Has Wings Rogers
Wind Song Rogers
Come to the Garden Salter
Mrs. Lister.
Valse des Filles Ketterer
Misses Germaine O'Leary and Emma Labrie.
Etude, If I Were a Bird Henselt
Etude, Op. 25, No. 2 Chopin
Etude, Op. 48, No. 7 Kullak
Miss Dixon.
Andante Sostenuto, from Concerto in G minor Saint Saens
Mrs. McNally.
Orchestra accompaniment arranged for second piano and played by Miss Chapman.

The opening selections with four performers at two pianos immediately established the recital as something more than a perfunctory display of mechanical ability. The Grieg numbers were played in a spirited sympathetic fashion that reflected a poetic quality in the interpreters. The other selections played by more than one soloist showed great ability in memorizing and the power to keep each part so as to produce a perfect effect in unison. The solo numbers were especially finished, again demonstrating the power of memorizing and playing so as to make the audience know what the composer strives to express. The reputation of Mrs. Caroline White McNally does not depend on her recitals, but that of last evening confirmed the conviction that she plays to her musical feeling.

Mrs. Lister of Boston who is well known to Lowell audiences, is always delightful as a concert soloist. Her selection from Aida was given with beautiful tone and expression and her group of songs was so arranged as to demonstrate her artistry in different modes of singing. She added just the touch needed to give zest to the instrumental numbers and rounded out a truly enjoyable and educational recital that was appreciated and applauded by the audience.

How to stop dandruff and loss of hair with Resinol

Here is a simple, inexpensive treatment that will almost always stop dandruff and scalp itching, and keep the hair thick, live and lustrous:

At night, spread the hair apart and rub a little Resinol Ointment into the scalp gently, with the tip of the finger. Repeat this until the whole scalp has been treated. Next morning, shampoo thoroughly with Resinol Soap and hot water. Work the creamy Resinol lather well into the scalp. Rinse with gradually cooler water, the last water being cold.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment easily heal most skin eruptions. Sold by all druggists. Trial free, Dept. 15-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

TWO NEW PITCHERS

PIEPER SIGNS TWO BIG LEAGUE
TWIRLERS RECALLED FROM
HARTFORD—ONE 16 YEARS OLD

Louis P. Pieper, manager of the Lynn club, has recalled two pitching stars, who will join Lynn immediately. Dick McCabe, who last season pitched for Lynn, now the property of the Red Sox, will report, while Walt Hoyt, the New York schoolboy phenom, who has been a member of the New York Giants, is also scheduled to don a Lynn uniform. McCabe was sent to Hartford this season, but when Heinie Wagner was ousted as manager by Owner Clarkin, Carrigan recalled McCabe, as the latter player stated that he was not satisfied. He wanted to play with Lynn. Pieper arranged matters with President Lannin and Manager Carrigan for McCabe to come here.

Hoyt was signed two years ago by McGraw and he has been kept on the Giants' bench drinking in baseball knowledge every day under the eye of the Little Napoleon of baseball. Pieper and McGraw held a conference Sunday and Monday. McGraw said he would allow Hoyt to come here but the Giants still hold a string on him. Hoyt is 16 years old at the present time and is said to be a fellow who will deliver the goods.

FORMER NEW ENGLAND LEAGUE
TWIRLER SAID TO HAVE BARREL
OF STUFF

Our old friend, Buck Freeman, one-time slugger with the Boston Americans, and now umpiring in the International league, comes to bat with the assertion that Rebel McTigue, former Brave and Tiger hurler, but at present pitching for the Toronto Leafs, has more stuff than any other pitcher he ever worked behind. McTigue started his career in the New England league. McTigue, who, despite a good record on the spring training trip, was turned back to Toronto by Manager Jennings after five innings of big league ball, is making quite a record in the minor organizations. With a sixth place club, the lengthy southpaw has registered six wins, four defeats, one tie game, and twice hurled one-hit shutouts, and against Rochester on May 20, and the other against Providence, league leaders, on Saturday last. In each of the above contests the hits were of the decidedly fine variety, and the slow roller to the infield which spoiled a perfect record in Rochester on Memorial day, came after two men had been retired in the ninth inning.

M'INNIS TO REMAIN

STUFF, IT IS REPORTED—MACK
NEEDS HIM

If you are a dead game sport and wish to bet on a sure thing, place your money on "Stuffy" McInnis to continue as the first baseman for the Mackmen. There has been a lot of talk that the boy from Gloucester will be traded, the last story emanating from Cleveland, which indicated that "Stuffy" was being sought by the Red Sox.

President Lannin has denied that he sought the services of McInnis, and Connie Mack put his official denial on the yarn. "Stuffy" is all that Connie had left of the million dollar infield that used to shine in the days of yore and he intends to hold him.

"Stuffy" is young, but he has had a lot of experience and next year he will be needed to undertake the work of construction as Lajoie's contract expires at the end of 1916 and he will have to look for something new to do. There is not a change in the world of any other team getting "Stuffy." Mack needs him in his rebuilding plans. The man that used to head the world's series trust did not wish to discuss the chances of his own team. "I don't wish to talk about my team," he said.

"It is not a bad team and it will be heard from later. We did not win a game in the west, but we did not play so awfully bad. I am not going to place the blame for defeats in any specific place, but later on we will be heard from."

Connie thinks pretty well of Cleveland. He thought the team played great ball when he looked them over. Their attack was very similar to that of the Tigers and Athletics of other days. He did not think that they were stealing anybody's signals.

Is Connie Mack downhearted? No!

Lowell and Hartford will play a double header at Spaulding park tomorrow.

Helfrich, who played second base with the team in the Connecticut cities, is a third baseman. He was with the Brooklyn team in the Federal league.

Paddy Green's arm went back on him in the seventh inning when five hits and a couple of errors gave the visitors five runs.

In the last three games played, Lowell has outbatted its opponents but has not put over the needed runs.

Manager Kilhullen made a shift in the batting order which should bring better results the way the men are hitting at present.

SALLEE QUILTS GAME

ST. LOUIS TWIRLER SAYS HE IS
ALL DONE—OWNER TURNED DOWN $10,000 OFFER

ST. LOUIS, June 30.—Harry Sallee, pitcher for the St. Louis Nationals, has retired from the game, according to a statement issued by Schuyler V. Britton, president of the club.

"Sallee told me that he had quit the game," the statement says. "I wanted to reinstate him, because we wanted him, but he told me that he was tired of the game. Sallee did not ask to be traded. I had an offer of $10,000 cash for him and New York wanted to give me Tesreau for him, but I turned down both propositions. I hope he changes his mind."

Sallee was suspended two weeks ago for leaving the club in New York and failing to report at Cincinnati.

ROTH MAY STOP RACING

Arthur V. Roth, crack marathoner of the Dorchester club and winner of the B.A.A. race on Patriots day, has announced that he will retire from athletics after next Tuesday if he is defeated in the 12-mile run that is to be held in connection with the annual field day of Division 22, A.O.U., at the South End grounds, Boston.

HANS WAGNER TO WED

JOHN HENRY, VETERAN PIRATE
SHORTSTOP, TO WED DAUGHTER OF PITTSBURGH DETECTIVE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 30.—John Henry Wagner, the veteran Pirate shortstop, is preparing to become a blushing bridegroom. County Detective John G. Smith admitted yesterday that the great Hans will wed Bessie Elaine Smith, aged 24, probably at the close of the baseball season next fall. Miss Smith, daughter of the county detective, is a popular young woman of Crafton Heights. She is an enthusiastic baseball fan and has attended nearly every game played here by the Pirates in the last four years. Wagner, as an amateur, played baseball with his interested bride's father, on the back lots of Carnegie and Crafton. Smith was a pitcher and is just a few years older than the Pirate shortstop.

DIAMOND DAZZLES

Heinie Wagner, recently released as manager of the Hartford team, was out practicing at third base with the Red Sox before the game and did some classy work around the hot corner.

Jack Barry was back in the Red Sox lineup for the first time in six weeks, taking McNally's place at the bat in the fifth inning and then going to second. Jack had hardly settled in his position when he made a wonderful catch of a line fly.

Manager Carrigan is not a bit disconcerted over the two defeats and is still confident the Red Sox will repeat last year's performance and again land the pennant.

He does not fear the Cleveland team at all, but has some respect for the Griffins, who he admits are a much improved ball team over what they were formerly. "I am confident that when the race narrows down to the real test we will land on top," said Carrigan last evening. "I believe I have the best team. There is more class to it than most of our rivals can boast of, and in due time it will be proved that class will tell."

The Braves are suffering a batting slump. Yesterday they got but four hits off Pitcher Smith of Brooklyn.

The Tankees got a grip on first place yesterday by trimming the Mackmen while the Indians accepted defeat from St. Louis.

After being defeated five straight games, the Philadelphia champions took both games of a double-header from the Giants. In the first game but 27 men faced Pitcher Rixey.

Wolfgang, formerly of Lowell, pitched Chicago to victory and into the first division yesterday. He allowed the Tigers but four hits in the entire game and of these Cobb and fieldman got two each.

TO SAVE DAYLIGHT

CITY OF MANCHESTER TO MAKE
THE CHANGE ON SUNDAY, JULY 1

MANCHESTER, June 30.—Representatives from all organizations and interests of the city will meet on Wednesday, July 5, to hear the report of the directors of the Manchester Publicity association which is investigating the much-talked-of daylight saving plan.

The Queen City wants to be identified with this popular movement, and some definite action will surely be taken, it is said. Final decision on this plan of daylight saving will be made at the meeting.

The proposed time for shifting the clocks ahead an hour is Sunday evening, July 2. In order that everyone may know just when the change goes into effect, and that all clocks will be set forward together, the whistles and bells will start giving the notice at 8:30. The signals will be given at five minute intervals until 9 o'clock at which time it will suddenly become 10 o'clock. Presto, the trick is done, and women who have been the same age for several years will be at least one hour older.

All the industries favor the change.

EASTERN LEAGUE COMMENT

There are three Martins, all pitchers, in the Eastern league. Portland has one, New London has another and Worcester has just signed up a Martin who started the season with Bridgeport.

Holmes, the Hartford first baseman, led the Eastern league batters yesterday with five singles in as many trips to the plate.

The Fourth of July games between Lowell and Lawrence have been transferred. Owing to the big preparedness parade in the down river city in the morning, the game will be played here at 10:30 and the afternoon game in Lawrence will be called at 3:30.

Hartford is kicking about the work of Tom Bannon, claiming that his work in recent games has been away off. Hartford may join with Billy Hamilton in the move to have Tom removed.

Dick McCabe, the Lynn pitcher secured from the Boston Red Sox, was hit hard by Hartford yesterday. McCabe was with the Hartford team for a time earlier in the season.

The Eastern league magnates are praying for one thing and that is that Saturday of this week and the Fourth are ideal days for baseball. If it should rain on both those days it would be a blow that the league would have extreme trouble getting over. Good weather, however, will go a great ways to help the magnates out.

—Lawrence Tribune.

Lynn is to have a Boosters' day at Ocean park on Saturday, July 8, with the New London millionaires the lucky ones. The Lynn papers are now boosting for a big attendance and say that the turn out of the fans will have a bearing on whether or not league baseball will be continued in Lynn.

Of the five games this year in the Eastern league in which clubs got 16 hits, Springfield has figured in four of them. The Ponies made their fourth 16 hit affair at Bridgeport this week.

Secretary Dan O'Neill of the Eastern league announces that after July 1 all second games of double headers shall be shortened to seven innings. His ruling is that in view of the postponements in the early part of the season there will be many double headers to be played and he thinks that they should all be uniform. This decision is being protested by the Connecticut papers. O'Neill should leave this question to the teams and umpires.

Interest begins Saturday, July 1st, at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

MR. HUGHES' ISSUES

Although the republican platform was general enough to commit Mr. Hughes to no special policy, it is difficult to see how he can advance one strong issue in his campaign against President Wilson. It is a year of great events and the international developments in which the United States must take part are such as to dwarf into insignificance any purely domestic agitation. A few years ago the tariff might have proved a stumbling block to the democratic administration, but when the country is so prosperous and when the full dinner pail is the rule rather than the exception, the tariff has no force as a campaign issue. Moreover, this administration is out for a tariff commission on a scientific basis and the ground has been cut from under those who would have talked tariff as a vote producer.

How about the hyphen? The balance is all with President Wilson who has mapped out a course that can neither be ignored or controverted. It is not likely that Mr. Hughes will deliberately alienate any support of the hyphenated variety but he cannot afford to emphasize or arouse the democratic issue at a time when the patriotism of America is touched to the quick and when any foreign machinations in this country could not be regarded without arousing strong American indignation. The more the organized hyphenated vote shows itself for Mr. Hughes, the more pressing shall be the necessity for him to disclaim any pandering to this element in the community. Moreover, the union with Roosevelt will make the lot of the so-called foreign voters anything but comfortable, and whenever they force the issue on the attention of the country, the advantage shall be with President Wilson who has nothing to withdraw in word or action against such machinations.

How about Mexico—the factor most depended on by President Wilson's opponents? Again, this might have been made good campaign material some time ago, but while the relations are so critical, references to it during campaign time will be in questionable taste, whether in a national or a political sense. We now see more of the justice of President Wilson's position than at any time since the death of Madero, and the consistent policy of Washington in trying circumstances looms up above all factional opposition. It is not strange that Mr. Hughes hesitates so long about announcing his issues. He is without one strong argument in favor of a change of government.

SCHOOL GRADUATES

The diplomas have been presented, the fine speeches have been said and another large crop of Lowell boys and girls have severed their connection with the schools of the city. Many—too many unfortunately—will not go to high school and comparatively few of those who have graduated from high school will go to college. Some are constrained by circumstances to abandon all ideas of higher education, while again some short sighted ones deliberately throw aside their chances and choose to go to work rather than to go on with their education.

Even at the risk of appealing to deaf ears, The Sun urges all who can do so to take advanced courses of education, whether in one of the recognized colleges or universities or in higher schools of this city. No regret is heard expressed more frequently or more sincerely than the regret of those who see too late where they threw aside their chances to fill higher places in the world than they can now aspire to.

Those who cannot go to college and who must go to work should not think that their chances of education are permanently closed. We have many splendid schools where our boys and girls may take special courses and fit themselves for higher places in the ladder of life. Whether in the textile school, the vocational school, the evening commercial college, or some of the private schools with which Lowell is well provided, all who are ambitious may discover the means of later competing with those who, through good fortune, are able to go to Harvard or Dartmouth or Holy Cross or any of the other larger colleges.

The world of today has no place for the uneducated man. The operative at the loom is expected to become an expert, the salesman must regard his vocation as a science, the janitor of old days has become a building manager. It is the age of efficiency and the expert and the way to secure future recognition and to walk with confidence and assurance is to be a student always and never to conclude that the need for further education is past. The graduate of 1916 and the graduate of 1906 alike are amateurs in the work of the modern world.

POLAR EXPEDITIONS

Spite of the discovery of the north pole by Peary and the discovery of the south pole by Amundsen, the lure of arctic and antarctic exploration still calls modern investigators into the wastes of ice around the poles, and

from time to time strange tales of human endurance or of tragic defeat come from some far away icy cape beyond the reach of civilization. After the tragic death of Captain Scott and his companions, Sir Ernest Shackleton started another antarctic expedition which has met defeat in the old way. In a telegram sent from Port Stanley, Sir Ernest tells of his escape with a few of his companions, leaving twenty-two comrades in an ice hole on Elephant Isle with little hope that they shall ever come out of it alive. The ice conditions are so bad that only a special ship would stand any chance of getting through, and their supplies are low, they being forced to depend on the meat of penguins, the supply of which is not assured. The world may not ponder much on their fate owing to the terrible tragedies that are reported daily in the waste of wars, but there is something peculiarly gripping in the thought of 22 brave, strong men doomed to die from cold and starvation in the wastes of eternal ice and snow.

As a contrast to the despairing news from Shackleton comes an apparently authentic report that the ship sent to the arctic to rescue Donald B. McMillan and his Crocker land expedition has succeeded. A letter from the captain of the ship to his family tells of the rescue and of the plans for the return, adding the characteristic touch: "There were some members who wanted to remain for another year." It is a story of triumph over "a jam of ice and a gale" and later a broken crankshaft, but the fact seems assured that while one party meets death in the far away antarctic, another will come back to the world of men and events from the equally far arctic. And, notwithstanding success or failure, men will for years to come organize bands of adventurers and strive to conquer nature in pioneer ways where they who play the game play with death as the stake, and nevertheless play the game gallantly.

A HISTORICAL DINNER

A few nights ago Charles E. Hughes, aspirant for the presidency and Theodore Roosevelt, ex-aspirant for the same office, dined together in peace and harmony and mutual good will. No statement was given out and no reporters were present, but this did not prevent the occasion becoming one of the historical events of the year. Greatly would the American public like to get a little inside information on what was said and done and planned, but Mr. Hughes talks very little and Mr. Roosevelt has learned that if he is to serve his chief he too must talk in greater moderation than hitherto.

There is nothing to prevent one's imagining that politics was touched on only slightly and it is highly unlikely that Mr. Hughes asked his guest to explain why he made slighting reference to the Hughes whiskers. The progressive vote may and may not have been analyzed and weighed by two master strategists, but since we must depend only on possibilities the first guess is that the weak spots in the Wilson campaign arguments were sought after eagerly. The one link the binds the twain most strongly is a common bond of opposition to President Wilson, and from now on Mr. Roosevelt will unquestionably lose no opportunity to attack the present administration in order to advance the candidacy of Mr. Hughes. It was a great dinner surely, but not until present politics have become history and the private diaries of the principals are published shall we see its true bearing on the strenuous days immediately ahead.

PLAIN TALK NOW

One good thing that the prolongation of this war has done is to rob diplomatic notes of superfluities and mystifying verbiage, and the longer it goes on the more blunt and direct do the international exchanges become. Those who had patience enough to read some of the first notes to Germany and to England must recognize the change of tone in the recent note to Carranza and in the still later note to Austria regarding the attack on the Petroliite. It is as though Secretary Lansing and his chief have grown weary of looking for nice ways of saying unpleasant things, and surely they have exhausted the glossary of pretty phrases. The text of the note to Austria is as plain and direct as though the United States state department were an accusing attorney before the court of civilization. Austria is told that the attack was a deliberate insult to the United States; that the explanation given is inconsistent and untrue; that there is no doubt of the guilt of the submarine commander and that reparation should be made. About the only courtesy phrase comes at the close when the government assures the Austrian government of our confidence in its desire to play square in its dealings with us. It may be that Austria would like one of the roundabout and diplomatic notes of yesterday, but this type of note stands better chances of being read by the American public.

of automobiles to acquaint themselves with the terms of the new automobile law which goes into effect next Saturday. In all its provisions it is a radical departure from the present law and if enforced it will be found drastic enough to suit the views of the most exacting critic of past loop holes. As a sample of the effective changes in the interest of public safety is the elimination of a fine for the offense of going away after colliding with and doing injury to a person. The penalty under the new law is imprisonment for not less than thirty days. Those who have looked upon cars as playthings for the gratification of speed hobbies and those who are accustomed to drive while under the influence of liquor ought to look out and amend their ways if they still wish to drive, as it will be easy for such to lose their license almost before they realize it. This law has come only after persistent complaints and continual agitation in the cause of public safety and it ought to be tested in a way that will bring home the change to all whom it may concern.

DISARMAMENT?

The leading socialistic paper of Germany recently came out with an article on disarmament that has aroused world-wide discussion. Strangely enough, the German government has ignored the article which has been assumed to have the Kaiser's tacit approval. It says in effect that the idea of disarmament and an international court of arbitration would do away with the present international jealousy and the necessity for maintaining large armies and navies. Possibly Germany, seeing ultimate defeat in the offing wishes to take the initiative in a newer and better international policy, but the al-

Gives Away Secret

"When lecturing on one occasion in the north," says Sir Ernest Shackleton, the famous explorer, "before the proceedings were timed to commence I took a peep through a curtain to see what kind of an audience I was likely to have. Things looked promising, and I said so."

"Yes," said the chairman. "I think you are going to have as big an audience as the hand-bell ringers had last week."

"These are the sort of things I hear," added Sir Ernest, "and they keep me modest."

The Missing Chapter

The new pastor of a certain country parish is likely to lose the confidence of his flock unless he changes his ways. During his sermon one Sunday morning not long back he stopped abruptly and asked:

"How many of those here are diligent students of their bibles?"

Fifty hands went up.

"Good," said the pastor. "Now, how many of you have read the second chapter of Jude?"

Twenty-five hands went up.

"That's also good, but when you go home read the chapter again, and you will doubtless learn something to your interest."

The point of this story lies in the fact that the Book of Jude consists of one chapter only.—Pearson's Weekly.

The Southern Watermelon

Mark Twain was speaking by the card when he wrote some years ago: "The true southern watermelon is a boon apart, not to be mentioned with commoner things. It is chief of this world's luxuries, king by grace of God over all the fruits of the earth. When one has tasted it, he knows what the angels eat. It was not a southern watermelon that Eve took; we know it because she repented."

Melons will soon be with us, and within us. As one of our cub reporters, covering the markets, wrote some years ago of the "possum, the melon is one of the 'most delicious foods' ever seen in these parts. The sooner it comes the more cheerful will our people be.—Exchange.

That Passeth Understanding

Religion has been bankrupted by the war in Europe, according to some pessimists; others say that the war has meant a great wave of mysticism that at times seems mere superstition. The best religious war news we have seen is summed up in two sentences found in the Rev. W. W. Holdsworth's "Impressions of a Hospital Chaplain" in the "Contemporary Review":

"A rabbi serving as a chaplain in Flanders was one day asked by a dying French soldier to unbuckle his tunic and to hold the crucifix he was wearing so that in his last moments his eyes might rest upon that symbol of love unto death. With a fine humanity the Jew held up for the comfort of the dying man 'that which stood for the condemnation of his own people.'"

We wish all our Know-Nothing friends might note this paragraph.—Collier's Weekly.

Our Working Army

America must recognize that militarism cannot be abolished by prayer or fasting, but only by a reasonable counter-proposal. America must have a working army. Every girl, as well as every boy, should be a conscript to public service. A year of each young life should be given to public works. This will incidentally inculcate a sound patriotism harmonious with universal as well as national well-being. It will take care of the surplus labor that makes a fringe of poverty choking the life of each community. It will furnish an opportunity for vocational training in which young people can experiment in life and the nation select its soldiers, engineers, nurses and social workers. No man shall be set aside primarily for murder. The army shall be a working army, not a standing army.—Charles Zuehlke.

Designs on Money

The minting, in new design, of silver half dollars, quarter dollars and dimes will begin on July 1 next. It has been 25 years since the dies of these coins have been changed, and there has been curiosity to see what the artists have done for the new disks. On one side of the new silver half dollar will appear a figure of Liberty outlined against an unfurled American flag. The goddess carries an armful of laurel, and the rising sun at which she is gazing is said to be symbolical of the dawn of a new day. On the reverse side appears the eagle with outstretched wings perched on a crag. The quarter dollars are said to be stamped with equally attractive designs and both coins carry the historic phrase, "In God We Trust."

Work on these coins has cost the treasury department much thought and labor. To the numismatist every figure, flower and branch on them has its significance. It is prophesied that the coins will be more popular than the "buffalo nickel" has proved though there has been no great complaint of that coin. The Lincoln penny has won its way to popular regard, and promises to continue with us for some time.

DYSPEPSIA OF WOMEN

Special Treatment Required.

Many women suffer from a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not yield to ordinary treatment. While the symptoms are similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines usually prescribed do not restore the patient's normal condition.

There seems to be a kind of dyspepsia caused by derangement of the female organism. While this appears to be the same as ordinary indigestion it can be relieved only by a medicine which, besides acting as a stomach tonic, is good for female ailments. Read what such a medicine did for Mrs. Williams:—

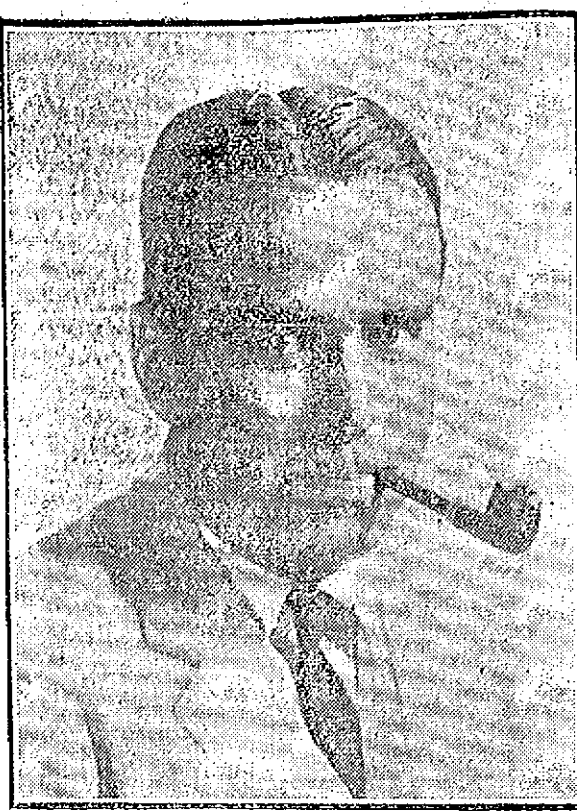

She says:—"Before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was troubled with dyspepsia and bearing down pains in my back and sides, and after my meals my stomach would bloat up till I could scarcely get my breath. At times I was so weak I could hardly stand on my feet and I looked hollow-eyed and my skin was yellow. Now I have a good color, have gained in every way and can do my work without any pains. I think it is the best medicine on earth for stomach troubles of women."—Mrs. NELLIE WILLIAMS, 31 West 34 Street, New Albany, Ind.

One had toothache in the morning like a bad cold. It spoiled the whole day. After taking a small box of Dr. Gagnon's Toothache Remedy, the toothache was gone and the day was saved.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

The world needs a good dose of honest laughter, these days, and at the B. F. Keith theatre, the final days of the present week, Douglas Fairbanks, in "The Habit of Happiness," shows one of the prime ways for getting it. The title is an alluring one, and the picture lives right up to the title. You see, Fairbanks has the role of a young man of means, with nothing particular to do, but with a mighty good heart beating in his breast. He conceived the idea of going down into the slum district and bringing a smile to the faces of the "down-and-outs." And, in this, he was eminently successful. He got to understand his "patients" thoroughly, and anybody who has followed the Fairbanks pictures will very readily understand how it was that his own smile proved so infectious. Having given the slum-men a course in first-aid laughing, this wealthy young man was sought out by a physician who had for a patient a millionaire who absolutely refused to look at things through joy-glasses. The millionaire's doctor summoned the doctor of laughter, and the latter took up his abode in the house of the petulant grocer. While it was at times rather hard to make the slum-men laugh it was a thousand times harder to bring a flicker of a smile to the face of the millionaire. Fairbanks told him funny stories—but to no avail. He festered, festered, festered, laughed for him—and still there was nothing doing. Heroic treatment was necessary, and Fairbanks got mixed into this treatment himself. The millionaire, it appears, was heavily interested in the stock market. A movement against him was engineered, and these who were interested sought to keep him away from the market. They employed all sorts of nefarious means to do this, even to the hiring of a lot of yeggs to watch the house. At a time when the yeggs were closing in on the millionaire, the laugh-doctor took charge of the situation, and was shot. The shooting brought a smile to the face of the doctor, and, in turn, it also brought a real one to the lips of the grocer. Of course it wasn't a dangerous wound, but it had tremendous consequences. Fairbanks—we prefer to call him that instead of by the name of the character—won for himself a pretty bride, and the millionaire-grocer recovered his good spirits and eventually his health. This makes a decidedly interesting comedy, of a rather high type, and doubtless it will attract many people to the theatre. The photography is of a high grade and the acting is throughout of the very best.

"The Bath House Blunder" is a rollicking comedy, with Charles Murray, Mae Busch and a cast of expert bathing girls featured. It is a typical Triangle-Keystone feature, and that means that it grows faster and faster with every foot of film, until, at the close it causes outbursts of laughter. There isn't much story to it, other than the inevitable mistake which causes so many complications, but the mistake is the germ of humor.

"Rare Friends," a Griffith subject, is an admirable little story told in one part, and the Hearst-Vitaphone shows many new views, particularly one of the new Harvard regiment, receiving a stand of colors at the Stadium. Mutt and Jeff in a new animated cartoon, "The Indestructible Hat," is full of life.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The splendid program of pictures which was immensely enjoyed by the many patrons of the Merrimack Square theatre who chose yesterday to see it will continue to be shown at this theatre today and tomorrow. It is a very gripping play, "His Brother's Wife," the play in which Carlyle Blackwell introduced Miss Edna Furlan, and an episode of Universal's stirring serial, "Peg o' the Ring," with Grace Cunard and Francis Ford, are among the other good attractions booked for the end of the week.

today, together with the screaming comedy and other plays.

JEWELL THEATRE

We have seen Chaplin in all kinds of scrapes and roles. Today and tomorrow he and his company of fun producers will be seen in a farcical comedy called "The Fireman," in which the gallant fire fighter is treated to a little burlesque on his serious occupation. Miss Edna Furlan, Chaplin's charming leading lady, has much to do with the fun of the new play, which is the second release of the $670,000 contract, which has set the states talking. If Charlie keeps on getting a boost in his salary every year, there will be a shortage of money some of these days, and he might have to actually work for nothing at all. However, while the going is good, Charlie is copping the halo, and getting everybody's "goat," by his funny antics. Besides this new Chaplin comedy, a new Mutt and Jeff cartoon by Bud Fisher, and an episode of Universal's stirring serial, "Peg o' the Ring," with Grace Cunard and Francis Ford, are among the other good attractions booked for the end of the week.

OWL THEATRE

"Sealed Lips," a stirring five act photodrama will be the attraction at the Owl theatre today and tomorrow. Appearing in the stellar role of this Equitable feature film is the famous stage star, William Courtenay, who is well known to local theatregoers as the leading man in such great successes as "Under Cover" and "Under Fire." A specially selected all-star cast will ably assist Mr. Courtenay in this wonderful production.

In addition to "Sealed Lips," many other excellent attractions will also be presented at the Owl theatre today and tomorrow.

CANOE LAKE PARK

"Boys and Girls," one of the best musical comedies ever written for production on the American stage is the attraction offered tonight at the Canoe Lake Park theatre, with Rob Ott, the funniest comedian in America, the funniest comedian in America. All week long the famous comedian has been pleasing the big crowds at the big open air theatre. The play itself is breezy and as full of dash and comedy as one could hope to see, and the chorus of attractive American beauties only lends a lot of attractiveness to the vehicle. Bob Ott has always been noted for his selection of a handsome and well balanced chorus, but this season with his big comedies he has outdone even himself. No musical comedy that can be remembered in a long time has had such a well balanced and sprightly chorus. Every member of it has a well trained voice, while the terpsichorean novelties introduced are the best ever. The story of "Boys and Girls" is built around a college whose purpose is one of co-education. The boys and girls all pick out husbands and wives for themselves and then when the folks come to see them on commencement day there is a lot of trouble when they try to break the matches. That is the whole story of this delightful comedy. Sunday evening the theatre management will offer one of the finest possible picture programs, the first Sunday evening attraction for the coming summer.

FORTY HOURS' DEVOTION

SERVICES AT SACRED HEART CHURCH, OPENED TODAY, WILL CLOSE SUNDAY

There was a large congregation at the 8 o'clock mass at the Sacred Heart church this morning which marked the opening of the forty hours' devotion. This evening there will be services at 7:30 o'clock, while tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock a high mass will be celebrated. At the 11 o'clock mass on Sunday the services will come to a close. As the feast of the church also falls on that day, the ceremonies will be of double significance. Solemn high mass will be celebrated with a special musical program. On Sunday evening there will be a procession, and also a sermon on the feast. The musical program for the 11 o'clock mass on Sunday will be as follows:

NEW PASTOR SETTLED

REV. A. G. LYON HAS MOVED INTO PAWTUCKET CHURCH PARSONAGE IN VARNUM AVENUE

The new pastor of the Pawtucket Congregational church, Rev. Arthur G. Lyon, has with his family, moved into the parsonage at 113 Varnum avenue. He will conduct the regular Friday service this evening and communion service on Sunday morning.

Rev. Mr. Lyon was born in Taunton, Mass., in 1873, a son of the late Gilbert A. Lyon, a shoe manufacturer. He is a graduate of Taylor University, Indiana, and of the Bangor Theological seminary and also pursued special studies in Columbia university. He preached in Taunton for five years and for four years in Maine during his studies in Bangor. He has held pastorates in Haverhill for the past eight years, the last three years of this period at the Riverside Memorial church. In the latter charge he had a most successful pastorate, during which 57 were united with the church and 59 were baptized. Six hundred dollars was raised on the debt and he leaves the church better organized and in a stronger condition than ever before. Two clubs have been organized for the boys and a brother class for the men. Two Christian Endeavor societies, and a large chorus choir of young people for the evening service, doubling the attendance. The church was very loath to accept his resignation and a petition was signed by over 200 persons, asking him to reconsider his decision.

In 1892 he married Miss Martha T. Lane, daughter of the late Levi I. Lane, pension attorney and veteran of the Civil war. Mrs. Lyon has ably as-

TYROLEAN ALPS

Napoleonic Led Infantry

Down Valley of the Brenta River

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 29.—The fierce offensive of the Austrian forces in the Tyrolean Alps and especially in the Val Sugana seems to substantiate those chroniclers who maintain that history has a habit of repeating itself, even though it be in reverse order. The present situation apparently offers the Teutonic power an opportunity to break on the southern kingdom a century-deferred revenge for a defeat suffered at the hands of Italy's ally, France, in the same Sugana valley more than a hundred years ago," says today's war geography bulletin of the National Geographic society, issued from its Washington headquarters.

"It was down the valley of the Brenta river, where recently the Archduke Charles Francis Joseph began pressing back the Italians, that Napoleon made his amazing descent upon the Austrians in 1796. The French genius of war led his wonderfully mobile infantry a distance of more than 60 miles in ten days and at the end of the march rushed them into battle against the forces of Wurmer who had fallen back upon the city of Bassano, 20 miles south of the present Tyrolean border and 35 miles northwest of Venice. This phenomenal dash began at Trent, where the Napoleon forces had been assembled after the victory at Rovereto four days previously.

"Levico, a town of 6000 inhabitants, lying at the east end of Lake Caldaro and 24 miles southeast of Trento, is at the head of the fertile vine-clad Val Sugana, which follows the course of the Brenta river in its sweeping northward bend as it makes its way east, finally crossing the Italian border at Tezze, 41 miles by rail from Trento. Next to Levico the largest town in the valley is Borgo, known in Roman days as Ausugum. On the heights surrounding this picturesque place of 4500 people are the ruins of several ancient and medieval castles, which lend a unique aspect to the landscape.

"When the Italians were driven south of the Tyrolean border they took up a strong defensive position almost parallel with the upper Sugana valley, along the heights above the Frenellen valley, through which runs a railway connecting the two great Italian towns of Asiago and Arterio. The latter, 34 miles north of Vicenza, is a popular summer resort for well-to-do Venetians. It is the capital of the "sette comuni," a barren plateau sustaining a population of 30,000 Bavarian gorges in the Venetian Limestone Alps. Through this passage, known as the Canals di Brenta, the Venetians of the 17th century brought to the coast the products of numerous tobacco plantations which they had established in this fertile section. Today the gorge offers many points of strategic value to an army on the defensive, and if the Austrians succeed in their drive down the Brenta valley many thrilling encounters may be staged here."

Try a Ranch Vacation This Summer

Why not spend your vacation this summer on a western ranch? Take the wife and kiddies along—You'll find the air is healthful and invigorating—the scenery is great—and there's plenty of both.

This is exactly the kind of an outing that a man needs, who has been confined to an office—it is a complete change.

What could you do more good than to ride over the sun-drenched trails in the hills, run on silvery lakes, fish in shady brooks, tramp down winding paths among the trees, "loaf" in soft valleys of green, stroll in the moonlight, eat "the fat of the land" and sleep like a babe? Such a vacation pays tremendous health dividends. There are scores of places out along the BURLINGTON—the Big Horns, the Buffalo Bill country, and the Black Hills, where good, big-hearted ranch people have made arrangements to provide for summer vacationists.

The trip itself is one of real pleasure and well worth while. I will be glad to send you a list of ranches, telling you how reasonable they are and give you other points in connection with them. Just drop me a postcard and I will suggest a plan that you will like.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

Quarter of a century ago, the city of Lowell held a $3000 July 4th celebration, both branches of the city council passing the order for the appropriation over the veto of Mayor F. J. Allen, who evidently did not believe in spending that amount of money on such a display. Of course all of the money didn't go into the actual celebration in those good old days. In the first place, a committee was appointed from the city council to run the show, and the committee in turn appointed a clerk. Perhaps there wasn't some log-rolling for that clerk's job, for the clerk received a fine little slice of the appropriation for his services. Then the committee generally would take a trip to Boston on the 17th of June to see what kind of a celebration Charlestown was having in order to get some points for the local celebration. The committee also came out of the appropriation. The program of the city's celebration quarter of a century ago was as follows:

Ball-ringing and salutes at sunrise. Grand parade, starting at 7:30 in the morning. Band concerts through the day and evening on the park and common. Athletic sports on the South common at 11 o'clock. Children's ball at 3 and 5 o'clock. Balloon ascension at North common at 4 o'clock, by Prof. J. K. Allen, in the balloon "Batter." Fireworks in the evening at South common.

The parade was made up as follows: Chief marshal, James W. Bennett, chief of staff, Dr. Porter, Assistant Gibson; division marshals, John C. Burke and Col. Pinder. FIRST DIVISION Mounted police. Allen's Cornet band, Billerica. Mechanized band. D company, Second Corps Cadets. H. F. Butler Post 42. Ladd & Whitney Post 153, G.A.R. with commissary detachment. South End Associates at the Darkening Rifles, fire brigades, hoodie eldermen, etc. Palmer's Daughters, as the "Swells of Long Ago." Veteran Firemen. Mexican war veterans. The Balloon Ascension The old sun had the following concerning the balloon ascension of July 4th, quarter of a century ago: "The balloon ascension was the most exciting feature of the Fourth of July celebration. It was under the direction of Prof. James K. Allen, of Providence. Those who went up in the balloon with Prof. Allen were Messrs. Fred E. Marble, Frank Puffer, I. H. Sternberg of the News and Michael Fahay.

After a voyage through the air for about an hour at a height of three miles, the aeronauts found that there was no alternative but an immediate descent, or the risk of alighting among the houses of Newburyport, or else in the ocean. A strip of rope from the side of the balloon, letting it down with dangerous rapidity and considerably shaking up the occupants. The balloon rebounded and under the influence of a stiff breeze tore across nearly two miles of a rough country, dragging the occupants of the basket over trees, wire fences and other obstructions. When the airship came to a standstill the occupants of the basket were found in a heap covered with scratches and bruises. Prof. Allen was doubled under the basket, yet was not badly injured, but Michael Fahay had one ankle badly scratched, besides sustaining a cut on the knee. He had to remain in Newburyport, while the others were able to return that night.

Fourth of July Cops

In the old days it was the custom to appoint a large number of special police officers who worked from the night before Fourth until the close of the festivities at midnight on the night of the holiday. Just what these specialists ever did to earn their money history doth not say, but they certainly did more than to keep the boys with torpedoes and sling shots, so that they served a purpose at any rate. Those who were appointed quarter century ago answered the roll as follows: George Edson, Frank Corson, George Corson, Urie L. Leighton, John H. Brady, Alexander Gullully, Michael J. McDonough, Frank H. Adams, Frederick E. Davis, Donahue, Shanahan, George A. Tupper, John Muldoon, James McCormick, John Gaynor, Albert A. Clark, Thomas B. Brennan, John McDonald, John McCarron, Alexander Crail, Henry P. Maguire, Mortimer Lyons, P. Noonan, George Girard, James Burns, Michael McGiln, Thomas Gentry, Charles E. Healy, Michael Maroon, Patrick Dwyer, Richard Welch, Michael Howard, John McDonough, William Thomas, Maurice Sheehan, Hugh Finnerty, John L. Stevens, William Dolan, John J. Corrigan, George H. Williams, John Gilley, Simon H. Cook, Thomas Cushman, John Ellingwood, Axel J. Schooreff, Orlando Bugbee, Terrence Gray, William Burns, Dennis Finnegan, Charles A. Walton, Michael McCuskey, William H. Dane, John Smith, Alfred J. Howe, Thomas Vaughn, Napoleon Lalliere, William Daly, Samuel B. Palmer, Edward Quinn, William Gerow, Joseph Stillings, Jeremiah Murphy, Joseph Waters, Mark P. Gleason, William Corcoran, Leonard Moore, John F. Mahoney, Martin Mooney.

"Roger" Connors' Heroic Stunt

Says The Sun of quarter of a century ago: "Some boys were swimming in the canal at Market and Suffolk streets, on July 3, and were playing with a rope that was fastened to the beams of the bridge. One of them named Cummings started to swim ashore when he was jerked on his back, his foot becoming entangled in the rope. The current runs very swift around the curve at that place; the rope becoming taut, tightened on his leg, and as the water pulled on his legs and feet into the air and his head and shoulders were forced under the swirling water. He was drowning. He made desperate struggles to get free, but the rope he struggled, the tighter the rope became. People gathered on the bridge; women screamed while the boys who had been swimming stood clapping on the bank. Nobody dared to go to his assistance. Suddenly John T. Connors ran to the bridge railing, took in the situation at a glance, and dropping his hat on the floor of the bridge, lightly vaulted over the rail into the water below. He came up directly under the boy, grasped him by the arms, relieved the rope from his leg, and in a few minutes was swimming to the shore with him. It was the deed of a daring and cool-headed man."

"The boy named Cummings" whose life was thus saved, grew up and broke into the newspaper business at an early age, starting in as "Young Gun." The Sun's amateur baseball writer of some years ago. Now he is Frederick A. Cummings, of the Lynn Telegram, and occasionally he jumps into his Ford and comes back to Lowell to see his old friends.

The hero in this case was none other than our old friend "Roger" Connors, to whom The Spaulding Company recently as custodian of the zone at the Soldiers' Home, in Togus, Me. In days gone by "Roger" was employed at the store of the late John Courtney, in Suffolk street saved several lives from drowning in the Suffolk canal, and while he was there today he'd be an eligible candidate for a position on the waterways commission.

Some day if "Roger" will give me his permission I'll write his biography for he has had a more romantic experience than probably any other man in Lowell. He is probably the only Lowell Spanish War veteran who has visited Spain. "Roger" was in Spain either just before or just after the Spanish war, and liked the country first rate. As an evidence of his experience as a traveler, along with basking in the tropical sun of Spain, he has given the midnight sun the once over while on a whaling vessel in the Alaskan ocean.

THE OLD TIMER.

"Roger" was a member of the celebrated Hoof baseball team in 1837 and in his day was one of the best pitchers that the North common ever produced. After leaving the Hoof team he went west to get a living by the power of his pitching arm, and subsequently became known as the Walla Walla Wonder, as the result of his prowess on the diamond in that burg.

"Roger" whose health has been poor went to the Togus home, some months ago and is now steadily improving. He has charge of the fine collection of animals that are one of the great attractions of the grounds of the institution.

TERRIFIC ATTACK ON FRENCH POSITIONS EAST OF HILL 304

BY GERMAN

PARIS, June 30, 12:30 p. m.—In a terrific attack upon the French positions east of Hill 304, in the Verdun sector, the Germans captured a fortified work in the first line of the French trenches after the garrison had been literally blown to bits by a storm of shells. The position was recaptured by brilliant French counter attack, according to an official statement issued by the French war office today.

The Germans also delivered a powerful attack on the French positions in the Verdun sector and west of Hill 304, but all of these were declared to have been checked with heavy losses to the attackers. Considerable activity is reported on the front from Neuport to the Alsine.

The text of the communication follows:

Belgium last night at about 11 o'clock, following a preparatory artillery fire, German forces attacked a salient of our line not far from the road between Neuport and Lombarzyde. A counter-attack was at once delivered which drove the enemy out of one section of trench where they had gained a footing. Between Chauvaux and Rove a strong German reconnoitering party, caught under our fire, was dispersed before it could reach our trenches.

"Between the Oise and the Alsine two German patrols also were dispersed in like manner, one in front of Quennevillers and the other at a point to the northeast of Vingre.

"In the Champagne district a minor attack of the enemy with hand grenades upon our advanced posts to the west of Butte de Mesnil was easily repulsed.

"On the left bank of the river Meuse the Germans last night increased their offensive activity against our positions stretching from Avocourt wood to a point to the east of Hill 304. They directed upon the principal salients of our line series of very violent attacks. These were preceded by intense bombardments and accompanied by the throwing of flaming liquids. Between Avocourt wood and Hill 304 all their endeavors were broken by our fire, which inflicted heavy losses upon them. To the east of Hill 304, after several fruitless assaults the enemy succeeded in taking possession of fortified work in our first line, the garrison of which had been literally buried by the German bombardment. At about 4 o'clock in the morning a brilliant counter-attack on our part of our troops repulsed the enemy in our again becoming masters of this work.

"On the right bank of the river the bombardment has been very spirited in the sectors to the north of Souville and Tavannes particularly in the region of Chenois. There was no infantry fighting at these points."

BERLIN ANNOUNCES ALLIED ATTACKS ALONG WESTERN FRONT

BERLIN, via London, June 30, 1:55 p. m.—Attacks by the British and French at various places along the western front yesterday and last night were repulsed by German troops, the war office announced today.

IN POLICE COURT

Drove Off an Auto Not His Own—Out of Jail in Again

It was nearly 11 o'clock this morning before Judge Enright was able to start the regular session of police court, the delay having been caused by the grist of business brought to his attention in the juvenile court.

Took An Automobile

Henry Noble was charged with operating an automobile in Middlesex street, North Chelmsford, without a license but he is very fortunate that a complaint of larceny was not also preferred against him for according to the testimony offered by Officer Vinal of that village Noble took the machine and drove it away without the permission of the owner.

Noble said he didn't know why he took the automobile and did not seem to realize the seriousness of his offense. He told the court that he is a member of a militia company in Concord, Mass. and is supposed to report at that place tomorrow morning. Judge Enright continued the case until tomorrow and in the meantime the captain of the militia company to which Noble claims to belong will be queried and if it is essential that Noble report for duty tomorrow, he will be turned over to the captain.

Settled Out of Court

John Kushlan, who is in the employ of a local cleaning concern, was before the court this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of two neckties, the property of Joseph C. Manseau. It is alleged that Kushlan, while doing some work at Mr. Manseau's store at the corner of Merrimack and Hanover streets, stole the neckties. When the case was called in court this morning the complainant said that settlement had been made with him and he did not care to press the matter. Therefore the case was placed on file.

Given Suspended Sentence

Hormidas Houle has spent nine and one-half months of the past year in jail and although he has released from that institution yesterday morning after serving several months he was arrested before night and appeared in court this morning. He pleaded for another chance and said if given a half hour he would leave town. He was given a suspended sentence of six months in the house of correction.

Had a Broken Rib

George O. Stewart, who claims to belong in Missoula, was given a bad beating in Missoula according to a story told by him in court this morning. He said that after being released by the probation officer yesterday morning he was assaulted by an unknown person and sustained a broken rib. Owing to the man's condition he was sentenced to jail for one month.

Other Offenders

William Sexton, charged with being drunk, was sentenced to 15 days in jail. James Brennan was given two months in jail and Fred Gay was given a suspended sentence of two months in the same institution. The case of George O'Toole was continued until Wednesday.

HIT ICE WAGON

One of the Gage Co.'s Wagons Damaged by Reckless Chauffeur

Considerable excitement was caused in the vicinity of the Middlesex street station about 9 o'clock this morning when an automobile owned by Amos P. Best and operated by a young man whose name Mr. Best does not know, crashed into one of the Gage Co.'s ice wagons which was standing near the West bank. After the accident the operator of the car made his escape, but the police have secured a description of him and it is expected he will be apprehended before long.

According to people who witnessed the accident the automobile was being operated down Thordike street hill at a fairly rapid rate of speed and the operator, owing to the speed of the car, was unable to make the turn to the right into Middlesex street and swinging wide crashed into the ice wagon on the left side of the street. The front part of the automobile was badly damaged as were the headlights, fenders, etc., while one of the horses attached to the ice wagon was thrown to the ground and the harness broken.

Henry Shaw, who occupied a seat in the automobile, escaped injury.

It is said that the young man who was operating the machine was engaged by Mr. Best last night to run one of his jitneys between this city and Lawrence. Mr. Best, however, did not ascertain the chauffeur's name and therefore was able to give the police but little information this morning.

Those who witnessed the accident state that it was fortunate no one was killed.

75 POISONED AT PICNIC

PASTOR OF PORTSMOUTH, RHODE ISLAND, CHURCH AMONG THOSE STRICKEN—SEVERAL MAY DIE

PORTSMOUTH, R. I., June 30.—Seventy-five children and adults, members of St. George's Episcopal church, were stricken with ptomaine poisoning at a Sunday school picnic held here yesterday, following their partaking of the lunch provided by the church. Fifteen, including the Rev. George Vernon Dickey, pastor of the church, are critically ill.

Scores of automobiles and taxicabs, impressed by frantic telephone calls, and all available police, fire and private wagons, rushed to the scene of the picnic, Lawton's Valley, some six miles out of Newport, and carried the unconscious victims to hospitals and physicians' homes.

The scenes at the picnic struck terror into those who were present. A short half-hour after lunch time—at about 2:30—people were seen to become dizzy, and finally fall to the ground. Two persons who rushed to a telephone fell as they spoke into the receiver.

The children ranged in age from 6 to 15. Among the dangerously ill are several of the Sunday school teachers and numerous aged women. The cause of the catastrophe is generally admitted to have been chopped ham sandwiches, which were generally served to the picnicers. The ham, it was said, had been home cooked at the house of one of the women of the Sunday school, whose own children were among the picnicers.

All night the work went on. Rigid investigation of the cause of the occurrence was at once undertaken by Captain James J. Leary of the Newport police. It was learned that lemonade, cheese and ham sandwiches,

Shillitani Executed for Murder of Two New York Policemen

OSHING, N. Y., June 30.—Oreste Shillitani was executed in the Sing Sing prison this morning for the murder three years ago of two New York policemen, who were attempting to arrest him for killing a man in a quarrel about a girl.

Shillitani made no pretense of insanity during his trial but became apparently crazed with terror in the deathhouse a few weeks ago when two other prisoners were executed, smashed the furnishings in his cell and beat on the bars of the door and begged to be set free.

A week ago he obtained possession of a revolver, fatally shot one of the keepers in the deathhouse and wounded another. Taking the keys to the deathhouse doors from them, he escaped to the prison yard, and, stripping off his clothing, swam around the end of the prison wall which extends into the Hudson river. He went straight to the Oshing hospital, demanded admission and was returned to prison.

Appeals were made to the governor on the ground that Shillitani was insane but he declared the prisoner was sane and declined to interfere.

Shillitani went to the electric chair without resistance and before his death made a short statement, saying he was sorry he killed the policeman keeping and declaring that his "brain was not right."

Shillitani Executed for Murder of Two New York Policemen

OSHING, N. Y., June 30.—Oreste Shillitani was executed in the Sing Sing prison this morning for the murder three years ago of two New York policemen, who were attempting to arrest him for killing a man in a quarrel about a girl.

Shillitani made no pretense of insanity during his trial but became apparently crazed with terror in the deathhouse a few weeks ago when two other prisoners were executed, smashed the furnishings in his cell and beat on the bars of the door and begged to be set free.

A week ago he obtained possession of a revolver, fatally shot one of the keepers in the deathhouse and wounded another. Taking the keys to the deathhouse doors from them, he escaped to the prison yard, and, stripping off his clothing, swam around the end of the prison wall which extends into the Hudson river. He went straight to the Oshing hospital, demanded admission and was returned to prison.

Appeals were made to the governor on the ground that Shillitani was insane but he declared the prisoner was sane and declined to interfere.

BOY WAS FATALLY HURT

SHOT BY SECTION HAND WHEN HE REFUSED TO GO AWAY FROM RAILROAD TRACK

MONTPELIER, Vt., June 30.—John Caven, 15 years old, was shot and probably fatally wounded at Montpelier Junction last night. The boy and a companion were sitting beside the railroad track, when two men employed as section hands came out of a railroad building and ordered them to go away. When they refused, one of the railroad employees drew a revolver and fired. After the shooting the section hands ran away and had not been located by the police late last night.

GATEMAN SAVES WOMAN

FLAGGED TRAIN AND ENGINE STOPPED TEN FEET FROM DISABLED AUTOMOBILE

BOSTON, June 30.—Two Winthrop women, whose automobile had crashed through the gates at the Forest street crossing in Wakefield yesterday afternoon, were saved from an onrushing train by Chester C. Patch, who ran down the track, flagged the train, and succeeded in bringing it to a stop on the crossing about 10 feet from the machine.

Mrs. H. G. Clapp was driving the machine and had crossed the tracks and started up the Foster street hill. Half way up the hill she tried to shift gears, but found difficulty in doing so and then tried to stop the car. The brakes failed and the car started to coast backward down the hill.

Patch, who is the crossing tender, heard the women's screams, and letting the gates down to stop the momentum of the auto, he took a red flag and ran down the track.

The engineer applied the emergency brakes and brought the train to a stop with the front part of the engine on the crossing.

The women became hysterical, but after a short time were able to proceed in the machine. Mrs. Clapp's companion refused to give her name to the police.

REPRESENTS THE BRITISH

Government Here as Munition Inspector

While visiting with a party of Lowell friends, in Chelmsford, N. H., some few years ago we met one of the natives of that beautiful town, who spent several hours showing us around. He was possessed of a typical "up-country" twang, so common to the Yankee farmer, and when toward evening he announced that he would be obliged to leave us, in order to attend an important meeting, one of the party remarked:

"That you got on, a meeting of the Grange?"

"Grange, go on! This is meeting night of the Libermans and I'm the secretary, and they raise the old Harry if I don't show up to read the minutes," was the startling reply.

After he had departed, one of the party ventured the assertion that if he had tried to get into a Liberman meeting in Lowell, with his twang, he'd find them all at Missus.

I was pleasantly reminded of the meeting with my Claremont friend, last evening, when Sergt. J. Patrick Whelan, the jovial, melodious and popular representative of the British government at the U. S. Cartridge Co. plant, who speaks with a dialect that would make Sam Deane green with envy, informed me that he is a member of the Libermans and the United Irish league, in dear old Lunnun. And he's a great rooster for Hon. John E. Redmond into the bargain.

Sergt. Whelan is a native of Woolwich, London, though his parents, and, as he told me, "all the Whelans" came from Queens county, Ireland. He has been in the British army since 1885, and is a veteran of the Boer war, and wears the medal of five bars. He was prepared to go to the front when the present European war broke out, but on account of his expertise in artillery matters, his superiors thought he could be of greater service as an inspector, to keep tabs on the munitions being manufactured for England, in this country, and hence, one year ago, he was assigned to the Lowell plant and coming here with his family, he has made a resident ever since, and has made friends galore in this city.

But for the past 25 years when not fighting, or inspecting munitions, Sergt. Whelan has busied himself writing songs, and among the English residents of Lowell has fame as such a secure, for he has more than 300 songs, many of which have been good successes across the water. He has continued to write them and sing them, since coming to Lowell, and there is probably no member of the Bunting club, who has not enjoyed his songs with a voice, for he is an enthusiastic member of the club, and is always ready to accommodate when called upon to sing.

Although passionately fond of music, a good singer, and successful at song writing, Sergt. Whelan has never studied music and doesn't play any musical instrument, for he starts his songs with the words, and then he sets them to music, as the melody comes to him. He gets a piano player to write the music for him, after he has sung the melody to him, and then after fixing it up, and making changes to put a finish on the melody, his song is ready for the publisher.

Two years ago, after hearing a home rule speech by Hon. John E. Redmond, in the house of commons, Sergt. Whelan became inspired and wrote a song entitled "Loyal Ireland," which he dedicated to the Irish leader. The latter wrote him a note letter in acknowledgment, and the letter is among Sergt. Whelan's treasured possessions. The song "Loyal Ireland," was published in London and in Dublin and made a big hit, judging from the big sales.

Since coming to Lowell, Sergt. Whelan has written several songs, one of which was published in New York for the benefit of the Red Cross. Sergt. Whelan sent the first 50 copies of this song to Miss Burke, of this city, who is connected with the Red Cross, and the second 50 were sent to London. Another song, written by him since coming to Lowell is entitled "Norine Mac-yournen," and the copyright of this composition is presented to the Bunting club, to raise funds for the club. Some time ago he presented the Bunting club a complete portfolio, which was disposed of by ticket for the benefit of the building fund.

Sergt. Whelan finishes his duties in Lowell on August 1, and goes from here to Portland, Me., where he is to serve as inspector in a munitions plant in that city. He goes wherever he is assigned by his government, though if he had his choice, he says, he would remain in Lowell for he likes the place and people "bloomin' well," and he has made many good friends in Lowell.

Mr. Whelan's song dedicated to John E. Redmond, and according to the London press announcements, was sung with great success by Dave Carter, the popular Irish tenor. The first stanza of it runs as follows:

"Britain today is full of care and strife,
Britain they say has got to fight
And for very life,
She needs help from every mother's son.
Will Ireland come and help her is a question asked by some?
Time heals wonders, and Ireland's discontent,
Was healed by words John Redmond said of late in parliament."

CONCERT AND SOCIAL

IRISH TAG DAY WORKERS GIVEN GOOD TIME BY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE LAST EVENING

A social and entertainment that did not have a dull moment from start to finish was that given last evening in the hall by the Irish Tag day executive committee of 25 as complimentary to the young lady volunteers and the O.M.L. Cadets who helped on tag day. About fifty of the cadets were present in uniform, their blue and white giving a pretty touch to the audience of over 200. One of their number, Captain Keith of Company D, 1st Battalion, the 1st Regiment, was here from Camp Whitney, Wakefield, to be present, and when he left he was given a rousing send off with three cheers and a tiger.

There was a delightful musical program and a few brief addresses. James E. Miskella was chairman of the occasion, and made the introductory address thanking all present for their aid on tag day. Mr. James O'Sullivan, treasurer, made a detailed report showing that $3000 had been collected for the families of those who suffered in the recent Irish rebellion.

A piano selection was played by Paul Amadio, who also played most of the accompaniments for the evening. There was a cornet solo by William Riley, a violin and piano duet by the dainty Misses Gargin, and a piano solo by Miss Mildred Denver. Songs were sung by Commissioner James E.

WHY MILITIA MUST SERVE

COURT-MARTIAL PROVISIONS IN ACTS OF 1903 AND 1905 FOR THOSE WHO REFUSE

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The adjutant general of the organized militia of every state in the Union has been instructed by the war department that militiamen who refuse to take the oath of allegiance to the United States are subject to court-martial under the provisions of the acts of 1903 and 1905. The present purpose is not to compel militiamen to take the double oath prescribed by the new national defense act. Under the constitution they are obliged to serve at the call of the president within the territorial boundaries of the United States.

The joint resolution just passed by congress authorizing the president to "draft" as well as call the militia will eliminate the necessity for taking the new oath. Under this draft President Wilson is empowered to send militia troops anywhere that he can send regulars.

Any guardsmen who are holding back from taking the oath on the theory that the new law is not compulsory must now reckon with the new power conferred upon the president to draft them, which supplies any lack in authority provided by the old law. The commanding general of the District of Columbia militia has informed the few men who are balking at taking the oath that the old law makes it compulsory for them to present themselves for muster and they will be promptly court-martialed if they fail to do so.

Adj. Gen. Cole of Massachusetts is within his rights in threatening to apply the court-martial to recalcitrant guardsmen in that state.

Casualties Among Officers in May 1901—Total Losses 27,905

LONDON, June 18.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Casualties among officers in the British army continue to grow. Published lists for the month of May show that 466 were killed, 1039 wounded and 55 missing—a total of 1661. This brings the aggregate losses since the beginning of the war to 27,905, of whom 5774 were killed or died of wounds, 17,321 were wounded and 1907 are missing.

Losses during the month have been heaviest in the Indian contingent in Mesopotamia with 43 killed and 107 wounded. The Canadians lost 32 killed and 50 wounded; field artillery 19 killed, 60 wounded; Lancashire 20 killed, 41 wounded; Australians 27 killed, 24 wounded; London regiments 12 killed, 36 wounded, 11 missing; engineers 13 killed, 43 wounded; York-shires 11 killed, 23 wounded.

Among officers of high rank, Brig. Generals Hoghton, Heyworth, Rice and Morrison were killed or died of wounds; three other brigadier generals were wounded and 11 lieutenant colonels were killed.

Four Villa Followers Who Took Part in Raid Put to Death

DEMING, N. M., June 30.—Four Villa bandits who took part in the Columbus raid were hanged in the county jail here today.

The men were put to death in pairs. Enrique Renteria and Taurino Garcia were hanged first and then Jose Rangel and Juan Castillo.

This completes the disposition of the cases of Columbus raiders, as Jose Rodriguez recently was granted a stay of execution and is serving a life sentence.

CARRANZA WILL REFUSE TO MEET U. S. DEMANDS

Private Advices Say Carranza is Determined to Stand by Orders to Gen. Trevino to Attack the American Troops if They Move in Any Direction Except North—Faction in Carranza Cabinet Wants New Demand for Withdrawal of All United States Troops in Mexico—Report Pershing's Line Cut is Denied—Thousands of National Guardsmen Nearing Border

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Private advices reaching Washington from a reliable source in Mexico City today said Gen. Carranza and his advisers had determined to stand by orders to Gen. Trevino to attack American troops in Mexico moving in any direction except toward the border, and that no way was seen to avoid a break with the United States.

A faction of the Mexican cabinet, it was said, was urging an even more defiant attitude and wanted to include in the reply to the American request for a statement of intention, a new demand for immediate withdrawal of all United States troops now in Mexican soil.

The advices did not indicate when the response from Carranza might be expected. The last word on the subject to the state department came in a message from Special Agent Rodgers who said he expected the note to be handed him Wednesday night.

When President Wilson met with his cabinet today, just before leaving for New York, to deliver an address, the unfavorable private reports had not reached him and there were virtually no new developments in the Mexican crisis to be considered. Military preparations are being rushed to completion, however, but diplomatically there is nothing to be done until Carranza's reply is received or it becomes apparent that he will not respond within a reasonable time.

Eliseo Arredondo, the Mexican ambassador-designate, called on Mr. Lansing early in the day to communicate formally the information that his government had ordered the release of the American troops captured at Carrizal.

State Department impatient

A brief talk followed, during which Mr. Lansing took occasion to make it plain that the Washington government expected an early reply to its note forwarded to Mexico City last Sunday. The ambassador was impressed with the fact that the state department was growing impatient at the delay.

All members of the cabinet agreed after the meeting that both the situation and the policy of the United States were unchanged as a result of recent developments.

Release of Troopers Delays Action

The release of the captured troopers has delayed military action, but has not relieved the critical diplomatic situation now existing. Several reports from Special Agent Rodgers referring to refugees or routine matters did not mention the Mexican note. He has had no light to shed on the probable course Carranza would take. It is known, however, that interests in the Mexican capital which have been

SUPPRESS ALL NEWS OF U. S. TROOP MOVEMENTS

Secretary Baker Issues Orders to All the Department Army Commanders

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Secretary Baker announced today that orders have been sent to all department army commanders to suppress all news concerning troop movements.

The war department order follows:

In view of the fact that general knowledge of troop movements en route to the Texas border or in Texas might result in some malicious act which might seriously hamper these movements and also might result in unnecessary loss of life among troops, it is directed that all concerned be instructed to the effect that no information as to movements of troops is to be given to representatives of the press or any individuals other than the officials of the railroads concerned or the representatives of the American Railway Association located at the various department headquarters and mobilization and concentration points.

At the same time the department announced that National Guard organizations which start for the border without full complements of field transportation will be supplied by Gen. Funston upon reaching the border.

TRIBUTE TO U. S. AIRMAN

Corp. Chapman Was on Errand of Mercy for Wounded Comrade When He Met His Death

PARIS, June 30.—It was while on an errand of mercy for a wounded comrade that Corporal Victor Chapman of New York, a member of the Franco-American aviation corps, met his death last week. Capt. Boelke, the most famous of all German aviators, who up to that time had accounted for 18 aeroplanes, sent Chapman to his death, but before he fell the American brought down two German machines.

These details are disclosed in a semi-official statement given out here today, which also announced rewards and promotions for other American aviators for recent accomplishments. All the members of the American squadron but two have now been decorated or promoted.

Sergeant Clyde Baisley of San Antonio, Tex., wounded in a night near Verdun and probably crippled for life, is in a hospital a few miles from the aviation camp to which Corporal Chapman was attached. The sergeant asked for an orange but there was none to be had at the hospital. Corporal Chapman heard of the incident and decided to gratify the desire of his comrade. He obtained a small basket of oranges and set forth in his aeroplane for the hospital.

While he was on his way he saw several black spots against the sky to his right in the direction of the German lines. He flew toward them and discovered that three French aeroplanes were engaged with four German machines. The New Yorker dashed into the fight. He rose to a great height and swooping down on the Germans put his machine gun in action. His bullets found the mark and two German machines fell to earth. Chapman sent them down almost as soon as he entered the combat. Then Capt. Boelke turned on the American and caught him at such an angle that he was able to take the aeroplane with machine gun fire. One bullet struck a vital spot and Chapman plunged lifeless to the ground. He fell within the German lines.

The semi-official statement contains a tribute to the young American such as is seldom to be found in matter of fact communications of the kind. It says that a religious service will be held "in memory of this citizen of the United States, who, inspired by sentiments of lofty idealism, gave his life for the cause of the allies."

For their recent accomplishments rewards and promotions have been given to American aviators as follows:

Lieut. William K. Thaw, of Pittsburgh, the cross of the Legion of Honor.

Sergeant Bert Hall of Bowling Green, Ky., the military medal.

ATTACKED BY LIONESS
PITTSFIELD, June 30.—Charles Schwartz, an animal trainer with the Shesley shows, was attacked by "Mad Sheba," a lioness he was putting through an act in a cage late yesterday, and was only saved from being mangled by the enraged animal's jaws by a heavy puttee lined with iron, red-hot iron bars and blank cartridges fired from revolvers by other trainers. Schwartz was knocked down and mangled by the lioness so badly he will be unable to appear for several days.

FACTORIES WILL CLOSE

The local cotton and worsted mills, a part of the Saco-Lowell shops and practically the entire plant of the United States Cartridge Co. will close their doors tomorrow, not to re-open again until Wednesday morning, and in this way the employees will be given a rest and a brief vacation.

The Talbot mills of North Billerica will also close tomorrow noon until Wednesday morning, notices to that effect having been posted in the various departments of the plant.

At the U. S. Cartridge Co. it was stated this morning that with the exception of one department, where a few women will be kept at work, the entire plant will close tomorrow until Wednesday morning, this including the night work.

The department stores, as well as the grocery and meat establishments, will keep open as usual on Monday, but on Tuesday most of them will close all day.

The usual midway features will be conducted on the South common and there will be attractions not yet announced.

PAUL KOENIG DISCHARGED

WAS ARRAIGNED TODAY ON CHARGE OF VIOLATING ANTI-TIPPING LAW

NEW YORK, June 30.—Paul Koenig, former chief of the secret service of the Hamburg-American line, was discharged under suspended sentence in a state court when arraigned today charged with violating the anti-tipping law. He pleaded guilty. He was accused of having proffered $25 for certain letters and papers of the National City bank, the president of which, Frank A. Vanderlip, had requested, according to District Attorney Swann, that the defendant's sentence be suspended.

This charge is a mere incident in a matter now pending in the federal courts, Mr. Swann told the judges. "I have investigated the defendant's former record and found that it was excellent. I do not approve of making convicts of business men because of slight mistakes in judgment on their part."

Koenig is under indictment with others charged with having started in the United States a military enterprise against the Dominion of Canada. His trial has been deferred until the fall.

MARSHALL CASE

NEW YORK, June 30.—Argument on the writ of habeas corpus obtained by H. Snowden Marshall, United States district attorney when he was arrested on Monday in connection with the proceedings for alleged contempt brought against him by the house of representatives, was deferred by United States Judge Mayer today until July 5. The postponement was granted at the request of attorneys for the house.

THIS IS IMPORTANT

FEDERAL DEPARTMENT WILL INVESTIGATE ACTION OF THE STATE BOARD OF INSANITY

STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 30.—Agents of the federal department of labor are soon to begin an investigation in Massachusetts to determine whether the federal immigration law has been violated by the state board of insanity or by any of the officials of institutions under its jurisdiction, in obtaining foreigners for positions in the institutions under their control. The attention of the federal department has been called by Rep. Frederic E. Dowling of Boston, to an advertisement which appeared recently, for several consecutive weeks, in the Digby Courier, a weekly newspaper published in Digby, Nova Scotia, a copy of which is given below:

"WANTED
Young women as attendants at the Wrentham State hospital. Salary first six months, $20; second six months, $23; after one year, $28, including board, room and laundry. George L. Wallace, Supt., Wrentham, Mass." In a letter dated June 24, Alfred Haughton, assistant commissioner-general, advises Rep. Dowling that the advertisement is a clear violation of section 6 of the immigration act, and states that "an investigation through the Boston office will be directed at Wrentham, Mass., to determine who is responsible for the advertisement referred to and to ascertain whether or not there are aliens now in the employ of that hospital as a result of this advertisement." Discussing the matter today, Representative Dowling said: "I am informed that it is a common practice of several of our state institutions to advertise in Nova Scotia papers for hospital attendants, and that a considerable portion of the 10,000 employees of institutions under the control of the state board of insanity come from that section. If my information is correct, it means that aliens are being brought into this state to receive in our institutions training which fits them to become nurses, and are finally turned out as graduate nurses, to compete with our own girls expenditures and to put in years of hard work before they are permitted to practice nursing.

"In my judgment it is a serious evil, and if the federal department is unable to cope with it under the immigration law, I shall present to the next legislature a bill which will prohibit the employment of aliens in our state institutions."

THE PAY OF SOLDIERS

IN U. S. ARMY PAY RUNS FROM 50 CENTS A DAY FOR PRIVATES TO $30.56 FOR LIEUT. GENERAL

The Sun has received many queries of late as to soldiers' pay in the United States army. For in these days when so many good men are going into military service, there is considerable public interest in the payroll schedule and the following rates of pay in the United States army per day are published for the benefit of those who are interested:

Private: Cavalry, artillery, infantry, signal corps, second class private, engineers and ordnance, musician, trumpeter—50 cents.
Private: Hospital corps—53 cents.
First class private: Engineers, ordnance, signal corps, hospital corps—60 cents.
Corporal: Cavalry, artillery, infantry, wagoner, artificer, farrier, sad-

dlar, mechanic, field artillery—70 cents.

Corporal: Engineers, ordnance, signal corps, hospital corps, chief mechanic, mechanic, coast artillery, private: bands—80 cents.

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughed at on account of your fat, but go to A. W. Dows & Co., or any good druggist, and get a box of Oil of Kora capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body. It costs little, is absolutely harmless, and a week's trial should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of unsightly fat.

try, hospital corps; stable sergeant; company quartermaster sergeant; cavalry, artillery, infantry; cook, acting cook, hospital corps; fireman; corporal: bands; horseshoer; cavalry; mechanic, field artillery, performing duty as horseshoer—$1.

APPLICATIONS FOR ENLISTMENT CONTINUE TO REACH HEADQUARTERS

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 30.—Applications for enlistment in a proposed volunteer division which Col. Theodore

Roosevelt is preparing to organize if there is a call for volunteers are so numerous that the colonel's secretary, Walter J. Hays, issued today a statement in which he said:

"We have been literally deluged with telegrams and letters with applications from men who wish to join a volunteer division. It is physically impossible to reply individually to the organizations and to the men who have communicated with us, but I will see that their applications are carefully filed for future reference so that in the event of hostilities they can be applied of what action is contemplated."

PROSPERITY BAROMETER

—Big Business Wants to Control Government Again

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Articles fashioned from iron and steel are of universal consumption. They enter into the economy of every household and of every individual citizen, even the babe in arms. Hence it is no fiction that the iron and steel industry is the infallible barometer of trade. When dearth is in the field, when the mart is empty, when the bay is shipless, when retrenchment is imperative, the fires in the steel mill are not lighted and the sound of the trip hammer is not heard. The wage of labor is reduced and the ranks of the unemployed are swelled. Indeed ours is the iron age.

The American people are the most enormous producers and the most prodigious consumers of iron and its products in the world. For fifty years we have been told that the iron industry of the United States cannot possibly exist without a protective tariff levied to secure it in the home market against the predatory paupers of foreign parts. True, Mr. Andrew Carnegie, who knows more about iron and steel than any other citizen of this or any other country, testified before a congressional commission that the American iron and steel industry had outgrown its baby clothes, that it was no longer an infant, but that we would turn out steel at a less cost than any other nation and at the same time pay a higher wage to labor than any other nation.

Government Abdicated to Trusts

But for more than half a century our congress invited our iron and steel manufacturers to come forward and write in our tariff laws the degrees of protection they wished. Long ago the republican party set the fashion that congress should shrink its constitutional duty and abdicate its legislative privilege to write our tariff laws. The wool manufacturers wrote Schedule "K," the cotton spinners wrote the cotton schedule, the drug men wrote the chemical schedule, the sugar men the sugar schedule and so on and so forth to the end of the chapter. Neither Nelson W. Aldrich nor Seneca E. Payne knew what was in that monstrous tariff that is called the Payne-Aldrich tariff.

The people tired of that and determined to force their government to divorce itself from "Big Business." To the end of the chapter. Neither Nelson W. Aldrich nor Seneca E. Payne knew what was in that monstrous tariff that is called the Payne-Aldrich tariff.

Calamity Cry
And then the cry was calamity! The poor, undone iron industry was to shut up shop. We were to spin no more wool of cotton; we were to cease fashioning hides into leather or fashioning anything from leather. Sheep and cattle were to starve in rich pastures, coal mines were to close, railroads were to haul nothing as there was to be nothing to haul, banks and trust companies were to go into liquidation. These were only a few of the disasters and afflictions that were to overtake our country because of a wicked democratic tariff.

Beware of false prophets. How about iron and steel? In the month of February our production of pig iron was at the rate of 33,000,000 tons a year and that is the highest ever known in any country in the world. Nor is that all. At the end of February the United States Steel Corporation had unfilled orders reaching to the stupendous totals of 8,568,000 tons, a figure heretofore unequalled in history. Mark you, the price of steel was steadily advancing because of the fact that our mills were physically inadequate to the demands and during the month of February the increase in orders amounted to 646,199 tons.

Side of Prosperity

March beat February with orders for 9,331,001 tons, and April beat March with orders for 9,829,551 tons and the tide is still rising, the flood of which seemingly is far in the future. During the month of April the United States Steel Corporation delivered from its mills finished products amounting to 51,000 tons daily, and the orders exceeded the shipment by about 20,000 tons.

I believe the United States Steel is the largest private corporation in the world. Its business is enormous and it pays a wage as high as any like concern in our country. Does any rational man believe that this concern, with hundreds of millions of money at its command, needs protection from paupers, the Lord knows where? Why, not even a mollycoddle believes that!

Now these are not war orders, and all the war orders placed in our country do not amount to five per cent of the total of industrial business.

Mr. Lincoln opined it was not good policy to swap horses when crossing a stream. This prosperity American business enjoys is not a mere stream; it is a resistless torrent.

GRAND EXALTED RULER

LOCAL LODGE OF ELKS ENTERTAINED DISTINGUISHED GUESTS—BANQUET AND SPEECHES

James R. Nicholson of Springfield, Mass., grand exalted ruler, who is about to retire from the position at the head of the national organization of Elks, was tendered a reception and banquet in Prescott hall last night by the members of Lowell lodge, No. 87, B.P.O.E.

The affair is one that will long be remembered by the members of the organization for it brought together one of the largest gatherings of Elks ever held in this city. Col. William L. Grayson of Savannah, Georgia, president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, who is very well known in this city, was a guest during the evening.

William D. Regan, past exalted ruler, acted as toastmaster. A feature of the program was a singing of a number dedicated to Grand Exalted Ruler Nicholson and composed by Christopher J. Hagan and James H. Buckley. Among others who contributed to the entertainment were James E. Donnelly, Andrew A. McCarthy, Edward J. Handley, R. J. Robinson and Joseph A. Molloy.

The interior of Prescott hall was artistically decorated, the predominating colors being purple and white and the national colors.

During the course of the event Toastmaster Regan presented a handsome clock. Exalted Ruler Nicholson on behalf of the Lowell lodge of Elks.

The opening address was made by Toastmaster Regan, who outlined the principles of the Elks and in conclusion paid a touching tribute to Exalted Ruler Nicholson.

The next speaker was Mayor James E. O'Donnell who was received with cheers. He officially welcomed Exalted Ruler Nicholson as the head, not only of the Elks, but of one of the city's industries; and he expressed the hope that Mr. Nicholson might come to Lowell to make his permanent residence here.

Mayor O'Donnell paid a splendid tribute to the Elks as an organization and, at its conclusion, called for a standing recognition of the distinguished guest.

Exalted Ruler Nicholson

Exalted Ruler Nicholson said he had made 140 visits since last July, and he felt that it was singularly happy that he should pay his last visitation officially "at home" in Lowell.

"I feel it is fitting that I should come back here to give an account of my stewardship for the past year. I wish to speak especially of the patriotic feature of our work, and I want to say with all possible emphasis that there is no organization in the country of fraternal nature that has done more and has acted with more sincerity than the Elks.

"In such times the work of our order in teaching reverence for the flag, and in emphasizing the value of citizenship under the Stars and Stripes; and in the practical giving so much needed in this time of war stands out like a beacon light.

"I stood last week in Boston streets and witnessed the departure of the troops of this state and I felt that the spirit of '76 was still present. I noted the enthusiasm of the multitudes, the lifting of hats in response to the stirring notes of 'The Star Spangled Banner' and I heard the rhythmic tramp of soldierly feet to martial melodies. I was deeply impressed. There was a scene which this country alone can produce.

"We have sent these soldiers away with pride and sorrow mingled. They have left a commission to us. The day for practical service of state has arrived. I have heard from a number of district deputies throughout the country who wanted to resign. I said I would not accept a resignation from these men because they were on their way to the front, and I knew that they were patriots worthy of retention, even though absent for the time being.

"I want to say that the 1340 lodges of Elks throughout the country will stand by the man who has gone to the front, and will show in practical fashion the value of Elksdom in times of storm.

The toastmaster read a letter from Congressman Rogers in which the writer expressed regret at his inability to attend because of urgent matters demanding his presence at Washington.

District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Coakley of Gloucester reported for 16 lodges. He referred to the flag day service in his district and stated that

Saturday--lest you forget

Summing up the main points again

"Self praise may be half flattery"—but telling again the story of this Behr Bros. sale and what led up to it, cannot be resisted.

This sale was born of bigness. Its organizers, including ourselves, gave it breadth, scope and liberalities.

We put a good piano back of it—the Behr Bros.—upon which the idea could stand: a piano which for years has sold right in this section at varying prices up to as high as four hundred dollars.

We fixed its price at the lowest possible dollar that the most economical selling methods would permit—two hundred and fifty-seven dollars.

We arranged the easiest sort of payments—one dollar and fifty cents a week.

We charged the most nominal cash fee to participate in this sale—five dollars—and even credited this five dollars to the price of the instrument selected.

We delivered the instrument immediately—notwithstanding the five dollar initial payment did not cover the cartage.

We planned an exchange privilege, which gives the purchaser one year to fully satisfy himself as to the high character of the piano he obtains.

We got up a joint guarantee which stands today as the strongest guarantee given upon anything that is offered for sale.

And finally—we offered to give anyone their money back—provided they will but ask for it within thirty days of the time their piano is delivered.

After reading over this big, broad-gauged, liberal plan, is it any wonder we remind you not to put off —"Lest you forget." Saturday will be a good day to inspect these instruments.

How to obtain one of these BEHR BROS. instruments

To take advantage of this unusual sale, all you have to do is to send or bring in five dollars, for which we will at once give you a receipt. This five dollars is credited to your account, leaving two hundred and fifty-two dollars to be paid.

The plan then allows you one hundred and sixty-eight weeks' time in which to pay this amount—at the rate of one dollar and fifty cents a week.

You may select your piano at once. It's to your advantage to select it now. It will be delivered immediately—next week or next month. The date of delivery is optional with you.

If not convenient for you to personally select your piano, Mr. Shaw will make the selection for you under your instructions, with the understanding that, if at the end of a thirty days' trial the piano is not satisfactory, we will refund your money.

The Bon Marche
DRY GOODS CO.

WE ARE SO LIKELY to forget. We are so likely to put off. We get in the habit of thinking that we have plenty of time for this or that.

This great piano sale is now in mind—when we pencil these thoughts. We have in mind that it was even our own expectation, when this sale opened, that it would continue at least three weeks longer.

Now we know that it cannot possibly run for two weeks longer.

This sale has been electrifying. It has been huge—gigantic—stupendous in its success.

Like a snow-ball rolling down hill, it has gathered size and strength as it progressed.

Yesterday we could scarcely serve our customers. Today—the same thing—and tomorrow, being Saturday—and this reminder to quicken your coming—we no doubt will have the largest single day's orders to fill of any one day since this big sale was announced.

Is it, therefore, too much to ask that you come in the forenoon, if you can find it convenient to do so?

The Player-Piano plan is also outlined again

Fifty Behr Bros. player-pianos are also being sold during this unusual sale.

The usual price of these player-pianos is five hundred to six hundred dollars each.

Our sale price is three hundred and ninety-seven dollars.

The player-piano will also be delivered immediately upon the payment of five dollars.

The payments will be two dollars and twenty-five cents a week—giving you one hundred and seventy-four weeks' time in which to make your payments. The same unconditional guarantee that is given on the piano is given on the player-piano.

You can also get your money back at any time within thirty days.

All of the features of this most unusual sale are carried out in offering the player-piano, with the single exception that the terms on the player-piano are two dollars and twenty-five cents a week instead of—as on the piano—one dollar and fifty cents a week.

You get the same privilege of exchanging within one year as that given with the piano.

Also, a player-piano bench and ten rolls of music (your own selection) are included without extra charge.

These player-pianos are standard 88-note players; that is, they play every note on the piano when the music roll is in motion.

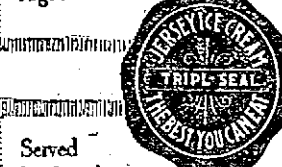

These player-pianos have an automatic shifter which compels the music to play perfectly. Most player-pianos sold at from two hundred to two hundred and fifty dollars more than these will not play perfectly.

It was a splendid success. Charles F. J. McCue of Boston and Mark Sullivan of Boston were also heard in speeches. The latter paid a glowing tribute to Exalted Ruler Nicholson.

He referred briefly to the present democratic administration, and while he said he was unable to burst into rhapsodies over the course of events, he believed with Lodge, that every shoulder now should be put to the wheel of state in this situation; and, like Decatur, all should arise and affirm "My country, right or wrong."

Col. Grayson

Col. Grayson of Savannah was introduced to the tune of "Dixie." He was perfectly at home. Although for a long time head of the Eagles in this country, he is also an Elk and one of the really enthusiastic type.

"This meeting," he said, "seems to typify Americanism; it seems to breathe the true patriotic spirit. This organization by virtue of its principles is forever connected with the future of this country. It isn't often that I have the opportunity of addressing you northerners, and I fully appreciate the honor now extended to me. I yield to no man in my love of the one flag, though I like Dixie, where I was born. It is your flag and my flag. Your heart and my heart beat quicker at its sight. Let us think now of our boys on the way to the border. No matter where they come from, they're our boys, and they're marching to the tunes of 'Dixie' and the 'Star Spangled Banner'."

Col. Grayson's close brought many cheers and with the audience on its feet "America" was sung with unusual fervor.

heard in a brief exposition of Elks' principles.

As the climax of the occasion Toastmaster Regan made a presentation speech, and with the speech went a handsome clock, the gift of the Lowell Elks. The exalted ruler made a fitting address in appreciation.

On the banquet committee were: Brother John J. Lee, P.E.R., chairman; Abel R. Campbell, secretary and treasurer; Exalted Ruler William Scott, Fred H. Rourke, P.E.R.; Hon. George J. Putnam, Christopher J. Hagan, William D. Regan, P.E.R., Elias A. McQuade, John J. Healey, James H. Walker, Patrick Kelley.

NEW JOB FOR MR. ROSS

He is to Investigate Causes of Sickness and Accidents in the Textile Centres of the State

BOSTON, June 30.—The state board of labor and industries at its meeting today appointed Mr. Samuel Ross, who was recently made a member of this board, to investigate and collect data on the prevalence and causes of sickness and accidents among textile workers of this state. Mr. Ross has long been identified with the textile workers of Massachusetts and is especially qualified to undertake an investigation of this kind. This investigation is to concern itself in the collection of facts, relative to textile industries that affect directly the welfare of the workers as well as those factors in textile manufacture that are most essential in the production of this line of industry. These factors are first, the question of proper humidification and temperature of the factory; secondly, the problem of proper lighting and ventilation and, thirdly, the best type of shuttle in textile manufacture. These problems are as essential from the manufacturers' standpoint as in the health and accident prevention propaganda which the board of labor and industries has inaugurated among the workers of the state.

For many years the textile centres of this and other states have been considered the most unhealthy parts of the state, principally because of the conditions associated with this branch of industry. The board of labor and industries is trying to lower this rate of sickness in these centres. Mr. Ross' practical knowledge and experience in the textile industries should be of the greatest value to the board in this undertaking.

HOSPITAL PLANS

go over to next year, if the city would build the buildings therein enumerated this year.

There had been considerable discussion of the plans for the isolation hospital. The plans called for 62 beds and Dr. McCarty thought fewer beds would do and that a saving could be made by having fewer beds. The doctor, in fact, thought that a building a little larger than half the size of the building described on the plan would suffice. He suggested that it wasn't up to Lowell to prepare for an epidemic of diphtheria, typhoid fever, or any other contagious disease, for the chances are, he said, that no such epidemic will ever occur. The true vein of his thought was that the future was not to be judged by the past; that medical science is constantly developing and that there should be less disease and sickness in the future rather than more despite the increase in population.

Mr. Jonness thought it was wasting time to discuss a contagious hospital that would cost less than $2 rooms for that was the minimum number of rooms named by the board of health at a previous meeting. The mayor, however, was inclined to agree with Dr. McCarty's version of the affair and thought that perhaps fewer rooms would do. Agent Bates of the board of health, said that the hospital should be looked upon in the light of a preventive rather than a cure. He said that when a contagious disease showed itself in a family the easiest and best way to prevent the spread of the disease was to quarantine the whole family. He said that in some cases the family could be quarantined at home, but that in the majority of cases a place of quarantine would have to be provided. He said it would not require an epidemic to fill a good sized hospital.

The matter of having separate wards for diphtheria and typhoid fever and other contagious diseases was discussed and Dr. McCarty went on record as saying there wasn't any need of separate wards, that by properly sterilizing the rooms cases of diphtheria might occupy the same room and beds recently vacated by typhoid fever cases, and vice versa.

Dr. Finnegan Resigns

Dr. Francis A. Finnegan, examining physician of the Lowell tuberculosis dispensary has resigned to accept the position with the state board of health, to which he was recently appointed as the result of a competitive examination. Mayor O'Donnell's acceptance of Dr. Finnegan's resignation is contained in the following letter:

Dear Dr. Finnegan: Your letter containing notice of your resignation as examining physician of the Lowell tuberculosis dispensary has been received, and because you are leaving to accept an important and responsible position your resignation is accepted cheerfully, but otherwise it would be with regret.

Permit me to express my appreciation of the painstaking and efficient service that you have given the city during your incumbency, and to wish you long and continued success and happiness in your new field.

Respectfully,
James E. O'Donnell,
Mayor of Lowell.

AUTO RUNS WILD

BOSTON, June 30.—Otis Chamberlain, a G.A.R. veteran and the oldest letter carrier in Cambridge, and four companions were seriously injured at about 2.30 o'clock last night when the automobile in which they were riding overturned on Walnut street, Somerville.

These in the automobile were Otis Chamberlain, his wife, Martha J. Chamberlain; their daughter, Edna C. Chamberlain of 14 Army street, Cambridge; Mrs. Josephine Brooks and her daughter, Mildred Brooks of 881 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge.

When the car began to descend the steep incline of Walnut street, Somerville, it got beyond the control of Miss Chamberlain. Special Officer Burns, who was doing traffic duty near the base of the hill, observed that the car was running wild and pursued it after it passed the base of the hill.

The car swerved to the side of the street and partly overturned. All the occupants were thrown to the street. Officer Burns rushed to the car, and with the aid of spectators, pulled it from the body of Miss Chamberlain, who was partly pinned to the ground.

It is thought that the steering gear failed to move at the command of the driver, and that this was responsible for the runaway and the consequent accident.

JURY IN DISAGREEMENT

NEW YORK, June 30.—The jury in the case of Rae Tanzer, accused of perjury in identifying James W. Osborne with Oliver Osborne, disagreed yesterday afternoon and was discharged, with thanks for its attention, by Judge C. E. Wolverton in the United States district court. The jury started their deliberations at 4.30 on Wednesday, and spent four hours and a half in discussion before they went to the Knickerbocker hotel for the night.

They resumed deliberations at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, and tried vainly to reach a decision until 3 in the afternoon. At that hour Foreman Frederick Kelly, in answer to Judge Wolverton's inquiry in open court said he thought there was no chance of an agreement.

SISTERS ARE GRATEFUL

The sisters and the children at St. Peter's orphanage cordially thank the good people, their kind friends, who so generously furnished automobiles to take them to the "Kasins" yesterday afternoon. The "lovely ride" will be a happy memory to the children, and will be the chief topic of their conversation for days. They thoroughly enjoyed the afternoon, and were jubilant over their "good time." These children are sincerely grateful to Reverend Father Galligan and to Reverend Father O'Connell who spared no effort to make them happy, and they thank all who interested themselves in their merriment.

BUSINESS MEN'S DRILL

Strenuous Day's Practice at Dra-cut—Trenches Dug and Imaginary Enemies Bombarded

The business men's battalion left for the trenches "somewhere in Dra-cut" yesterday afternoon and there was no weeping or wailing at their departure either. If any fond farewells were taken the scenes were of the acted at home for many a woman showed at the high school annex, the business men's battalion's armory, when the brave fellows went to the front. They presented a fine appearance and as long as they remain the state will never need protection even though every man were substituting the Massachusetts Volunteer militia should be called to Mexico. And while we don't want to boast too much about our own, we have the temerity to assert that had Carranza, Villa (alias "Mexico's terrible Teddy") or any other of the wool shearing leaders in Mexico seen the business men on their hike yesterday afternoon they would have taken to the woods. There was earnestness, courage and determination written on their countenances and their very step sounded the keynote of victory. It is fortunate for the state to have men like these to take the place of the volunteer militia in time of need.

They looked the very incarnation of the love of home and God-help-the-enemy. There were long and short fat men, long and short lean men, men who looked overfed and men who looked underfed, but all wearing that "stand together and fight it out to the last ditch" expression that makes the enemy quail. We hold that their appearance on the border line would mean the bobbing up of a "real" flag of true in Mexico. We are proud of them, we are proud of them and we will be proud of them and if there were more than three tenses we would use them. All glory to them, all hail to them and may no wall ever come to them. That's how we feel about it, and we use the pronoun "we" advisedly for, in its broader sense, "we" means many, and in this instance a great many—all of us. Hurrah!

Our enthusiasm is now at such a pitch that we almost feel it our duty to take a recess in order to let it cool down a bit, but far be it from us to leave those brave fellows on the road between Lowell and the trenches in Dra-cut. The people on route cheered them to the echo and the khaki clad heroes reached the rifle range in safety. They had left Lowell by the way of Merrimack, Moody, Alken streets and Alken avenue to Dra-cut centre and thence via Bridge street to the range. And let it be said that this route was the only disappointment of the day, for a large number of proud and expectant spectators ranged in Merrimack square and along Bridge street and waited in vain to see Lowell's "fighting battalion" pass. The high school life and drum corps led the main force and the usual good playing of the boys was enhanced by the inspiration in the rear.

Company A went on ahead as the advance guard, a squad of men occupying a lone position some distance in the front. Companies B and C with the drum corps came next after an interval, representing the main body of an army on the march. Company D brought up the rear as rear guard.

Lieut. S. R. Waller of Company G, Sixth regiment, was the commanding officer, assisted by Lieut. Cashin of Company K and Lieut. Duffy of Company C, Sixth regiment, and non-commissioned officers of the Sixth. Cadet Rosier Garfield of West Point was in command of Company B.

The marching was not spectacular, but there was some class to the events at the range. The frankfort man followed the troops to the rifle range thinking that hunger might overtake them, but when the battalion started to shoot the dogs jumped out of the big tin can and ran away, howling. They allowed it wasn't a very safe place for even a "hot dog."

Moving picture men put in a busy time trying to keep pace with events and the war correspondents engaged in a pitch battle over "first use" of the wire. The sharp shooters were hitting everything in sight and if a fellow with Mexican features had shown up it would have been all off with him. It was an anxious moment, especially for the people of Dra-cut permanently with perfect ease and safety. Wet your hair all over with Q-Ban, the only guaranteed hair color restorer, every day and expose it to the sunlight and air—then your hair will gradually and evenly change to its original uniform dark shade. Absolutely not a trace of gray hair will be left and nobody can ever tell how it happened. Just think of that! Furthermore, your hair will be much more glossy, lustrous, soft and fluffy than ever before—and fascinating to behold.

The secret of this wonderful change in the color of your hair is mainly brought about by a process of oxidation (oxygen in the air) which results from drying your hair in the sunlight and air after Q-Ban has been applied. Sunlight and air are Nature's own medicines and a very important part of the Q-Ban process. Only in this way with Q-Ban and the aid of sunlight and air can the color be permanently and safely restored to your hair. Make no mistake about this—all preparations claiming to instantly restore the color to your hair are fakes or treacherous dyes.

Q-Ban is made from a scientific formula of glycerine, sweet, alcohol, ethyle and perfume discovered after years of laboratory study and approved by the greatest chemical experts in the world, including Prof. Von Huber. Everybody uses Q-Ban nowadays, because it is safe and sane and the only guaranteed liquid hair color restorer that is absolutely free from danger, dirt, sticky dyes and paints and we want you to know the facts.

Give Q-Ban a trial today—you can't do anything until you try—get it at Riker-Jones Drug Store, Merrimack st., Lowell, Mass.—or a bottle or write Hestig-Ellis Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn. Money refunded if not more than delighted. The famous Q-Ban Hair Tonic, Hair Shampoo and Toilet Soaps are also made by us. Write for authoritative booklet on hair culture—free.

who had children, and horses and cows in the streets and fields. One member of the battalion, thoroughly acquainted with the country, led the way to an elevation which commanded a sweep of the vast "war panorama—the Mexican trenches," plainly visible only 300 yards away; to the left the historic old yellow meeting house in which so many happy couples were united, was in danger of being torn to pieces by shells, while other old landmarks had been entirely wiped out. Through the vista of trees the outlying defenses of the Navy Yard were dimly outlined through the curtain of smoke. A terrific bombardment was in progress, the crash of shells and whizz of bullets rang all along the front. "That's a Newton shell," said a fellow who had worked in the Newton Mfg. Co., when a crash more terrible than the rest rent the air.

The commanding general turned to the Associated Press representative who was privileged to accompany this notable party. "Come up here," said the general, "and get a good survey of the scene." And climbing to this point of vantage, the party looked out on one point after another designated as those on which the ravages of war had fallen heaviest.

Meanwhile the main body of the battalion was busy digging trenches. Men unaccustomed to the shovel and the Irish anchor, sometimes called pick, went to it in good shape and before the sun went down a long trench 3½ feet in depth, which is 1½ feet shy of the regulation trench, had been dug and there were those among the diggers who wanted to stay in the trench over night rather than hike home.

While the digging was going on, two other companies were putting in their work on the targets and this seemed novel work for most of them, too. Lieut. Cashin of Company K of the Sixth regiment was in command at the target ranges and he was assisted by Lieut. Duffy of Company C and Andrew Y. Roiger, a former militiaman and one time member of the state rifle team. Some of the men who will some day fight for their country—perhaps made good scores. There was Herford N. Elliott, for instance. He scored 22 out of a possible 25 and Herford was probably the most surprised man in the crowd. This was at the 200-yard range, and at the revolver target, 40-foot range, he scored a perfect record in three shots, so if you value your life don't have any words with Herford. Another fellow to keep on good terms with is Ira Boothby. He made a perfect score at the revolver range with five shots. Dr. Matthew P. Mahoney was the king pin at the 300-yard range, the most difficult of all. He made 17 out of a possible 25. The heavy automatic pistol was used.

The return trip was made in special electric cars 6 p. m., and after their long hike and arduous duties in preparing for the enemy that is liable to be heard from at any time, the boys didn't consider it the least bit disgraceful to ride home, and according to last night's dispatches the event was considered highly successful.

This last little remark that we are about to make should have been inserted elsewhere in the story, and in this belated fashion it probably should be given a seat in the P. S. row, but P. S. don't go in for correspondence, and, anyhow, it doesn't make much difference where or how it goes. If you don't want to read it, you don't have to. See!

The incident has to do with Omer Smith, the genial, efficient and patriotic janitor at the Market street building, commonly called "police station." On the march to the to-be-made-trenches in Dra-cut, Omer was instructed to keep 35 paces in the rear, acting, so far as our war knowledge goes, as rear guard, but our war knowledge extends only a few hundred yards beyond the old yellow meeting house. It is characteristic of Omer to pay strict attention to orders and yesterday was no exception, but his friends in Alken street and along through there, didn't seem to appreciate it for this is what Omer was getting all along the line: "Depeches-toi Omer, ils vont te perdre. Il fait chaud, hein? Prends mon bicyclette tu te sentiras plus vite fatigué que tu ne le seras." It was very evident that they thought Omer could not keep pace with his comrades.

FRIDAY, SATURDAY AND MONDAY

With conditions forcing many of them to handle and sell woollens not good enough for a South Sea Islander two years ago

I Will Give the Clothing Trade a Jolt this Week

FIRST—I am going to give you woollens—decent worsted woollens—woollens made from silk and worsted yarns and not from the bark of trees, understand me—worsted, not cassimeres.

SECONDLY—I am going to sell these goods on the old time purchasing power of a dollar—not on the present day European war inflation basis.

THIRDLY—To every customer ordering a suit Friday, Saturday and Monday, he has only to ask for it and I will give him a pair of trousers absolutely free of charge, made to his measure.

I want to put two hundred new customers on my books during this sale. In ordinary times you could go any place and get fair clothing for $12.00, $15.00 so many of you never got around to give me a trial.

Today things are different—if you want goods like a man ought to wear and haven't a pocketful of money to pay for a suit, you'd better make up your mind to come to my store, where you know I am a crank on good worsteds and carry nothing else.

WOOD'S COLLEGE

Closing Exercises at Associate Hall—The Graduates

Associate hall was the scene of a very pretty gathering last evening, when the graduating exercises of Wood's Business college took place. The stage was prettily decorated with flags and bunting, intermingled with the class colors, which were crimson and gold. The front and the sides of the stage were covered with lattice work, and interwoven in this were yellow flowers, giving a very beautiful effect, while in the background was set the seal of the school, "Business Efficiency."

MR. ELLIOTT F. WOOD, Principal

The hall was also strung with bunting, and the balconies were covered with white, while the centre of the hall had a network of flowers, giving a usual touch to the whole, and setting off to advantage the white gowns and dark suits of the graduates. After the opening selection by the Altania orchestra, Miss Sara Beatrice Lee, in behalf of the graduating class made the address of welcome. She was followed by the speaker of the evening, Mr. Franklin E. Johnson, treasurer of the Merrimack River Savings bank, whose subject was "Patience and Perseverance."

Following the usual custom, Mr. Harold Rostrom Entwistle, president of the class of 1910, presented the school with a bust of George Washington, set on a pedestal. The gift was accepted by the principal, Mr. Elliott F. Wood, who briefly thanked the class and also gave the graduates some good advice.

Hon. James E. O'Donnell addressed the graduates, after which he presented

Dancing was enjoyed until midnight. Officers for the class of 1910 are: President, Harold Rostrom Entwistle; vice president, Louise Lombard; treasurer, Joseph Francis O'Neill; secretary, Sarah Beatrice Lee.

The success of the exercises was due to the untiring efforts of both Mr. Elliott F. Wood and Miss Anna A. Conley, who have worked so hard and faithfully for the college.

POISON VICTIMS BETTER

U. S. PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE
ASKED TO MAKE AN INVESTIGATION

NEWPORT, R. I., June 30.—The children who were taken to the Newport hospital because of being poisoned at the St. George Sunday school picnic, were discharged today and at the rectory it is stated that so far as reports have come in, all the victims who were taken to their homes are on the road to recovery. State and city health authorities have begun an investigation and Congressman O'Shaughnessy has asked the United States public health service to make an investigation, he wires Newport.

becoming more and more popular each day.

Secretary John H. Murphy of the board of trade and Mrs. Murphy have gone to the latter's home in Vermont until after the Fourth.

The last session of the course in personal efficiency which has been given at the Y.M.C.A. during the past 16 weeks was held last night when K. C. Griswold of New York city, the instructor, gave an interesting summary of the former lectures.

The dumps are on the rampage again. This morning at 10:28 a telephone alarm summoned engine 4 to extinguish a fire on Stackpole street dump and at 10:58 hose 12 was called to put out a fire on the Alken street dump.

Miss Matilda Sharpe of 14 Shaffer street is on an extended vacation tour that will include New York City, Washington, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and other points of interest. Miss Sharpe intended to go to Europe but conditions there due to war prevented.

The local employees of the post office are endeavoring to popularize the U. S. Postal Guide, and the monthly supplements as showing clearly the rules of the department relative to parcel post and other matters on which much time is lost at the post office dealing with people who know nothing of the rules.

Mrs. Glendower Evans, a member of the lecture party which is touring the states under the auspices of the Women's Peace party, will speak in Lowell on Saturday evening, July 1, at 7:45 o'clock. The speaker will deliver an address on "The Great War and What to Do About It," and she will speak from an automobile at the corner of Jackson and Central streets.

A very interesting neighborhood sufrage meeting was held Wednesday evening, June 28th, at the home of Miss MacDougall, 51 Gates street, under the auspices of the Massachusetts Woman's Suffrage association.

The speakers were Mrs. James Stuart Murphy, chairman of the Lowell district, and Mrs. Wm. E. Sproule of Lowell, and Miss Carson, of Boston.

DEATHS

CARTER.—The many friends of John Townsend Carter, formerly of Lowell, will be grieved to learn of his death at his home in Topsham, Vermont, on June 27. Mr. Carter was well known among those who remember his skill as an artist and wood carver, examples of his art being in many of the public buildings and private homes of this city. He was born in this city on April 8, 1841, and was in business here for many years, as a cabinet maker on Fletcher street. He is survived by a widow, Alicia M. Carter, and three children, Frank H. Carter of Topsham, Vermont, Robert M. Carter of Milwaukee, Wis., and Catherine H. Carter of Lowell.

ROCK.—Joseph Rock, a well known resident of this city, aged 40 years, died today at his home, 22 Arthur street, after a lingering illness. He is survived by his wife, three daughters, Mildred, Beatrice and Doris; two sons, Theodore and Oswald; three sisters, Mrs. Amanda Boule of Fitch River, Mrs. Angelina Demers of Pawtucket, R. I., and Mrs. Rosanna Blodgett of this city; two brothers, Athanasios of Hartford, Conn. and Telephore of this city.

DESMARAIS.—Mrs. Frank Desmarais nee Antoinette Marlet, aged 52 years, died today at her home, 16 Marshall street. She leaves besides her husband, two daughters, Len and Berthe and a sister, Mrs. Harry Eno.

LEVASSOUR.—Roland, aged 10 months, died today at the home of the parents, Delphis and Aureole Levassour, 57 Marshall street.

FUNERALS

DANE.—The funeral of Hermon Dane was held from his home, 49 Grove street, yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. James M. Craig, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and Rev. P. A. Wilson, pastor of the Free Congregational church at Andover. Appropriate selections were sung by Mrs. Fred L. Roberts. Delegation were present representing Chevalier, Middlesex lodge, 2, Knights of Pythias and Highland Vikings lodge, 1, I.O.O.F. The following delegation from the Knights of Pythias conducted the committal service at the grave and also acted as bearers: P. E. Verity, C. O. Doff, Myrick, P. C. C. F. Nichols, P. C. A. A. Clark and R. F. Wilkins. Burial was in the family lot in the Spring Grove cemetery at Andover. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Mr. Archibald Higgins, under the direction of Undertaker George W. Healey.

FUNERAL NOTICES

CRYAN.—The funeral of Mrs. Ann Cryan will take place Saturday morning at 8 o'clock from the funeral chambers of Higgins Bros., 514 Lawrence street. High mass and requiem will be celebrated at the Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock. Burial will take place in St. Patrick's cemetery. Funeral arrangements in charge of Undertakers Higgins Bros.

DESMARAIS.—The funeral of Mrs. Frank Desmarais will take place tomorrow morning from the home, 16 Marshall street, at 10 o'clock and services will be held at the First Universalist church at 2 o'clock. Friends invited to attend. Burial private. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Undertakers Young & Blake.

LANGLEY.—Died in this city, June 29, at his home, 33 Tremont street, Clark M. Langley, aged 82 years, 16 months, 16 days. Prayers will be said at his home, 93 Fremont street, Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and services will be held at the First Universalist church at 2 o'clock. Friends invited to attend. Burial private. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Undertakers Young & Blake.

NUTTER.—The funeral of Mrs. Bridget M. Nutter will take place Saturday morning at 8 o'clock from her home, 16 Albion street. At 9 o'clock a high mass of requiem will be sung at St. Michael's church. Burial in St. Patrick's cemetery in charge of James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

MATRIMONIAL

Arthur M. Mowatt and Miss Myra McFadden were married yesterday afternoon by Rev. A. C. Archibald, pastor of the First Baptist church. The best man was John Mowatt, brother of the bridegroom, while the bridesmaid was Miss Jennie Mowatt, sister of the bridegroom.

Mosher—Kiesling

Francis Elmer Mosher of this city and Miss Helen Kiesling of Lawrence were married Wednesday by Rev. Benjamin R. Harris, pastor of Paige Street Baptist church, at his home in Methuen street. The couple will make their home in Chelmsford.

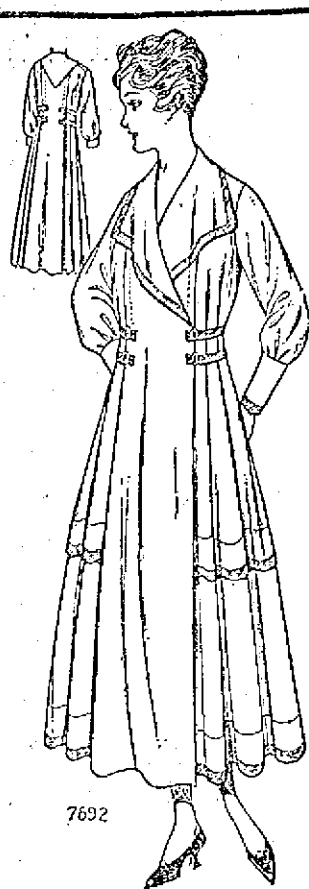

Bourque—Bourque

Emile Bourque and Miss Eva Bourque were married Wednesday evening at St. Joseph's rectory, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Augustin Gratton, O.M.I. Joseph C. Surprenant was best man, while the bridesmaid was Miss Josephine Ledoux. After an extended wedding trip to Canada the couple will make their home at 19 Lombard street.

Slavin—Gruzinger

Michael J. Slavin, formerly of this city and now of Amsterdam, N. Y., and Miss Mary G. Gruzing of the same place, were married Tuesday morning, the ceremony being performed at a nuptial mass at St. Joseph's church, Amsterdam, by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Laura. The best man was George Rogers of this city, while the bridesmaid was Miss Elsie Brindle. The bride wore white Georgette crepe and a picture hat and carried pink roses. The bridegroom's gift to the best man was a gold stick pin, while the bride's favor to the bridesmaid was a wrist watch. After a honeymoon spent in Baltimore, New York and this city, where the couple will be the guests of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Slavin, 512 Chelmsford street, they will make their home in Amsterdam, N. Y.

WILSON IN FIGHTING MOOD

President Ready to Enforce Golden Rule With Nations at Any Cost to Himself, He Declares

PHILADELPHIA, June 30.—President Wilson, describing himself as "in a fighting mood," furnished yesterday to a large crowd of auditors in Independence square his conception of some of the cardinal American ideals. He declared that America, in dealing with other nations, must "vindicate at whatever cost its principles of liberty, justice and humanity," that "America first" must be translated into action exalting it above all selfish interests, and that the nation's policy and development must be guided by the whole people and not by any group.

IF YOU WORRY, READ THIS

We all have our troubles and worry, of course, makes matters worse. The patient generally recognizes this fact without being able to profit by it.

The doctor who could meet this nervous condition and cure it would be the most popular medical man alive. But he cannot do it because the form of nervous exhaustion known as neurasthenia, of which worry is a characteristic symptom, must be cured by the patient himself.

That is why you should write today for the book "Diagnosis of the Nervous System" and read the chapter on "Neurasthenia." So many people have read it and written back, "This hits my case exactly. I am giving the treatment a trial and being benefited," that the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., has had a lot of these books printed and will send you a copy free on request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a non-alcoholic tonic, particularly suited for nervous, neurasthenic people. Your druggist sells them or they will be mailed postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50.

"I believe," the president said, "that America, the country we put first in our thoughts, should be ready in every point of policy and of action to vindicate at whatever cost the principles of liberty, justice and of humanity to which we have been devoted from the first."

"I believe that at whatever cost, America should be just to other people, and treat other people as she demands that they should treat her. She has a right to demand that they treat her with justice and respect, and she has a right to insist that they treat her in that fashion, but she cannot insist upon that unless she is willing to act in that same fashion toward them."

"That I am ready to fight for at any cost to myself."

Urging that the whole people should shape the national policies, the president said that some men pretended to believe in the average man, but when they acted they showed they did not.

Didn't Mean Colonel

"Oh you Teddy!" someone shouted, and the president hastened to explain that he was not referring to any certain individual.

"America first" means nothing until you translate it into what you do," was a statement that brought prolonged applause. Cheers also greeted the president's declaration that while he was not interested in fighting for himself he was "immensely interested in fighting for the things that I believe in, and so far as they are concerned I am a challenger to all comers."

Officially, the president addressed delegates to the convention to the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, but a much larger crowd heard him. He spoke in the open air, under the shadow of Independence hall. He left for Washington immediately after the address.

The President's Speech

President Wilson said: "You will understand that I have not come here to make an extended address. I do not need to explain to you the circumstances which have made it impossible that I should prepare an extended address, but I count myself fortunate to be able to leave my duties at Washington long enough to face this interesting company of men who have the very fine conception that it is their duty to lift the standards and ideals of their profession.

"I understand, gentlemen, that you have associated yourselves together in order to promote candor and truth in the advertisement of your business. I wish very much, gentlemen, that candor and truth might always be the standard of politics as well as the standard of business. I want to challenge your attention for a moment to this aspect of your activities."

"I do not see how a man can devote himself to candor and truth in the promotion of a particular business without studying the life of the great nation to whom he addresses his advertising. I do not see how a man can fall, having established the horizon of his business where the great hills of truth lie, and lift his eyes to the great multitude of laboring men and striving women who constitute a great nation like ours, and in the very act of addressing them get in his own consciousness some part of the impulse of their life."

"You cannot commend your business to people that do not understand it, and you cannot understand the people of the United States without wishing to serve them."

"So I come to you with this thought: America is at a point, gentlemen, where it is more than ever necessary that she should understand her own ideals, not only that, but she should put them into action at any cost. It is one thing to entertain fine principles and another thing to make them work. It is one thing to entertain them in the formulas of words like the splendid words which were uttered in this ancient and historic building behind me, but it is another thing to do what those same men did, make those words live in the action of their lives. And America is summoned in each new generation to renew not only the pledges that those men made, but to renew the example which they gave to the world."

"I am not interested, and I beg that you will believe me when I say that I never have been interested in fighting for myself, but I am immensely interested in fighting for the things that I believe in, and so far as they are concerned I am a challenger to all comers. It is important, therefore, since I am in fighting mood, to let you know what are some of the things that I do believe in."

Put Country First

"In the first place, I believe, and I summon you to show your belief in the same thing, that it is the duty of every American in everything that he does, in his business and out of it, to think first, not of himself or of any interest which he may be called upon to sacrifice, but of the country which we serve."

"America first" means nothing until you translate it in what you do. So I believe most profoundly in the duty of every American to exalt the national consciousness by purifying his own motives and exhibiting his own devotion."

"In the second place, that America, the country that we put first in our thoughts, should be ready in every point of policy and of action to vindicate at whatever cost the principles of liberty, justice, and of humanity to which we have been devoted from the first. You cheer the sentiment, but do you realize what it means?"

"It means that you have not only got to be just to your fellow men, but that as a nation you have got to be just to other nations. It comes high."

some of the things I have been obliged to do before I came here you would know that I could not possibly make a speech up—but merely to show my profound interest in a body of men who are not only devoted to business, but devoted to ideals.

"Business is all right so long as it is not sordid, and it cannot be sordid if it is shot through with ideals. A man, no matter how humble his business, can hold his head up among the princes of the world if, as he ought to, he will think of himself as the servant of the people and not as their master, as one who would serve and not as one who would govern."

"I congratulate you, my fellow-citizens, upon the ideals of a profession which can lower or exalt business as you choose, and which you have chosen to employ for its exaltation. I came away from Washington to look into your faces and get some of the enthusiasm which I always get when I come away from officialdom and touch hand to hand with great bodies of the free American people."

HIGH CLASS RECITAL

MRS. McNALLY PLEASE AT COLONIAL HALL

A group of the pupils of Mrs. Caroline White McNally gave an exceptionally pleasing and artistic pianoforte recital last evening in Colonial hall before a large and delighted audience. The program was more exciting than that usually attempted by young pupils, but throughout the pupils played with an intelligent appreciation of the meaning of the music while displaying the brilliant technique which has always distinguished their teacher. The young players were more than mechanical performers; they were real musicians, made so by intelligent supervision and a faithful adherence to the highest standards.

Mrs. McNally played in selections with the pupils and in solo and there were vocal numbers by Mrs. Robert Lister, soprano, of Boston. Following was the program in full:

Anitra's Dance Grieg
In the Hall of the Mountain King Grieg
Missa Helen Quigley, Mildred Denver, Mary Blake and Mrs. McNally.
Bourne, Op. 26 Beethoven
Romance Schumann
Folies, Op. 24 Chopin
Missa Rachel Dixon.
Aria, Ritorina Vincitori (Aida) Verdi
Mrs. Lister.

Lisztello Adam
Missa Anna Bonhoefer, Bertha Chapman, Emma Labrie and Mrs. McNally.
Consolation III Liszt
Novellotto Sirelski
Waltz in E minor Mozowski
Prelude in E minor Mendelssohn
Liebestraume Liszt
Love Has Wings Rogers
Wind Song Rogers
Come to the Garden Salter
Mrs. Lister.

Valso des Fleurs Ketterer
Missa Germaine O'Leary and Emma Labrie.
Etude, if I Were a Bird Henselt
Etude, Op. 22 No. 2 Wolf
Etude, Op. 45 No. 1 Kullak
Missa Dixon.
Andante Sostenuto, from Concerto in G minor Saint Saens
Orchestra accompaniment arranged for second piano and played by Mrs. McNally.

The opening selections with four performers at two pianos immediately established the recital as something more than a perfunctory display of mechanical ability. The Grieg numbers were played in a spirited sympathetic fashion that reflected a poetic quality in the interpreters. The other selections played by more than one also showed great ability in memorizing and the power to keep each part so as to produce a perfect effect in unison. The solo numbers were especially finished, again demonstrating the power of memorizing and playing so as to make the audience know what the composer strives to express. The reputation of Mrs. Caroline White McNally does not depend on her recitals, but that of last evening confirmed the conviction that she plays and teaches as a real artist.

The Saint Saens movement played by Mrs. McNally was given with delicate shading of expression that brought out all its possibilities. One forgot the technical perfection in the appeal of the text, but the effect was due to the mastery of the instrument.

which the player possesses as well as to her musical feeling. Mrs. Lister of Boston who is well known to Lowell audiences, is always delightful as a concert soloist. Her selection from Aida was given with beautiful tone and expression and her group of songs was so arranged as to demonstrate her artistry in different modes of singing. She added just the touch needed to give zest to the instrumental numbers and rounded out a truly enjoyable and educational recital that was appreciated and applauded by the audience.

How to stop dandruff and loss of hair with Resinol

Here is a simple, inexpensive treatment that will almost always stop dandruff and scalp itching, and keep the hair thick, live and lustrous:

At night, spread the hair apart and rub a little Resinol Ointment into the scalp gently, with the tip of the finger. Repeat this until the whole scalp has been treated. Next morning, shampoo thoroughly with Resinol Soap and hot water. Work the creamy Resinol lather well into the scalp. Rinse with gradually cooler water, the last water being cold.

Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment easily heal most skin eruptions. Sold by all druggists. Trial free. Dept. 15-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

TWO NEW PITCHERS

PIEPER SIGNS TWO BIG LEAGUE
HARTFORD—ONE 18 YEARS OLD

Louis P. Pieper, manager of the Lynn club, has recalled two pitching stars, who will join Lynn immediately. Dick McCabe, who last season pitched for Lynn now the property of the Red Sox, will report, while Walt Hoyt, the New York schoolboy phenom, who has been a member of the New York Giants, is also scheduled to don a Lynn uniform. McCabe was sent to Hartford this season, but when Helms Wagner was ousted as manager by Owner Clarkin, Carigan recalled McCabe, as the latter player stated that he was not satisfied. He wanted to play with Lynn. Pieper arranged matters with President Lannin and Manager Carigan for McCabe to come here.

Hoyt was signed two years ago by McGraw and he has been kept on the Giants' bench drinking in baseball knowledge every day under the eye of the Little Napoleon of baseball. Pieper and McGraw held a conference Sunday and Monday. McGraw said he would allow Hoyt to come here but the Giants will hold a string on him. Hoyt is 18 years old at the present time and is said to be a fellow who will deliver the goods.

M'TIGUE MAKING GOOD

TWILER SAID TO HAVE BARRELED
OF STUFF

Our old friend, Buck Freeman, one-time slugger with the Boston Americans, and now working in the international league, comes to bat with the assertion that, Rebel McTigue, former Brave and Tiger hurler, but at present pitching for the Toronto Leafs, has more stuff than any other pitcher he ever worked behind. McTigue started his career in the New England league, where, who, despite a good record on the spring training trip, was turned back to Toronto by Manager Jennings after five innings of big league ball, is making quite a record in the minor organizations. With a sixth place club, the lengthy slugger, one to game, six wins, four defeats, one hit, one error, and twice hurled one-hit shutouts, and against Rochester on May 30, and the other against Providence, league leaders, on Saturday last. In each of the above contests the hits were of the decidedly due variety, and the slow roller to the infield which spelled a perfect record in Rochester on Memorial day, came after two men had been retired in the ninth inning.

week, winning all three of the contests, two of which were shutouts, besides playing right field on two other occasions. In addition to having a fine brand of ball, McTigue is hitting the ball in great shape, as his nine hits in 22 trips to the plate during the past week would indicate.

M'INNIS TO REMAIN

STUFFY, IT IS REPORTED—MACK
NEEDS HIM

If you are a dead game sport and wish to bet on a sure thing, place your money on "Stuffy" McInnis to continue as the first baseman for the Mackmen. There has been a lot of talk that the boy from Gloucester will be traded, the last story emanating from Cleveland, which indicated that "Stuffy" was being sought by the Red Sox.

President Lannin has denied that he sought the services of McInnis, and Connie Mack put his official denial on the yarn. "Stuffy" is all that Connie has left of the million dollar infield that used to shine in the days of yore, and he intends to hold him.

"Stuffy" is young, but he has had a lot of experience and next year he will be needed to undertake the work of construction, as Lajole's contract expires at the end of 1916 and he will have to look for something new to do.

There is not a chance in the world of any other team getting "Stuffy." Mack needs him in his rebuilding plans. The man that used to lead the world's series trust did not wish to discuss the chances of his own team. "I don't wish to talk about my team," he said.

"It is not a bad team and it will be heard from later. We did not win a game in the west, but we did not play so awfully bad. I am not going to place the blame for defeats in any specific place, but later on we will be heard from."

Connie thinks pretty well of Cleveland. He thought the team played great ball when he looked there over. Their attack was very similar to that of the Tigers. He did not think that they were stealing anybody's signals.

Is Connie Mack downhearted? No!

SALLEE QUILTS GAME

ST. LOUIS TWILER SAYS HE IS
ALL DONE—OWNER TURNED
DOWN $10,000 OFFER

ST. LOUIS, June 30.—Harry Sallee, pitcher for the St. Louis Nationals, has retired from the game, according to a statement issued by Schuyler V. Britton, president of the club.

"Sallee told me that he had quit the game," the statement says. "I wanted to reinstate him, because we wanted him, but he told me that he was tired of the game. Sallee did not ask to be traded. I had an offer of $10,000 cash for him and New York wanted to give me Tresear for him, but I turned down both propositions. I hope he changes his mind."

Sallee was suspended two weeks ago for leaving the club in New York and failing to report at Cincinnati.

ROTH MAY STOP RACING

Arthur V. Roth, crack marathoner of the Dorchester club and winner of the B.A.A. race on Patriots day, has announced that he will retire from athletics after next Tuesday if he is defeated in the 12-mile run that is to be held in connection with the annual field day of Division 72, A.O.H., at the South End grounds, Boston.

HANS WAGNER TO WED

JOHN HENRY, VETERAN PIRATE
SHORTSTOP, TO WED DAUGHTER
OF PITTSBURG DETECTIVE

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 30.—John Henry Wagner, the veteran Pirates shortstop, is preparing to become a blushing bridegroom. County Detective John G. Smith, admitted yesterday that the great Hans will wed Bessie Baine Smith, aged 24, probably at the close of the baseball season next fall. Miss Smith, daughter of the county detective, is a popular young woman of Cranford Heights. She is an enthusiastic baseball fan and has attended nearly every game played here by the Pirates in the last four years. Wagner, as an amateur, played baseball with his intended bride's father on the back lots of Carnegie and Cranford. Smith was a pitcher and is just a few years older than the Pirate shortstop.

DIAMOND DAZZLES

Helme Wagner, recently released as manager of the Hartford team, was out practicing at third base with the Red Sox before the game and did some classy work around the hot corner.

Jack Barry was back in the Red Sox lineup for the first time in six weeks, taking McNally's place at the bat in the fifth inning and then going to second. Jack had hardly settled in his position when he made a wonderful catch of a line fly.

Manager Carigan is not a bit disconcerted over the two defeats and is still confident the Red Sox will repeat last year's performance and again land the pennant.

He does not fear the Cleveland team at all, but has some respect for the Grifflins, who he admits are a much improved ball team over what they were formerly. "I am confident that when the race narrows down to the real test we will land on top," said Carigan last evening. "I believe I have the best team. There is more class to it than most of our rivals can boast of, and in due time it will be proved that class will tell."

The Braves are suffering a batting slump. Yesterday they got hit four times off Pitcher Smith of Brooklyn.

The Yankees got a grip on first place yesterday by trimming the Mackmen while the Indians accepted defeat from St. Louis.

After being defeated five straight games, the Philadelphia champions took both games of a double-header from the Giants. In the first game but 27 men faced Pitcher Fixey.

Wolfgang, formerly of Lowell, pitched Chicago to victory and into the first division yesterday. He allowed the Tigers but four hits in the entire game and of these Cobb and Hellman got two each.

TO SAVE DAYLIGHT

CITY OF MANCHESTER TO MAKE
THE CHANGE ON SUNDAY, JULY 9

MANCHESTER, June 30.—Representatives from all organizations and interests of the city will meet on Wednesday, July 5, to hear the report of the directors of the Manchester Public Utility Association which is investigating the much-talked-of daylight saving plan.

The Queen City wants to be identified with this popular movement, and some definite action will surely be taken, it is said. Final decision on this plan of daylight saving will be made at the meeting.

The proposed time for shifting the clocks ahead an hour is Sunday evening, July 9. In order that everyone may know just when the change goes into effect, and that all clocks will be set forward together, the whistle and bell will start giving the notice at 8.30. The signals will be given at five minute intervals until 9 o'clock at which time it will suddenly become 10 o'clock. Presto, the trick is done, and women who have been the same age for several years will be at least one hour older.

All the industries favor the change.

EASTERN LEAGUE COMMENT

Lowell and Hartford will play a double header at Spalding park tomorrow.

Helfrich, who played second base with the team in the Connecticut cities, is a third baseman. He was with the Brooklyn team in the Federal league.

Paddy Green's arm went back on him in the seventh inning when five hits and a couple of errors gave the visitors five runs.

In the last three games played, Lowell has outbatted its opponents but has not put over the needed runs.

Manager Kilhullen made a shift in the batting order which should bring better results the way the men are hitting at present.

There are three Martins, all pitchers, in the Eastern league. Portland has one, New London has another and Worcester has just signed up a Martin who started the season with Bridgeport.

Holmes, the Hartford first baseman, led the Eastern league batters yesterday with five singles in as many trips to the plate.

The Fourth of July games between Lowell and Lawrence have been transferred. Owing to the big preparedness parade in the down river city in the morning, the game will be played here at 10.30 and the afternoon game in Lawrence will be called at 3.30.

Hartford is kicking about the work of Tom Lannin, claiming that his work in recent games has been away off. Hartford may join with Billy Hamilton in the move to have Tom removed.

Dick McCabe, the Lynn pitcher secured from the Boston Red Sox, was hit hard by Hartford yesterday. McCabe was with the Hartford team for a time earlier in the season.

The Eastern league magnates are praying for one thing and that is that Saturday of this week and the Fourth are ideal days for baseball. If it should rain on both those days it would be a blow that the league would have extra trouble getting over. Good weather, however, will go a great ways to help the magnates out.

Lynn is to have a Boosters' day at Ocean park on Saturday, July 8, with the New London millionaires the lucky ones. The Lynn papers are now boosting for a big attendance and say that the turn out of the fans will have a bearing on whether or not league baseball will be continued in Lynn.

Of the five games this year in the Eastern league in which clubs got 16 hits, Springfield has figured in four of them. The Ponies made their fourth 16 hit affair at Bridgeport this week.

Secretary Dan O'Neil of the Eastern league announces that after July 1 all second games of double headers shall be shortened to seven innings. His ruling is that in view of the postponements in the early part of the season there will be many double headers to be played and he thinks that they should all be uniform. This decision is being protested by the Connecticut papers. O'Neil should leave this question to the teams and umpires.

Interest begins Saturday, July 1st, at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

DILLON BEATS MORAN

Spectacular Bout at Brooklyn—
Moran Had Advantage in One
Round—Nearly Put Jack Out

Spectacular Bout
Dillon, the giant killer, gave one of the most spectacular exhibitions of gameness seen in a New York ring in years. Moran, 35 pounds heavier and 6½ inches taller, pounded his smaller adversary without mercy in the third round after landing that famous pile driver right. Dillon was reeling and apparently about to be knocked out when the bell saved him. The brief rest of a minute between rounds meant a difference of victory and defeat for Jack Dillon.

When the fourth round began he rushed from his corner, as in all preceding ones, landed a hard right to Moran's face and overwhelmed the Pittsburg boxer on boxing points all the rest of the way.

Dillon, as compared to his gigantic foe, looked almost like a lightweight, and the way he outclassed Moran in ring expertness brought reminders of Packey McFarland, Joe Gans and other great boxers. Moran was so slow and so wild in comparison that Dillon landed fully 10 square punches to every one that connected solidly with him.

Moran plainly depended almost entirely on his stout right arm. Dillon, knowing this, varied from his usual fighting position by inclining his body a bit sideways at almost all times, so that he was out of range of the pile driver.

The spectacular way in which Dillon showed his superiority in the first two rounds made the crowd totally unprepared for Moran's big bid in the third.

It was here that the Pittsburger first employed the trick that nearly carried the day for him. Calling on his immense strength, he forced Dillon by sheer weight to back to the ropes. Steadying himself, he drove in his right with all the power in his command, ripping it in again and again. The blows weakened Dillon, who was almost out on his feet.

The little man clinched to save himself. The referee pried them apart, and once more Moran literally pushed his adversary clear across the ring. He jammed Dillon out of the ropes again, and continued to beat in with the same mighty fist. There was plenty of power in the blows, but Moran lacked the accuracy to land on a vital spot.

Dillon Nearly Out

Suddenly Dillon lashed out with both hands to Moran's face, but he left himself wide open, and a crashing right-hander more accurate than the others knocked him into a reclining position on the ropes in Moran's corner. He hung there a moment as the referee seemed preparing to count him out, but instead of falling to the middle of the ring, with what little strength remained he hung on. The bell was a most welcome sound to him at that instant.

In the fourth round Dillon rushed and smashed rights and lefts and uppercuts at close quarters, one of his snappy jolts sending the blood flying from Moran's nose.

During the next six rounds Dillon always had the upper hand, ducking Moran's swings at times and then rushing to close quarters, where he always landed three blows to Moran's one. Moran tried frequently to get over a right swing, but never could land it effectively, although several times he

esting part of the program. Fifteen big carbon arc lights made the ring a centre of brightness in the midst of the surrounding block. One with a good eye who surveyed the surroundings of the old ball park could see every window in tenement and second avenue packed to the danger point.

The first outlet for the spirit of rivalry in the Moran and Dillon camps was offered in the semi-final bout in which Gus Christie of Milwaukee, Dillon's head trainer, met the Zulu Kid of Brooklyn, Moran's chief sparring partner. They traveled the full 19 rounds, with both in dead earnest. Christie had the better of it, thereby giving the Dillon camp first blood.

Lively action marked the first two hours of four rounds each, in which Sailor Frank Skies drew with Willie Shea and Mickey Delmont outpointed Jack Tracy. Hank Harris then tackled Billy Irish in a scheduled six-rounder, but Irish ended it in the first minute with a right hand punch to the jaw. It was a clean knockout. The second six-rounder bout netted a victory on points for Frankie Wilson over Papa Monte.

During the delay Announcer Peter Prunty gave out the ring-side weights. Dillon 169 pounds and Moran 204½, without costume, giving the latter an edge of 35½ pounds. As time flew by it was hinted about the boxers' managers were arguing about the money.

Dillon left the dressing room and began his way through the long aisles at exactly 10:34. Sam Marburger, his manager, acted as his chief second, aided by Joe Cox, Gus Christie and Banty Lewis.

A great noise greeted Moran when the big Pittsburger climbed into the ring three minutes later. Willie Lewis was the head adviser in his corner.

Others were Don Washington and Frank Kendall. Announcer Prunty read a telegram from Fred Fulton challenging the winner, and Charlie Weinert issued a verbal den when he was introduced.

MUTINY ON STEAMER

TWO MEN ARMED WITH KNIVES AND FIRE ARMS ATTACKED MEMBERS OF CREW

NEW YORK, June 30.—The Norwegian steamship Nordanger, two members of the crew in irons, reached here early today from Marseilles. The two men, a Mexican and a Spaniard, armed with knives and fire arms, refused to work after the vessel left Marseilles and until two days ago when they were finally seized fought with the crew and succeeded in destroying a large quantity of the ship's stores. The captain, ill from lack of sleep was unable to imprison the mutineers whose hiding place on the steamship was guarded by confederates. Many of the crew reached New York with cuts and bruises. Once, when captured and locked in the carpenter's shop aboard the vessel the mutineers set fire to a pile of shavings and escaped while the crew fought the blaze. The mutineers were turned over to the police when the vessel reached quarantine. The crew was composed of Spaniards, Mexicans, Levantines and Norwegians.

RALLY IN EIGHTH INNING

New Haven Hit Green Hard and Won Game 8 to 4—Helfrich's Batting Featured

New Haven scored two runs on five hits and two errors in the eighth inning in yesterday's game and despite Lowell's effort to come back in the last half when a single run was tallied, the Marlinns won by a score of 8 to 4.

Paddy Green was on the mound for Lowell and while he was not invincible it looked as though he had the game bottled until he blew up in the eighth. Woodward twirled for the home team and was touched up for 12 hits.

Lowell scored one run in each of the first three innings and had a three run advantage. New Haven not counting until the fourth when one run was brought in. The home team added two more in the seventh and they came the fatal eighth when Green weakened, allowed five hits which coupled with costly errors by Greenhaige and Helfrich scored five runs. All that Lowell could do in the last half was score one run.

Helfrich started at the bat with three hits and each of the local outfielders secured two safeties. Greenhaige played poorly on third, making three errors.

TRADES UNION CONGRESS

SIX HUNDRED DELEGATES, REPRESENTING 3,000,000 ORGANIZED WORKERS, MEET IN LONDON

LONDON, June 30.—A special trades union congress of 600 delegates, representing three million organized workers, met in London today and passed a resolution asking the government to take steps to regulate the prices of food and fuel. The resolution expressed the view that price regulation could be enforced only by a department of the government with power to commandeer and distribute food and fuel, fix freight rates, requisition home-grown crops and establish standard prices for fuel. The movers of the resolution said prices had increased 50 per cent, owing largely to the rise in freights and the greater cost of coal.

The congress also adopted an alternative resolution in favor of government ownership of all merchant shipping. Still another resolution declares that if the government offers objection to the proposals of the congress immediate steps will be taken to press for such advance in wages as are necessary to maintain a proper standard of living.

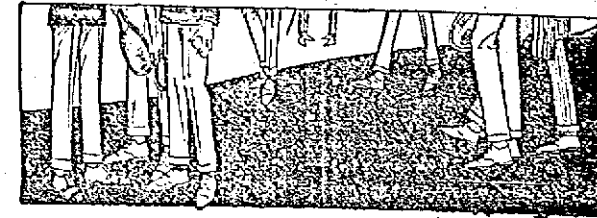

The congress also adopted a resolution asking for an increase of 50 per cent in old age pensions during the period of high prices.

MR. HUGHES' ISSUES

Although the republican platform was general enough to commit Mr. Hughes to no special policy, it is difficult to see how he can advance one strong issue in his campaign against President Wilson. It is a year of great events and the international developments in which the United States must take part are such as to dwarf into insignificance any purely domestic agitation. A few years ago the tariff might have proved a stumbling block to the democratic administration, but when the country is so prosperous and when the full dinner pail is the rule rather than the exception, the tariff has no force as a campaign issue. Moreover, this administration is out for a tariff commission on a scientific basis and the ground has been cut from under those who would have talked tariff as a vote producer.

How about the hyphen? The balance is all with President Wilson who has mapped out a course that can neither be ignored or controverted. It is not likely that Mr. Hughes will deliberately alienate any support of the hyphenated variety but he cannot afford to emphasize or arouse the democratic issue at a time when the patriotism of America is touched to the quick and when any foreign machinations in this country could not be regarded without arousing strong American indignation. The more the organized hyphenated vote shows itself for Mr. Hughes, the more pressing shall be the necessity for him to disclaim any pandering to this element in the community. Moreover, the union with Roosevelt will make the lot of the so-called foreign voters anything but comfortable, and whenever they force the issue on the attention of the country, the advantage shall be with President Wilson who has nothing to withdraw in word or action against such machinations.

How about Mexico—the factor most depended on by President Wilson's opponents? Again, this might have been made good campaign material some time ago, but while the relations are so critical, references to it during campaign time will be in questionable taste, whether in a national or a political sense. We now see more of the justice of President Wilson's position than at any time since the death of Madero, and the consistent idealistic and willful courageous policy of Washington in trying circumstances looms up above all factional opposition. It is not strange that Mr. Hughes hesitates so long about announcing his issues. He is without one strong argument in favor of a change of government.

SCHOOL GRADUATES

The diplomas have been presented, the fine speeches have been said and another large crop of Lowell boys and girls have severed their connection with the schools of the city. Many too many unfortunately—will not go to high school and comparatively few of those who have graduated from high school will go to college. Some are constrained by circumstances to abandon all ideas of higher education, while again some short sighted ones deliberately throw aside their chances and choose to go to work rather than to go on with their education.

Even at the risk of appealing to deaf ears, The Sun urges all who can do so to take advanced courses of education, whether in one of the recognized colleges or universities or in higher schools of this city. No regret is heard expressed more frequently or more sincerely than the regret of those who see too late where they threw aside their chances to fill higher places in the world than they can now aspire to.

Those who cannot go to college and who must go to work should not think that their chances of education are permanently closed. We have many splendid schools where our boys and girls may take special courses and fit themselves for higher places in the ladder of life. Whether in the textile school, the vocational school, the evening commercial college, or some of the private schools with which Lowell is well provided, all who are ambitious may discover the means of later competing with those who, through good fortune, are able to go to Harvard or Dartmouth or Holy Cross or any of the other larger colleges.

The world of today has no place for the uneducated man. The operative at the loom is expected to become an expert, the salesman must regard his vocation as a science, the janitor of old days has become a building manager. It is the age of efficiency and the expert and the way to secure future recognition and to walk with confidence and assurance is to be a student always and never to conclude that the need for further education is past. The graduate of 1916 and the graduate of 1896 alike are amateurs in the work of the modern world.

POLAR EXPEDITIONS

Spite of the discovery of the north pole by Peary and the discovery of the south pole by Amundsen, the lure of arctic and antarctic exploration still calls modern investigators into the wastes of ice around the poles, and

from time to time strange tales of human endurance or of tragic defeat come from some far away icy cape beyond the reach of civilization. After the tragic death of Captain Scott and his companions, Sir Ernest Shackleton started another antarctic expedition which has met defeat in the old way. In a telegram sent from Port Stanley, Sir Ernest tells of his escape with a few of his companions, leaving twenty-two comrades in an ice hole on Elephant Isle with little hope that they shall ever come out of it alive. The ice conditions are so bad that only a special ship would stand any chance of getting through, and their supplies are low, they being forced to depend on the meat of penguins, the supply of which is not assured. The world may not ponder much on their fate owing to the terrible tragedies that are reported daily in the waste of wars, but there is something peculiarly gripping in the thought of 22 brave, strong men doomed to die from cold and starvation in the wastes of eternal ice and snow.

As a contrast to the despairing news from Shackleton comes an apparently authentic report that the ship sent to the arctic to rescue Donald B. McMillan and his Crocker land expedition has succeeded. A letter from the captain of the ship to his family tells of the rescue and of the plans for the return, adding the characteristic touch: "There were some members who wanted to remain for another year." It is a story of triumph over "a jam of ice and a gale" and later a broken crankshaft, but the fact seems assured that while one party meets death in the far away antarctic, another will come back to the world of men and events from the equally far arctic. And, notwithstanding success or failure, men will for years to come organize bands of adventurers and strive to conquer nature in pioneer ways where they who play the game play with death as the stake, and nevertheless play the game gallantly.

A HISTORICAL DINNER

A few nights ago Charles E. Hughes, aspirant for the presidency and Theodore Roosevelt, ex-aspirant for the same office, dined together in peace and harmony and mutual good will. No statement was given out and no reporters were present, but this did not prevent the occasion becoming one of the historical events of the year. Greatly would the American public like to get a little inside information on what was said and done and planned, but Mr. Hughes talks very little and Mr. Roosevelt has learned that if he is to serve his chief he too must talk in greater moderation than hitherto.

There is nothing to prevent one's imagining that politics was touched on only slightly and it is highly unlikely that Mr. Hughes asked his guest to explain why he made slighting reference to the Hughes whiskers. The progressive vote may and may not have been analyzed and weighed by two master strategists, but since we must depend only on possibilities the first guess is that the weak spots in the Wilson campaign arguments were sought after eagerly. The one link the binds the twain most strongly is a common bond of opposition to President Wilson, and from now on Mr. Roosevelt will unquestionably lose no opportunity to attack the present administration in order to advance the candidacy of Mr. Hughes. It was a great dinner surely, but not until present politics have become history and the private diaries of the principals are published shall we see its true bearing on the strenuous days immediately ahead.

PLAIN TALK NOW

One good thing that the prolongation of this war has done is to rob diplomatic notes of superfluous and mystifying verbiage, and the longer it goes on the more blunt and direct do the international exchanges become. Those who had patience enough to read some of the first notes to Germany and to England must recognize the change of tone in the recent note to Carranza and in the still later note to Austria regarding the attack on the Petroliette. It is as though Secretary Lansing and his chief have grown weary of looking for nice ways of saying unpleasant things, and surely they have exhausted the glossary of pretty phrases. The text of the note to Austria is as plain and direct as though the United States state department were an accusing attorney before the court of civilization. Austria is told that the attack was a deliberate insult to the United States; that the explanation given is inconsistent and untrue; that there is no doubt of the guilt of the submarine commander and that reparation should be made. About the only courtly phrase comes at the close when this government assures the Austrian government of our confidence in its desire to play square in its dealings with us. It may be that Austria would like one of the roundabout and diplomatic notes of yesterday, but this type of note stands better chances of being read by the American public.

of automobiles to acquaint themselves with the terms of the new automobile law which goes into effect next Saturday. In all its provisions it is a radical departure from the present law and if enforced it will be found drastic enough to suit the views of the most exacting critic of past loop holes. As a sample of the effective changes in the interest of public safety is the elimination of a fine for the offense of going away after colliding with and doing injury to a person. The penalty under the new law is imprisonment for not less than thirty days. Those who have looked upon cars as playthings for the gratification of speed hobbies and those who are accustomed to drive while under the influence of liquor ought to look out and amend their ways if they still wish to drive, as it will be easy for such to lose their license almost before they realize it. This law has come only after persistent complaints and continual agitation in the cause of public safety and it ought to be tested in a way that will bring home the change to all whom it may concern.

DISARMAMENT?

The leading socialistic paper of Germany recently came out with an article on disarmament that has aroused world-wide discussion. Strangely enough, the German government has ignored the article which has been assumed to have the Kaiser's tacit approval. It says in effect that the idea of disarmament and an international court of arbitration would do away with the present international jealousy and the necessity for maintaining large armies and navies. Possibly Germany, seeing ultimate defeat in the offing wishes to take the initiative in a newer and better international policy, but the allies are not likely to favor disarmament until Germany can be actually forced to ask for peace conditions which may include voluntary reduction of military forces. Be that as it may the war is proving the fallacy of any nation's thinking it can rule the world by force.

Gives Away Secret

"When lecturing on one occasion in the north," says Sir Ernest Shackleton, the famous explorer, "before the proceedings were timed to commence I took a peep through a curtain to see what kind of an audience I was likely to have. Things looked promising, and I said so."

"Yes," said the chairman, "I think you are going to have as big an audience as the hand-bell ringers had last week."

"These are the sort of things I hear," added Sir Ernest, "and they keep me modest."

The Missing Chapter

The new pastor of a certain country parish is likely to lose the confidence of his flock unless he changes his ways. During his sermon one Sunday morning not long back he stopped abruptly and asked:

"How many of those here are diligent students of their bibles?"

Fifty hands went up.

"Good," said the pastor. "Now, how many of you have read the second chapter of Jude?"

Twenty-five hands went up.

"That's also good, but when you go home read the chapter again, and you will doubtless learn something to your interest."

The point of this story lies in the fact that the Book of Jude consists of one chapter only.—Pearson's Weekly.

The Southern Watermelon

Mark Twain was speaking by the card when he wrote some years ago: "The true southern watermelon is a boon apart, not to be mentioned with commoner things. It is chief of this world's luxuries, king by grace of God over all the fruits of the earth. When one has tasted it, he knows what the angels eat. It was not a southern watermelon that Eve took; we know it because she reported."

Melons will soon be with us, and within us. As one of our cub reporters, covering the markets, wrote some years ago of the "possum," the melon is one of the "most delicious fowls" ever seen in these parts. The sooner it comes the more cheerful will our people be.—Exchange.

That Passeth Understanding

"A rabbit serving as a chaplain in Flanders was one day asked by a dying French soldier to unbutton his tunic and to hold the crucifix he was wearing so that in his last moments his eyes might rest upon that symbol of love unto death. With a fine humanity the Jew held up for the comfort of the dying man that which stood for the condemnation of his own people."

We wish all our Know-Nothing friends might note this paragraph.—Collier's Weekly.

Our Working Army

America must recognize that militarism cannot be abolished by prayer or fasting, but only by a reasonable counter-proposal. America must have a working army. Every girl, as well as every boy, should be a conscript to public service. A year of each young life should be given to public works. This will incidentally inculcate a sound patriotism harmonious with universal as well as national well-being. It will take care of the surplus labor that makes a fringe of poverty clinging the life of each community. It will furnish an opportunity for vocational training in which young people can experiment in life and the nation select its soldiers, engineers, nurses and social workers. No man shall be set aside primarily for murder. The army shall be a working army, not a standing army.—Charles Zuehlke.

Designs on Money

The minting, in new design, of silver half dollars, quarter dollars and dimes will begin on July 1 next. It has been 25 years since the dies of these coins have been changed, and there has been curiosity to see what the artists have done for the new disks.

On one side of the new silver half dollar will appear a figure of Liberty outlined against an unfurled American flag. The goddess carries an armful of laurel, and the rising sun at which she is gazing is said to be symbolical of the dawn of a new day. On the reverse side appears the eagle with outstretched wings perched on a scroll. The quarter dollars are said to be stamped with equally attractive designs and both coins carry the historic phrase, "In God We Trust."

Work on these coins has cost the treasury department much thought and labor. To the numismatist every figure, flower and branch on them has its significance. It is prophesied that the coins will be more popular than the "buffalo nickel" has proved though there has been no great complaint of that coin. The Lincoln penny has won its way to popular regard, and promises to continue with us for some time.

DYSPEPSIA OF WOMEN

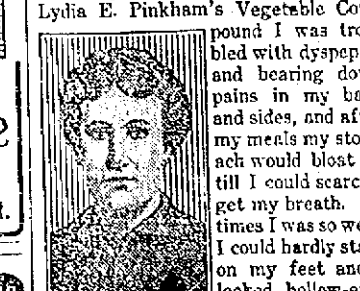

Special Treatment Required.

Many women suffer from a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not yield to ordinary treatment. While the symptoms are similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines usually prescribed do not restore the patient's normal condition.

There seems to be a kind of dyspepsia caused by derangement of the female organism. While this appears to be the same as ordinary indigestion it can be relieved only by a medicine which, besides acting as a stomach tonic, is good for female ailments. Read what such a medicine did for Mrs. Williams:

She says:—"Before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was troubled with dyspepsia and bearing down pains in my back and sides, and after my meals my stomach would bloat up till I could scarcely get my breath. At times I was so weak I could hardly stand on my feet and I looked hollow-eyed and my skin was yellow. Now I have a good color, have gained in every way and can do my work without any pains. I think it is the best medicine on earth for stomach troubles of women."

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

The world needs a good dose of honest laughter, these days, and, at the B. F. Keith theatre, the final days of the present week, Douglas Fairbanks, in "The Habit of Happiness," shows one of the prime ways for getting it. The title is an alluring one, and the picture lives right up to the title. You see, Fairbanks has the role of a young man of means, with nothing particular to do, but with a mighty good heart beating in his breast. He conceived the idea of going down into the slum district and bringing a smile to the faces of the "down-and-outs." And, in this, he was eminently successful. He got to understand his "patients" thoroughly, and anybody who has followed the Fairbanks pictures will very readily understand how it was that his own smile proved so infectious. Having given the slum-men a course in first-aid laughing, this wealthy young man was sought out by a physician who had for a patient a millionaire who absolutely refused to look at things through joy-glasses. The millionaire's doctor summoned the doctor to laughing and the latter took up his abode in the house of the perpetual groaner. While it was at times rather hard to make the slum-men laugh it was a thousand times harder to bring a flicker of a smile to the face of the millionaire. Fairbanks told him funny stories—but to no avail. He jests, joked, imitated, laughed for him—and still there was nothing doing. Heroic treatment was necessary, and Fairbanks got mixed into this treatment himself. The millionaire, it appears, was heavily interested in the stock market. A movement against him was engineered, and those who were interested sought to keep him away from the market. They employed all sorts of nefarious means to do this, even to the hiring of a lot of yeggs to watch the house. At a time when the yeggs were closing in on the millionaire, the slum-doctor took charge of the situation and was shot. The shooting brought a smile to the face of the doctor, and, in turn, it also brought a real one to the lips of the groaner. Of course it wasn't a dangerous wound, but it had tremendous consequences. Fairbanks—we prefer to call him that instead of by the name of the character—won for himself a pretty bride, and the millionaire-groaner recovered his good spirits and eventually his health. This makes a decidedly interesting comedy, of a rather high type, and doubtless it will attract many people to the theatre. The photography is of a high grade and the acting is throughout of the very best.

"The Bath House Blunder" is a rollicking comedy, with Charles Murray, Mae Bush and a cast of expert bathing girls featured. It is a typical Triangle-Keystone feature, and that means that it grows faster and faster with every foot of film, until, at the close it causes outbursts of laughter. There isn't much story to it, other than the inevitable mistake which causes so many complications, but the mistake is the germ of humor.

"Three Friends," a Griffith subject, is an admirable little story told in one part, and the Hearst-Vitagraph shows many new views, particularly one of the new Harvard regiment, receiving a stand of colors at the Stadium. Mutt and Jeff in a new animal cartoon, "The Indestructible Hats," is full of fire.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The splendid program of pictures which was immensely enjoyed by the many patrons of the Merrimack Square theatre who chose yesterday to see it will continue to be shown at this theatre today and tomorrow. It is a very gripping play, "His Brother's Wife," the play in which Carlyle Blackwell and Ethel Clayton play the leading parts. It tells in a most absorbing manner of the contrition and atonement a brother makes to repair the evil he has caused and does all in his power to restore happiness to the home of his brother from which he took it. Quite a different theme is "Susie Snowflake," the other five act feature of this program. Diminutive and charming, Miss Ann Pennington plays the role of Susie, the capricious, vivacious little stage miss, who horrifies the community of a small town by introducing the up-to-the-minute Broadway ways and customs which are all new to the prim minds of the villagers. The Burton Holmes pictures, depicting the customs and views of foreign countries, will also be shown today, together with the screaming comedy and other plays.

JEWEL THEATRE

We have seen Chaplin in all kinds of scrapes and roles. Today and tomorrow he and his company of fun producers will be seen in a farcical comedy called "The Fireman," in which the gallant fire fighter is treated to a little burlesque on his serious occupation. Miss Edna Purviance, Chaplin's charming leading lady, has much to do with the fun of the new play, which is the second release of the $670,000 contract, which has set the states talking. If Charlie keeps on getting a boost in his salary every year, there will be a shortage of money some of these days, and he might have to actually work for nothing at all. However, while the going is good, Charlie is coping the sale, and getting everybody's "goat," by his funny antics. Besides this new Chaplin comedy, a new Mutt and Jeff cartoon by Bud Fisher, and an episode of Universal's stirring serial, "Peg o' the Ring," with Grace Cunard and Francis Ford, are among the other good attractions booked for the end of the week.

OWL THEATRE

"Sealed Lips," a stirring five act photodrama will be the attraction at the Owl theatre today and tomorrow. Appearing in the steller role of this Equitable feature film is the famous stage star, William Courtenay, who is well known to local theatregoers as the leading man in such great successes as "Under Cover" and "Under Fire." A specially selected all-star cast will ably assist Mr. Courtenay in this wonderful production.

In addition to "Sealed Lips," many other excellent attractions will also be presented at the Owl theatre today and tomorrow.

CANOE LAKE PARK

"Boys and Girls," one of the best musical comedies ever written for production on the American stage is the attraction offered tonight at the Canoe Lake Park theatre, with Bob Ott, the funniest comedian in America. All week long the famous comedian has been pleasing the big crowds at the big open air theatre. The play itself is breezy and as full of dash and comedy as one could hope to see, and the chorus of attractive American beauties only lends a lot of attractiveness to the whole. Bob Ott has always been noted for his selection of a handsome and well balanced chorus, but this season with his big comedies he has outdone even himself. No musical comedy that can be remembered in a long time has had such a well balanced and sprightly chorus. Every member of it has a well trained voice, while the terpsichorean novelties introduced are the best ever. The story of "Boys and Girls" is built around a college whose purpose is one of co-education. The boys and girls all pick out husbands and wives for themselves and then when the folks come to see them on commencement day there is a lot of trouble when they try to break the matches. The boys and girls fool the folks and that is the whole story of this delightful comedy. Sunday evening the theatre management will offer one of the finest possible picture programs, the first Sunday evening attraction for the coming summer.

FORTY HOURS' DEVOTION

SERVICES AT SACRED HEART CHURCH, OPENED TODAY, WILL CLOSE SUNDAY

There was a large congregation at the 8 o'clock mass at the Sacred Heart church this morning, which marked the opening of the forty hours' devotion. This evening there will be services at 7:30 o'clock, while tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock a high mass will be celebrated. At the 11 o'clock mass on Sunday the services will come to a close. As the feast of the church also falls on that day, the ceremonies will be of double significance. Solemn high mass will be celebrated with a special musical program. On Sunday evening there will be a procession, and also a sermon on the feast. The musical program for the 11 o'clock mass on Sunday will be as follows:

NEW PASTOR SETTLED

REV. A. G. LYON HAS MOVED INTO PAWTUCKET CHURCH PARSONAGE IN VARNUM AVENUE

The new pastor of the Pawtucket Congregational church, Rev. Arthur G. Lyon, has with his family, moved into the parsonage at 113 Varnum avenue. He will conduct the regular Friday service this evening and communion service on Sunday morning.
Rev. Mr. Lyon was born in Taunton, Mass., in 1873, a son of the late Gilbert A. Lyon, a shoe manufacturer. He is a graduate of Taylor university, Indiana, and of the Bangor Theological seminary and also pursued special studies in Columbia university. He preached in Taunton for five years and for four years in Maine during his studies in Bangor. He has held pastorates in Haverhill for the past eight years, the last three years of this period at the Riverside Memorial church. In the latter charge he had a most successful pastorate, during which 57 united with the church and 58 were baptized. Six hundred dollars was raised on the debt and he leaves the church better organized and in a stronger condition than ever before. Two clubs have been organized for the boys and a brother class for the men. Two Christian Endeavor societies, and a large chorus of young people for the evening service, doubling the attendance. The church was very loathe to accept his resignation and a petition was signed by over 200 persons, asking him to reconsider his decision.
In 1892 he married Miss Martha T. Lane, daughter of the late Levi T. Lane, pension attorney and veteran of the Civil war. Mrs. Lyon has ably as-

TYROLEAN ALPS

Napoleon Led Infantry Down Valley of the Brenta River

WASHINGTON, D. C. June 30.—"The fierce offensive of the Austrian forces in the Tyrolean Alps and especially in the Val Sugana seems to substantiate those chroniclers who maintain that history has a habit of repeating itself, even though it be in reverse order. The present situation apparently offers the Teutonic power an opportunity to break on the southern kingdom a century-deferred revenge for a defeat suffered at the hands of Italy's ally, France, in the same Sugana valley more than a hundred years ago," says today's war geography bulletin of the National Geographic society, issued from its Washington headquarters.

"It was down the valley of the Brenta river, where recently the Archduke Charles Francis Joseph began pressing back the Italians, that Napoleon made his amazing descent upon the Austrians in 1796. The French genius of war led his wonderfully mobile infantry a distance of more than 60 miles in two days, and at the end of the march pushed them into battle against the forces of Wurmsler who had fallen back upon the city of Bassano, 20 miles south of the present Tyrolean border and 35 miles northwest of Venice.

This phenomenal dash began at Trent, where the Napoleonic force had been assembled after the victory at Rovereto four days previously.

"Levico, a town of 6000 inhabitants, lying at the east end of Lake Caldaro and 24 miles southeast of Trent, is at the head of the fertile, vine-clad Val Sugana, which follows the course of the Brenta river in its sweeping northward bend as it makes its way east, finally discharging the Italian waters at Tezze, 17 miles by rail from Trent. Next to Levico the largest town in the valley is Bregio, known in Roman days as Ausugum. On the heights surrounding this picturesque place of 4500 people are the ruins of several ancient and medieval castles, which lend a unique aspect to the landscape.

"When the Italians were driven south of the Tyrolean border they took up a strong defensive position almost parallel with the upper Sugana valley along the heights above the Franzella valley, through which runs a railway connecting Trent with the Italian towns of Asiago and Arco. The former, 34 miles north of Vicenza, is a popular summer resort for well-to-do Venetians. It is the capital of the 'sette comuni,' a barren plateau sustaining a population of 20,000. Bregio, Arco and Asiago, Tyrolean Alps, are 15 miles southwest of Asiago and is the chief town of the upper Astico valley.

"To the east of Asiago and three miles south of the Tyrolean border the Brenta river flows through a narrow gorge, the Venetian Limestone Alps. Through this passage, known as the Canale di Brenta, the Venetians of the 17th century brought to the coast the products of numerous tobacco plantations which they had established in this fertile section. Today the gorge offers many points of strategic value to an army on the defensive, and the Austrians succeeded in their drive down the Brenta valley many thrilling encounters may be staged here."

Try a Ranch Vacation This Summer

Why not spend your vacation this summer on a western ranch? Take the wife and kiddies along—you'll all thrive on it. The air is healthy and invigorating. The scenery is great and there's plenty of both.

This is exactly the kind of an outing that a man needs, who has been confined to an office—it is a complete change.

What could do you more good than to ride over the sun-flooded trails in the hills, row on silvery lakes, fish in shady brooks, tramp down winding paths among the trees, "loaf" in soft valleys of green, stroll in the moonlight, eat of "the fat of the land" and sleep like a babe? Such a vacation pays tremendous health dividends. There are scores of places out along the BURLINGTON—in the Big Horn, the Buffalo Bill country, and the Black Hills, where good, big-hearted ranch people have made arrangements to provide for summer vacationists.

The trip itself is one of real pleasure and well worth while. I will be glad to send you a list of ranches, telling you how reasonable they are and give you other points in connection with them. Just drop me a postal and I will suggest a plan that you will like.

lying at the east end of Lake Caldaro and 24 miles southeast of Trent, is at the head of the fertile, vine-clad Val Sugana, which follows the course of the Brenta river in its sweeping northward bend as it makes its way east, finally discharging the Italian waters at Tezze, 17 miles by rail from Trent. Next to Levico the largest town in the valley is Bregio, known in Roman days as Ausugum. On the heights surrounding this picturesque place of 4500 people are the ruins of several ancient and medieval castles, which lend a unique aspect to the landscape.

"When the Italians were driven south of the Tyrolean border they took up a strong defensive position almost parallel with the upper Sugana valley along the heights above the Franzella valley, through which runs a railway connecting Trent with the Italian towns of Asiago and Arco. The former, 34 miles north of Vicenza, is a popular summer resort for well-to-do Venetians. It is the capital of the 'sette comuni,' a barren plateau sustaining a population of 20,000. Bregio, Arco and Asiago, Tyrolean Alps, are 15 miles southwest of Asiago and is the chief town of the upper Astico valley.

"To the east of Asiago and three miles south of the Tyrolean border the Brenta river flows through a narrow gorge, the Venetian Limestone Alps. Through this passage, known as the Canale di Brenta, the Venetians of the 17th century brought to the coast the products of numerous tobacco plantations which they had established in this fertile section. Today the gorge offers many points of strategic value to an army on the defensive, and the Austrians succeeded in their drive down the Brenta valley many thrilling encounters may be staged here."

Why not spend your vacation this summer on a western ranch? Take the wife and kiddies along—you'll all thrive on it. The air is healthy and invigorating. The scenery is great and there's plenty of both.

This is exactly the kind of an outing that a man needs, who has been confined to an office—it is a complete change.

What could do you more good than to ride over the sun-flooded trails in the hills, row on silvery lakes, fish in shady brooks, tramp down winding paths among the trees, "loaf" in soft valleys of green, stroll in the moonlight, eat of "the fat of the land" and sleep like a babe? Such a vacation pays tremendous health dividends. There are scores of places out along the BURLINGTON—in the Big Horn, the Buffalo Bill country, and the Black Hills, where good, big-hearted ranch people have made arrangements to provide for summer vacationists.

The trip itself is one of real pleasure and well worth while. I will be glad to send you a list of ranches, telling you how reasonable they are and give you other points in connection with them. Just drop me a postal and I will suggest a plan that you will like.

"Daddy, I jus' got to have Grape-Nuts"

No wonder children are fond of Grape-Nuts food. Its crisp, attractive form and delicious barley sweetness appeal wonderfully to the child's taste.

Grape-Nuts is made of Nature's finest food grains—wheat and barley. It is ready to eat direct from the sealed packet—convenient, economical, easy to digest, richly nourishing—the most perfect cereal food ever devised.

But above all, this food makes children sturdy and helps them to get big A's in their studies. For bounding health and vitality every boy and girl should have a daily ration of Grape-Nuts with cream or good rich milk.

IN POLICE COURT

Drove Off an Auto Not His Own—Out of Jail in Again

It was nearly 11 o'clock this morning before Judge Enright was able to start the regular session of police court, the delay having been caused by the grist of business brought to his attention in the juvenile court.

Henry Noble was charged with operating an automobile in Middlesex street, North Chelmsford, without a license, but he is very fortunate that a complaint of larceny was not also preferred against him for according to the testimony offered by Officer Vinal of that village Noble took the machine and drove it away without the permission of the owner.

Noble said he didn't know why he took the automobile and did not seem to realize the seriousness of his offense. He told the court that he is a member of a militia company in Concord, Mass. and is supposed to report at that place tomorrow morning.

Noble continued the case until tomorrow and in the meantime the captain of the militia company to which Noble claims to belong will be queried and if it is essential that Noble report for duty tomorrow, he will be turned over to the captain.

John Kushlan, who is in the employ of a local window cleaning concern, was before the court this morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of two neckties, the property of Joseph C. Manseau. It is alleged that Kushlan, while doing some work at Mr. Manseau's store at the corner of Merrimack and Hanover streets, stole the neckwear. When the case was called in court this morning the complainant said that settlements had been made with him and he did not care to press the matter. Therefore the case was placed on file.

Normandus Houle has spent nine and one-half months of the past year in jail and although he has been released from that institution yesterday morning after serving several months he was arrested before night and appeared in court this morning. He pleaded for another chance and said if given a half hour he would leave town. He was given a suspended sentence of six months in the house of correction.

George O. Stewart, who claims to belong in Missouri was given a bad beating yesterday according to a story told by him in court this morning. He said that after being released by the probation officer yesterday morning he was assaulted by an unknown person and sustained a broken rib. Owing to the man's condition he was sentenced to jail for one month.

William Sexton, charged with being drunk, was sentenced to 15 days in jail. James Best was given two months in jail and Fred Gay was given a suspended sentence of two months in the same institution. The case of George O. Tobie was continued until Wednesday.

Russian forces which have been fighting with the Turks on the Persian frontier of Mesopotamia, north-east of Bagdad, have been defeated in an attack of Turkish positions near Serail and compelled to withdraw toward the southeast, according to Constantinople.

British officers' casualties up to June 17, 20,000, the number of killed being 8,574.

PARIS, June 30, 12.30 p.m.—In a terrific attack upon the French positions in the Verdun sector, the Germans captured a fortified work in the first line of the French trenches after the garrison had been literally buried under a storm of shells. The position was recaptured by a brilliant French counter-attack, according to official reports issued by the French war office today.

The Germans also delivered a powerful attack on the French positions in Avocourt wood and west of Hill 304, but all their efforts are declared to have been checked. Considerable activity is reported on the front from Neuport to the Alsne.

75 POISONED AT PICNIC

PASTOR OF PORTSMOUTH, RHODE ISLAND, CHURCH AMONG THOSE STRICKEN—SEVERAL MAY DIE

PORTSMOUTH, R. I., June 30.—Seventy-five children and adults, members of St. George's Episcopal church, were stricken with ptomaine poisoning at a Sunday school picnic held here yesterday, following their partaking of the lunch provided by the church. Fifteen, including the Rev. George Vernon Dickey, pastor of the church, are critically ill.

Scenes of automobiles and taxicabs, impressed by frantic telephone calls, and all available police, fire and private wagons, rushed to the scene of the picnic. The picnic was held on a hillside out of Newport, and carried the unconscious victims to hospitals and physicians' homes.

The scenes at the picnic struck terror into those who were present. A short half-hour after lunch time, about 2:30, people were seen to become dizzy, and finally fall to the ground. Two persons who rushed to the telephone fell as they spoke into the receiver.

The children ranged in age from 6 to 15. Among the dangerously ill are several of the Sunday school teachers and numerous aged women.

The cause of the catastrophe is generally admitted to have been chopped ham sandwiches, which were generally served to the picnickers. The ham, it was said, had been home cooked at the house of one of the women of the Sunday school, whose own children were among the picnickers.

All night the work went on. Rigid investigation of the cause of the occurrence was at once undertaken by Captain James J. Leary of the Newport police. It was learned that lemonade, cheese and ham sandwiches salad, ice cream and cakes had been served. A strange feature is the fact that among those stricken were some who declared they had not eaten of some one of the delicacies.

Every physician in Newport was called by City Physician Frances A. Keenan, and fully a dozen at once responded. Some of them treated anywhere from 10 to 25 victims. Those so far reported as being critically ill—and of whom some are expected not to live—are:

Nelson Belfort, aged 6.
Raymond Belfort, aged 8.
Margaret Callahan, aged 10.
Annette Callahan, aged 12.
Mrs. Harriet E. Rogers, aged 62.
Miss Mary F. Dewick, aged 71.
Miss Leola Baneroff, aged 18, Sunday school teacher.
Miss Susie Manchester, 19, Sunday school teacher.
Rita Russell, aged 16.
Miss Gladys Longley, 18, Sunday school teacher.
Ottillie Wendell, aged 14.
Edith Ray, aged 10.
The Rev. George Vernon Dickey, pastor.

SHOT BY SECTION HAND WHEN HE REFUSED TO GO AWAY FROM RAILROAD TRACK

MONTPELIER, Vt., June 30.—John Caven, 15 years old, was shot and fatally wounded at Montpelier Junction last night. The boy and a companion were sitting beside the railroad track, when two men employed as section hands came out of a railroad building and ordered them to go away. When they refused, one of the railroad employees drew a revolver and fired. After the shooting the section hands ran away and had not been located by the police late last night.

TOOK FEDERAL OATH

The members of the local companies of the Sixth regiment, M.V.M., Companies C, G and K, and the officers who did not go to camp at South Framingham were administered the federal oath last evening at the armory, Capt. Walter R. Jones of G company, Capt. James N. Gregg of K company and Lieut. James Powers of C company, administering the oath.

The members of Company G assembled at the armory for a rendezvous drill and they were practically all present. The members of the other companies were called in by the telephone alarm. Company C had 38 men in line and they all took the oath. Company G had 55 men and all but two took the oath. Company K had 47 and most of them took the oath.

Before taking the oath its meaning was explained to the men and they were also informed that it was not mandatory with them to become federalized. The first men to be sworn in were the commissioned officers of the companies who did not go to camp. This evening the members of the companies who were not present last evening will be sworn in.

PUT TO DEATH SERGT. WHELAN KITCHENER WILL

Shillitani Executed for Murder of Two New York Policemen Represents the British Government Here as Munition Inspector British War Lord Who Was Drowned Left Estate of $850,000

SHILLITANI, N. Y., June 30.—Orestes Shillitani was executed in the Sing Sing prison this morning for the murder of three years ago of two New York policemen, who were attempting to arrest him for killing a man in a quarrel about a girl.

Shillitani made no pretense of insanity during his trial but became apparently crazed with terror in the death-house a few weeks ago when two other prisoners were executed, smashed the furnishings in his cell and beat on the bars of the door and begged to be set free.

A week ago he obtained possession of a revolver, fatally shot one of the keepers in the deathhouse and wounded another. Taking the keys to the deathhouse doors from them, he escaped to the prison yard, and, stripping off his clothing, swam around the end of the prison wall which extends into the Hudson river. He went straight to the Ossining hospital, demanded admission and was returned to prison.

Appeals were made to the governor on the ground that Shillitani was insane but he declared the prisoner was sane and declined to interfere.

Shillitani went to the electric chair without resistance and before his death made a short statement, saying he was sorry he killed the prison keeper and declaring that his "brain was not right."

GATEMAN SAVES WOMAN

FLAGGED TRAIN, AND ENGINE STOPPED TEN FEET FROM DISMOUNTED AUTOMOBILE

BOSTON, June 30.—Two Winthrop women, whose automobile had crashed through the gates at the Forest street crossing in Wakefield yesterday afternoon, were saved from an onrushing train by Chester C. Patch, who ran down the track, flagged the train, and succeeded in bringing it to a stop on the crossing about 10 feet from the machine.

H. G. Clapp was driving the machine and had crossed the tracks and started up the Foster street hill. Half way up the hill she tried to shift gears, but found difficulty in doing so and then tried to stop the car. The brakes failed to work and the car started to coast backward down the hill.

Patch, who is the crossing tender, heard the woman's screams, and, letting the gates down to stop the momentum of the auto, he took a red flag and ran down the track.

The engine applied the emergency brakes and brought the train to a stop with the front part of the engine on the crossing.

INDUSTRIAL AND STORE NEWS

The members of Local 829, Machinists union, held an interesting meeting at 22 Middle street. The attendance was large, several new members were initiated and considerable business was transacted.

Major Walter G. Penfield, manager of the Remington Arms Co. of Bridgeport, Conn., is to withdraw from the position of manager, but his successor has not yet been named. One of the Bridgeport papers thinks his successor may be able to establish a better feeling between the management and the 10,000 employees of the company.

Railway Clerks

The Railway Clerks held their regular meeting last evening and transacted routine business. The meeting was largely attended and new members were initiated.

Labor Day

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the Labor day celebration, which will be held in this city on the first Monday in September, will meet probably next week to organize the various sub-committees. This committee is composed of delegates from the various union organizations of the city. The program of the celebration has not as yet been outlined, but it is believed that the traditional parade will be in order with sports on the commons.

While visiting with a party of Lowell friends, in Claremont, N. H., some few years ago we met one of the natives of that beautiful town, who spent several hours showing us around. He was possessed of a typical "up-country" twang, so common to the Yankee farmer, and when told of the time he had spent in the British army, he announced that he would be obliged to leave us, in order to attend an important meeting, one of the party remarked:

"What you got on, a meeting of the Grange?"

"Grange, gosh no! This is meetin' night of theibernians and I'm the secretary, and they raise the old hurry if I don't show up to read the minutes," was the startling reply.

After he had departed, one of the party ventured the assertion that if he ever tried to get into a Hibernian meeting in Lowell, with that twang, he'd find them all from Missouri. I was pleasantly reminded of the meeting with my Claremont friend, last evening, when Sergt. J. Patrick Whelan, the jovial, melodious and popular representative of the British government at the U. S. Cartridge Co. plant, who speaks with a dialect that would make Sam Deane green, was informed by me that he is a member of the Hibernians and the United Irish league, in dear old Lunnon. And he's a great rooster for Hon. John E. Redmond into the bargain.

Sergt. Whelan is a native of Woolwich, London, though his parents, and as he told me, "the Whelans" came from Queens county, Ireland. He has been in the British army since 1886, and is a veteran of the Boer war, and wears the medal of five bars. He was prepared to go to the front when the present European war broke out, but on account of his experience in artillery matters, his superior thought he could be of greater service as an inspector, to keep tabs on the munitions being manufactured for England, in this country, and hence, one year ago, he was assigned to the Lowell plant and coming here with his family he has been a resident ever since, and has made friends galore in this city.

But for the past 25 years when not fighting, or inspecting munitions, Sergt. Whelan has busied himself writing songs, and among the English residents of Lowell has fame as such a secure. In his time, Sergt. Whelan has composed some 200 songs. Many of which have been good successes across the water. He has continued to write them and sing them, since coming to Lowell, and there is probably no member of the Bunting club, who has not enjoyed his sweet tenor voice, for he's an enthusiastic member of the club, and is always ready to accommodate when called upon to sing.

Although passionately fond of music, a good singer, and successful at song writing, Sergt. Whelan has never studied music and doesn't play any musical instrument. He starts his songs with the words, and then he sets them to music as the melody comes to him. He gets a piano player to write the music for him, after he has sung the melody to him, and then after fixing it up, and making changes to put a finish on the melody, his song is ready for the publisher.

Two years ago, after hearing a home rule speech by Hon. John E. Redmond, in the house of commons, Sergt. Whelan became inspired and wrote a song entitled "Loyal Ireland," which he dedicated to the Irish leader. The latter wrote him a nice letter in acknowledgment, and the letter is among Sergt. Whelan's treasures, today. The song "Loyal Ireland," was published in London and in Dublin and made a big hit, judging from the big sales.

Since coming to Lowell, Sergt. Whelan has written several songs, one of which was published in New York for the benefit of the Red Cross. Sergt. Whelan sent the first 50 copies of this song to Miss Burke of this city, who is connected with the Red Cross, and the second 50 were sent to London. Another song, written by him since coming to Lowell is entitled "Nornie May-mourneen" and the copyright of this composition he presented to the Bunting club, to raise funds for the club. Some time ago he presented the Bunting club a complete projectile, which was disposed of by ticket for the benefit of the building fund.

Sergt. Whelan finishes his duties in Lowell on August 1, and goes from here to Portland, Me., where he is to serve as inspector in a munitions plant in that city. He goes wherever he is assigned by his government, though if he had his choice, he says, he would remain in Lowell for he likes the place and people "bloomin' well," and he has made many good friends in town.

Mr. Whelan's song dedicated to John E. Redmond, and according to the London press announcements, was sung with great success by Dave Carter, the popular Irish tenor. The first stanza of it runs as follows:

"Britain today is full of care and strife,
Britain they say has got to fight,
and for very life,
She needs help from every mother's son,
Will Ireland come and help her is a
Time heals wonders, and Ireland's discontent,
Was healed by words John Redmond said of late in parliament."

The annual outing of the Chelmsford Street Free Baptist church is being held at Willow Dale today, the picnickers left the square at 3 o'clock this morning.

LONDON, June 30.—The will of Field Marshal Earl Kitchener, the British secretary of war, who lost his life in the sinking of the cruiser Hampshire off the Orkneys June 5, was admitted to probate today. It shows that he left an estate valued at £171,420, (approximately $850,000).

The largest bequests were the sum of £20,000 to his nephew, Henry Hamilton Kitchener, writer at Brookline park estate and all lands in Kent county to his nephew, Commander Henry Franklin Chevallier Kitchener, R. N., a son of the new earl.

The will makes a number of smaller bequests to relatives and friends, including £200 each to several officers who served on Lord Kitchener's personal staff.

Among these was Gen. Sir William R. Birdwood.

To Col. Oswald A. G. Fitzgerald, Lord Kitchener's personal military secretary, who was drowned with the field marshal, was left all Kitchener's lands in British East Africa amounting to about 5000 acres in plantations, etc.

Swords of honor, plate and other gifts from public bodies are devoted as heirlooms, in settled estates. The will was dated Nov. 2, 1914.

IRISH TAG DAY WORKERS GIVEN GOOD TIME BY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE LAST EVENING

A social and entertainment that did not have a dull moment from start to finish was that given last evening in Hibernian hall by the Irish Tag day executive committee of 25 as complimentary to the young lady volunteers and the O.M.I. Cadets who helped on tag day. About fifty of the cadets were present in uniform, their blue and white giving a pretty touch to the audience of over 200. One of their number, Captain Leth of Company D, had a corporal in the Ninth regiment had come from Camp Whitney, Framingham, to be present, and when he left, he was given a rousing send off with three cheers and a tiger.

There was a delightful musical program and a few brief addresses. James F. Miskella was chairman of the occasion and he made the introductory address thanking all present for their aid on tag day. Mr. James O'Sullivan, treasurer, made a detailed report showing that $3000 had been collected for the families of those who suffered in the recent Irish rebellion.

A piano selection was played by Paul Angeli who also played most of the accompaniments for the evening. There was a cornet solo by William Riley, a violin and piano duet by the dainty Misses Goggin, and a piano solo by Miss Mildred Denver. Songs were sung by Commissioner James E.

WHY MILITIA MUST SERVE

COURT MARTIAL PROVISIONS IN ACTS OF 1903 AND 1908 FOR THOSE WHO REFUSE

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The adjutant general of the organized militia of every state in the Union has been instructed by the war department that militia men, who refuse to take the oath of allegiance to the United States are subject to court-martial under the provisions of the acts of 1903 and 1908. The present purpose is not to compel militia men to take the double oath prescribed by the new national defense act. Under the constitution they are obliged to serve at the call of the president within the territorial boundaries of the United States.

The joint resolution just passed by congress authorizing the president to "draft" as well as call the militia will eliminate the necessity for taking the new oath. Under this draft President Wilson is empowered to send militia troops anywhere that he can send regulars.

Any guardsmen who are holding back from taking the oath on the theory that the new law is not compulsory must now reckon with the new power conferred upon the president to draft them, which supplies any lack in authority provided by the old law.

The commanding general of the District of Columbia militia has informed the few men who are holding back at taking the oath that the old law makes it compulsory for them to present themselves for muster and they will be promptly court-martialed if they fail to do so.

Adj. Gen. Cole of Massachusetts is within his rights in threatening to apply the court-martial to recalcitrant guardsmen in that state.

Pierce Fighting at Verdun--The French Recapture Trench After Desperate Struggle

Flaming Liquids Used

Paris today announces that while the crown prince's troops succeeded in carrying a redoubt east of Hill 304, literally crushing its defenders, a spirited counter-attack ultimately drove them out. Flaming liquids were used freely by the Germans in their attacks on the principal English salients.

BRITISH LOSSES BANDITS HANGED

Casualties Among Officers in May 1901--Total Losses 27,905

LONDON, June 18.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—Casualties among officers in the British army continue to grow. Published lists for the month of May show that 46 were killed, 1080 wounded and 55 missing—a total of 1691. This brings the aggregate losses since the beginning of the war to 27,905, of whom 8374 were killed or died of wounds, 15,421 were wounded and 4050 are missing.

Losses during the month have been heaviest in the Indian contingent in Mesopotamia with 48 killed and 107 wounded. The Canadians lost 33 killed and 80 wounded; field artillery 19 killed, 80 wounded; Lancashire 25 killed, 41 wounded; Australians 27 killed, 21 wounded; London regiments 12 killed, 35 wounded, 11 missing; engineers 12 killed, 43 wounded; Yorkshires 14 killed, 28 wounded.

Among officers of high rank, Brig. Generals Hogbin, Heyworth, Rice and Morrison were killed or died of wounds; three other brigadier generals were wounded and 11 lieutenant colonels were killed.

ATTACKED BY LIONESS

PITTSFIELD, June 30.—Charles Schwartz, an animal trainer with the Sheesley shows, was attacked by "Mad Sheba," a lioness he was putting through an act in a cage late yesterday, and was only saved from being mangled in the enraged animal's jaws by a heavy puttee lined with iron. Schwartz was knocked down and mauled by the lioness so badly he will be unable to appear for several days.

BROOKLYN BRIDGE

Brooklyn bridge was opened in 1883. It is built over the East river between New York and Brooklyn, 5989 feet in length and therefore is one of the longest bridges in the world. Every day thousands and thousands of people cross and recross this bridge. Our store has been longer in service than the Brooklyn bridge. It was opened in 1875 with one employee. Like the bridge it has accommodated thousands of customers every day for many years. By so doing we have risen from the ranks and obtained a reputation for good and faithful service.

In an effort to check its slump of this week in which four straight games were dropped, Manager Kilhullen's baseball team, which is under the process of reorganization, went after Hartford at Spalding park this afternoon in its first of a series of three games to be played today and tomorrow.

The Lowell team arrived home last night and was joined this forenoon by Red Torphy, who has been at his home in Fall River with an injured shoulder. Two new infielders were in Lowell uniforms at the park this afternoon. They are: Helfrich, who signed up a week ago, and O'Connell, the youngster who started the season with New London.

Better results are expected from the Lowell team when the players get settled in regular positions. Helfrich and O'Connell were expected to complete the infield but on account of Torphy's injury, Greenhaige was obliged to remain on third and it has been necessary to change the lineup of the team nearly every day.

Joe Kilhullen and George Spikes, who had their ups and downs together on the New England league last season, opposed each other as managers of the respective teams. Both also started this season as members of the Lowell team but Spikes was loaned to Hartford for the year by Harry Lord, ex-manager, and he was recently named manager after playing a fine game of ball.

Lohman was on the mound for Lowell again today and Kilhullen was behind the bat. Salmon did the twirling for the visitors with Skiff on the receiving end of the battery. Umpire Stafford called the game at three o'clock, the batting order of the teams being as follows:

WAR IS NEAR

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Private advice reaching Washington from a reliable source in Mexico City today said Gen. Carranza and his advisers had determined to stand by orders to no new developments in the Mexican crisis to be considered. Military preparations are being rushed to completion, however, but diplomatically there is nothing to be done until Carranza's reply is received, or it becomes apparent that he will not respond within a reasonable time.

Eduardo Arredondo, the Mexican ambassador-designate, called on Mr. Lansing early in the day to communicate formally the information that his government had ordered the release of the American troops captured at Carrizal.

State Department Impatient

A brief talk followed, during which Mr. Lansing took occasion to make it plain that the Washington government expected an early reply to its note forwarded to Mexico City last Sunday. The ambassador was impressed with the fact that the state department was growing impatient at the delay.

Release of Troopers Delays Action

The release of the captured troopers has delayed military action, but has not relieved the critical diplomatic situation now existing. Several reports from Special Agent Rodgers referring to refugees or routine matters did not mention the Mexican note. He has had no light to shed on the probable course Carranza would take. It is known, however, that interests in the Mexican capital which have been

FACTORIES WILL CLOSE

The local cotton and worsted mills, a part of the Saco-Lowell shops, practically the entire plant of the United States Cartridge Co. will close their doors tomorrow noon, not to reopen again until Wednesday morning, and in this way the employees will be given a rest and a brief vacation.

The Talbot mills of North Billerica will also close tomorrow noon until Wednesday morning, noting to that effect having been posted in the various departments of the plant.

At the U. S. Cartridge Co. it was stated this morning that with the exception of one department, where a few women will be kept at work, the entire plant will close tomorrow until Wednesday morning, this including the night work.

The department stores as well as the grocery and meat establishments will keep open as usual on Monday, but on Tuesday most of them will close all day.

The usual midway features will be conducted on the South common and there will be attractions not yet announced.

WAS ARRAIGNED TODAY ON CHARGE OF VIOLATING ANTI-TIPPING LAW

NEW YORK, June 30.—Paul Koenig, former chief of the secret service of the Hamburg-American line, was discharged under suspended sentence in a state court when arraigned today charged with violating the anti-tipping law. He pleaded guilty. He was accused of having proffered $25 for certain letters and papers of the National City bank, the president of which, Frank A. Vanderlip, had requested, according to District Attorney Swann, that the defendant's sentence be suspended.

This charge is a mere incident in a matter now pending in the federal courts. Mr. Swann told the judges. "I have investigated the defendant's former record and found that it was excellent. I do not approve of making convicts of business men because of slight mistakes in judgment on their part."

Koenig is under indictment with others charged with having started in the United States a military enterprise against the Dominion of Canada. His trial has been deferred until the fall.

MARSHALL CASE

NEW YORK, June 30.—Argument on the writ of habeas corpus obtained by H. Snowden Marshall, United States district attorney when he was arrested on Monday in connection with the proceedings for alleged contempt brought against him by the house of representatives, was deferred by United States Judge Mayer today until July 8. The postponement was granted at the request of attorneys for the house.

SUPPRESS ALL NEWS OF U. S. TROOP MOVEMENTS

Secretary Baker Issues Orders to All the Department Army Commanders

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Secretary Baker announced today that orders have been sent to all department army commanders to suppress all news concerning troop movements.

The war department order follows: "In view of the fact that general knowledge of troop movements in the United States is of such a nature as to result in some malicious act which might seriously hamper these movements and also might result in unnecessary loss of life among troops, it is directed that all concerned be instructed to the effect that no information as to movements of troops is to be given to representatives of the press or any individuals other than the officials of the railroad concerned or the representatives of the American Railway association located at the various department headquarters and mobilization and concentration points."

At the same time the department announced that National Guard organizations which start for the border without full complements of field transportation will be supplied by Gen. Funston upon reaching the border.

TRIBUTE TO U. S. AIRMAN

Corp. Chapman Was on Errand of Mercy for Wounded Comrade When He Met His Death

PARIS, June 30.—It was while on an errand of mercy for a wounded comrade that Corporal Victor Chapman of New York, a member of the Franco-American aviation corps, met his death last week. Capt. Boelke, the most famous of all German aviators, who up to that time had accounted for 15 aeroplanes, sent Chapman to his death, but before he fell the American brought down two German machines.

These details are disclosed in a semi-official statement given out here today, which also announced rewards and promotions for other American aviators for recent accomplishments. All the members of the American squadrons have now been decorated or promoted.

Sergeant Clyde Baisley of San Antonio, Tex., wounded in a fight near Verdun and probably crippled for life, is in a hospital a few miles from the aviation camp to which Corporal Chapman was attached. The sergeant asked for an orange but there was none to be had at the hospital. Corporal Chapman heard of the incident and decided to gratify the desire of his comrade. He obtained a small basket of oranges and set forth in his aeroplane for the hospital.

When he was on his way he saw several black spots against the sky to his right in the direction of the German lines. He flew toward them and discovered that three French aeroplanes were engaged with four German machines. The New Yorker

STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 30.—Agents of the federal department of labor are soon to begin an investigation in Massachusetts to determine whether the federal immigration law has been violated by the state board of insanity or by any of the officials of institutions under its jurisdiction, in obtaining foreigners for positions in the institutions under their control. The attention of the federal department has been called by Rep. Frederic E. Dowling of Boston, to an advertisement which appeared recently, for several consecutive weeks, in the Daily Courier, a weekly newspaper published in Digby, Nova Scotia, a copy of which is given below:

"WANTED

"Young women as attendants at the Wrentham State hospital. Salary first six months, $29, second six months, $32, after one year, $35, including board, room and laundry. George L. Wallace, Supt., Wrentham, Mass."

Haughton, assistant commissioner-general, advises Rep. Dowling that the advertisement is a clear violation of section 6 of the immigration act, and states that "an investigation through the Boston office will be directed at Wrentham, Mass., to determine who is responsible for the advertisement referred to, and to ascertain whether or not there are aliens now in the employ of that hospital as a result of this advertisement."

"Discussing the matter today, Representative Dowling said: 'I am informed that it is a common practice of several of our state institutions to advertise in Nova Scotia papers for hospital attendants, and that a considerable portion of the 15,000 emigrants of institutions under the control of the state board of insanity come from that section. If my information is correct, it means that aliens are being brought into this state to receive in our institutions training which fits them to become nurses, and are finally turned out as graduate nurses to compete with our own girls who have been forced to incur large expenditures and to put in years of hard work before they are permitted to practice nursing.'

"In my judgment it is a serious evil, and if the federal department is unable to cope with it under the immigration law, I shall present to the next legislature a bill which will prohibit the employment of aliens in our state institutions."

IN U. S. ARMY PAY RUNS FROM 50 CENTS A DAY FOR PRIVATES TO $30.56 FOR LIEUT. GENERAL

The Sun has received many queries of late as to soldiers' pay in the United States army, for in these days when so many good men are going into military service, there is considerable public interest in the payroll schedule and the following rates of pay in the United States army per day are published for the benefit of those who are interested:

Private: Cavalry, artillery, infantry, signal corps, second class private, engineers and ordnance, musician, trumpeter—50 cents.
Private: Hospital corps—53 cents.
First class private: Engineers, ordnance, signal corps, hospital corps—60 cents.
Corporal: Cavalry, artillery, infantry, wagoner, artificer, farrier, saddle

Corporal: Engineers, ordnance, signal corps, hospital corps, chief mechanic, mechanic, coast artillery, private, bands—80 cents.

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be haunted at on account of your fat, but go to A. W. Dows & Co. or any good druggist, and get a box of Oil of Koraia capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body. It costs little, is absolutely harmless and a week's trial should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of unsightly fat.

try, hospital corps, stable sergeant, company quartermaster sergeant, cavalry, artillery, infantry, cook, acting cook, hospital corps, fireman, corporal, bands, horseshoer, cavalry, mechanic, field artillery, performing duty as horseshoer—$1.

APPLICATIONS FOR ENLISTMENT CONTINUE TO REACH HEADQUARTERS

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 30.—Applications for enlistment in a proposed volunteer division which Col. Theodore

Roosevelt is preparing to organize if there is a call for volunteers are so numerous that the colonel's secretary, Walter J. Hays, issued today a statement in which he said:

"We have been literally deluged with telegrams and letters with applications from men who wish to join a volunteer division. It is physically impossible to reply individually to the organizations and to the men who have communicated with us, but I will see that their applications are carefully filed for future reference so that in the event of hostilities they can be apprised of what action is contemplated."

PROSPERITY BAROMETER

—Big Business Wants to Control Government Again

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Articles fashioned from iron and steel are of universal consumption. They enter into the economy of every household and of every individual citizen, even the babe in arms. Hence it is no fiction that the iron and steel industry is the infallible barometer of trade. When dearth is in the field, when the mart is empty, when the bay is shipless, when retrenchment is imperative, the fires in the steel mill are not lighted and the sound of the trip hammer is not heard. The wage of labor is reduced and the ranks of the unemployed are swelled. Indeed ours is the iron age.

The American people are the most enormous producers and the most prodigious consumers of iron and its products in the world. For fifty years we have been told that the iron industry of the United States cannot possibly exist without a protective tariff levied to secure it in the home market against the predatory fingers of foreign parties. True, Mr. Andrew Carnegie, who knows more about iron and steel than any other citizen of this or any other country, testified before a congressional commission that the American iron and steel industry had outgrown its baby clothes, that it was no longer an infant, but that it would turn out steel at a less cost than any other nation and at the same time pay a higher wage to labor than any other nation.

Government Abandoned to Trusts

But for more than half a century our Congress invited our iron and steel manufacturers to come forward and write in our tariff laws the degree of protection they wished. Long ago the republican party set the fashion that "congress should shrink its constitutional duty and abdicate its legislative privilege to write our tariff laws. The wool manufacturers wrote Schedule "K," the cotton spinners wrote the cotton schedule, the drug men wrote the chemical schedule, the sugar men the sugar schedule and so on and so forth to the end of the chapter. Neither Nelson W. Aldrich nor Seneca E. Payne knew what was in that monstrous thing called the Payne-Aldrich tariff.

The people tired of that and determined to force their government to divorce itself from "Big Business." To that end Woodrow Wilson was elected president and a congress democratic in both houses was chosen in 1912. They immediately set to work and fashioned a tariff bill, not for the few of our people who eat taxes, but for the many who pay taxes. The manufacturer was given free raw materials and told to compete with paupers from all quarters.

Calamity Cry

And then the cry was calamity! The poor, undone iron industry was to shut up shop. We were to spin no more wool or cotton; we were to cease tanning; hides into leather or fashioning anything from leather. Sheep and cattle were to starve in rich pastures; coal mines were to close; railroads were to haul nothing as there was to be nothing to haul, banks and trust companies were to go into liquidation. These were only a few of the disasters and afflictions that were to overtake our country because of a wicked democratic tariff.

Beware of false prophets. How about iron and steel? In the month of February our production of pig iron was at the rate of 35,200,000 tons a year and that is the highest ever known in any country in the world. Nor is that all. At the end of February the United States Steel Corporation had unfilled orders reaching to the stupendous totals of 8,568,000 tons, a figure heretofore unequalled in history. Mark you, the price of steel was steadily advancing because of the fact that our mills were physically inadequate to the demands and during the month of February the increase in orders amounted to 616,199 tons.

Tide of Prosperity

March beat February with orders for 9,331,001 tons, and April beat March with orders for 9,428,551 tons and the tide is still rising, the flood of which seemingly is far in the future. During the month of April the United States Steel Corporation delivered from its mills finished products amounting to 51,000 tons daily, and the orders exceeded the shipment by about 20,000 tons.

I believe the United States Steel is the largest private corporation in the world. Its business is enormous and it pays a wage as high as any like concern in our country. Does any rational man believe that this concern, with hundreds of millions of money at its command, needs protection from paupers, the Lord knows whom, located the Lord knows where? Why, not even a mollycoddle believes that!

Now these are not war orders, and all the war orders placed in our country do not amount to five per cent of the total of industrial business.

Mr. Lincoln opined it was not good policy to swap horses when crossing a stream. This prosperity American business enjoys is not a mere stream; it is a resistless torrent.

GRAND EXALTED RULER

—BANQUET AND SPEECHES

James R. Nicholson of Springfield, Mass., grand exalted ruler, who is about to retire from the position at the head of the national organization of Elks, was tendered a reception and banquet in Prescott hall last night by the members of Lowell lodge, No. 87, B.P.O.E.

The affair is one that will long be remembered by the members of the organization for it brought together one of the largest gatherings of Elks ever held in this city. Col. William L. Grayson of Savannah, Georgia, president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, who is very well known in this city, was a guest during the evening.

William D. Regan, past exalted ruler, acted as toastmaster. A feature of the program was the singing of a number dedicated to Grand Exalted Ruler Nicholson and composed by Christopher J. Hagan and James H. Buckler. Among others who contributed to the entertainment were James E. Donnelly, Andrew A. McCarthy, Edward J. Handley, R. J. Robinson and Joseph A. Molloy. The interior of Prescott hall was artistically decorated, the predominating colors being purple and white and the national colors.

During the course of the event Toastmaster Regan presented a handsome clock to Exalted Ruler Nicholson on behalf of the Lowell lodge of Elks. The opening address was made by Toastmaster Regan who outlined the principles of the Elks and in conclusion paid a touching tribute to Exalted Ruler Nicholson.

The next speaker was Mayor James E. O'Donnell, who was received with cheers. He officially welcomed Exalted Ruler Nicholson as the head, not only of the Elks, but of one of the great industries; and he expressed the hope that Mr. Nicholson might come to Lowell to make his permanent residence here.

Mayor O'Donnell paid a splendid tribute to the Elks as an organization and, at its conclusion, called for a standing recognition of the distinguished guest, Exalted Ruler Nicholson.

Exalted Ruler Nicholson said he had made 140 visits since last July, and he felt that it was singularly happy that he should pay his last visitation officially "at home" in Lowell. "I feel it is fitting that I should come back here to give an account of my stewardship for the past year. I wish to speak especially of the patriotic feature of our work, and I want to say with all possible emphasis that there is no organization in the country of fraternal nature that has done more and has acted with more sincerity than the Elks.

"In such times the work of our order in teaching reverence for the flag, and in emphasizing the value of citizenship under the Stars and Stripes; and in the practical giving so much needed in this time of war stands out like a beacon light.

"I stood last week in Boston streets and witnessed the departure of the troops of the state and I felt that the spirit of '76 was still present. I noted the enthusiasm of the multitudes, the lifting of hats in response to the stirring notes of 'The Star Spangled Banner'; and I heard the rhythmic tramp of soldierly feet to martial melodies. I was deeply impressed. There was a scene which this country alone can produce.

"We have sent these soldiers away with pride and sorrow mingled. They have left a commission to us. The day for practical help service has arrived. I have heard from a number of district deputies throughout the country who wanted to resign. I said I would not accept a resignation from these men because they were on their way to the front, and I knew that they were officials worthy of retention, even though absent for the time being.

"I want to say that the 1340 lodges of Elks throughout the country will stand by the men who have gone to the front, and will show in practical fashion the value of Elksdom in times of storm."

The toastmaster read a letter from Congressman Rogers in which the writer expressed regret at his inability to attend because of urgent matters demanding his presence at Washington. District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Coakley of Gloucester reported for 16 lodges. He referred to the Flag day service in his district and stated that

Summing up the main points again

"Self praise may be half flattery"—but telling again the story of this Behr Bros. sale and what led up to it, cannot be resisted.

This sale was born of bigness. Its organizers, including ourselves, gave it breadth, scope and liberalities.

We put a good piano back of it—the Behr Bros.—upon which the idea could stand: a piano which for years has sold right in this section at varying prices up to as high as four hundred dollars.

We fixed its price at the lowest possible dollar that the most economical selling methods would permit—two hundred and fifty-seven dollars.

We arranged the easiest sort of payments—one dollar and fifty cents a week. We charged the most nominal cash fee to participate in this sale—five dollars—and even credited this five dollars to the price of the instrument selected.

We delivered the instrument immediately—notwithstanding the five dollar initial payment did not cover the cartage.

We planned an exchange privilege, which gives the purchaser one year to fully satisfy himself as to the high character of the piano he obtains.

We got up a joint guarantee which stands today as the strongest guarantee given upon anything that is offered for sale.

And finally—we offered to give anyone their money back—provided they will but ask for it within thirty days of the time their piano is delivered.

After reading over this big, broad-gauged, liberal plan, is it any wonder we remind you not to put off—"Lest you forget." Saturday will be a good day to inspect these instruments.

How to obtain one of these BEHR BROS. instruments

To take advantage of this unusual sale, all you have to do is to send or bring in five dollars, for which we will at once give you a receipt. This five dollars is credited to your account, leaving two hundred and fifty-two dollars to be paid.

The plan then allows you one hundred and sixty-eight weeks' time in which to pay this amount—at the rate of one dollar and fifty cents a week.

You may select your piano at once. It's to your advantage to select it now. It will be delivered immediately—next week or next month. The date of delivery is optional with you.

If not convenient for you to personally select your piano, Mr. Shaw will make the selection for you under your instructions, with the understanding that, if at the end of a thirty days' trial the piano is not satisfactory, we will refund your money.

WE ARE SO LIKELY to forget. We are so likely to put off. We get in the habit of thinking that we have plenty of time for this or that.

This great piano sale is now in mind—when we pencil these thoughts. We have in mind that it was even our own expectation, when this sale opened, that it would continue at least three weeks longer.

Now we know that it cannot possibly run for two weeks longer.

This sale has been electrifying. It has been huge—gigantic—stupendous in its success.

Like a snow-ball rolling down hill, it has gathered size and strength as it progressed.

Yesterday we could scarcely serve our customers. Today—the same thing—and tomorrow, being Saturday—and this reminder to quicken your coming—we no doubt will have the largest single day's orders to fill of any one day since this big sale was announced.

Is it, therefore, too much to ask that you come in the forenoon, if you can find it convenient to do so?

The Player-Piano plan is also outlined again

Fifty Behr Bros. player-pianos are also being sold during this unusual sale.

The usual price of these player-pianos is five hundred to six hundred dollars each.

Our sale price is three hundred and ninety-seven dollars.

The player-piano will also be delivered immediately upon the payment of five dollars.

The payments will be two dollars and twenty-five cents a week—giving you one hundred and seventy-four weeks' time in which to make your payments. The same unconditional guarantee that is given on the piano is given on the player-piano.

You can also get your money back at any time within thirty days.

All of the features of this most unusual sale are carried out in offering the player-piano, with the single exception that the terms on the player-piano are two dollars and twenty-five cents a week instead of—as on the piano—one dollar and fifty cents a week.

You get the same privilege of exchanging within one year as that given with the piano.

Also, a player-piano bench and ten rolls of music (your own selection) are included without extra charge.

These player-pianos are standard 88-note players; that is, they play every note on the piano when the music roll is in motion.

These player-pianos have an automatic shifter which compels the music to play perfectly. Most player-pianos sold at from two hundred to two hundred and fifty dollars more than these will not play perfectly.

City State

It was a splendid success. Charles F. J. McCue of Boston and Mark Sullivan of Boston were also heard in speeches. The latter paid a glowing tribute to Exalted Ruler Nicholson.

He referred briefly to the present democratic administration, and while he said he was unable to burst into rhapsodies over the course of events, he believed with Lodge that every shoulder now should be put to the wheel of state in this situation; and, like Decatur, all should arise and affirm "My country, right or wrong."

Col. Grayson

Col. Grayson of Savannah was introduced to the tune of "Dixie." He was perfectly at home. Although for a long time head of the Eagles in this country, he is also an Elk and one of the really enthusiastic types.

"This meeting," he said, "seems to typify Americanism; it seems to breathe the true patriotic spirit. This organization by virtue of its principles is forever connected with the future of this country. It isn't often that I have the opportunity of addressing you northerners, and I fully appreciate the honor now extended to me. I yield to no man in my love of the one flag, though I like Dixie, where I was born. It is your flag and my flag. Your heart and my heart beat quicker at its sight. Let us think now of our boys on the way to the border. No matter where they come from, they're our boys, and they're marching to the tunes of Dixie and the Star Spangled Banner."

Col. Grayson's close brought many cheers and with the audience on its feet "America" was sung with unusual fervor.

Exalted Ruler William Scott was heard in a brief exposition of Elks' principles.

As the climax of the occasion Toastmaster Regan made a presentation speech, and with the speech went a handsome clock, the gift of the Lowell Elks. The exalted ruler made a fitting address in appreciation.

On the banquet committee were:

Brother John J. Lee, P.E.R., chairman; Abel R. Campbell, secretary and treasurer; Exalted Ruler William Scott, Fred H. Bourke, P.E.R.; Hon. George E. Putnam, Christopher J. Hagan, William D. Regan, P.E.R.; Elias A. McQuade, John J. Healey, James H. Walker, Patrick Kelley.

Money deposited in The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank on or before Saturday, July 1st, will bear interest from that date.

NEW JOB FOR MR. ROSS

He is to Investigate Causes of Sickness and Accidents in the Textile Centres of the State

BOSTON, June 30.—The state board of labor and industries at its meeting today appointed Mr. Samuel Ross, who was recently made a member of this board, to investigate and collect data on the prevalence and causes of sickness and accidents among textile workers of this state. Mr. Ross has long been identified with the textile workers of Massachusetts and is especially qualified to undertake an investigation of this kind. This investigation is to concern itself in the collection of facts relative to textile industries that affect directly the welfare of the workers as well as those factors in textile manufacture that are most essential in the production of this line of industry. These factors are first, the question of proper humidification and temperature of the factory, secondly, the problem of proper lighting and ventilation and, thirdly, the best type of shuttle in textile manufacture. These problems are as essential from the manufacturers' standpoint as in the health and accident prevention propaganda which the board of labor and industries has inaugurated among the workers of the state.

For many years the textile centres of this and other states have been considered the most unhealthful parts of the state, principally because of the conditions associated with this branch of industry. The board of labor and industries is trying to lower this rate of sickness in these centres. Mr. Ross' practical knowledge and experience in the textile industries should be of the greatest value to the board in this undertaking.

HOSPITAL PLANS

go over to next year, if the city would build the buildings therein enumerated this year.

There had been considerable discussion of the plans for the isolation hospital. The plans called for 62 beds and Dr. McCarty thought fewer beds would do and that a saving could be made by having fewer beds. The doctor, in fact, thought that a building a little larger than half the size of the building described on the plan would suffice. He suggested that it wasn't up to Lowell to prepare for an epidemic of diphtheria, typhoid fever, or any other contagious disease, for the chances are, he said, that no such epidemic will ever occur. The true vein of his thought was that the future was not to be judged by the past; that medical science is constantly developing and that there should be less disease and sickness in the future rather than more despite the increase in population.

Mr. Jenness thought it was wasteful time to discuss a contagious hospital having less than 62 rooms, for that was the minimum number of rooms named by the board of health at a previous meeting. The mayor, however, was inclined to agree with Dr. McCarty's version of the affair and thought that perhaps fewer rooms would do. Agent Bates, of the board of health, said that the hospital should be looked upon in the light of a preventive rather than a cure. He said that when a contagious disease showed itself in a family the easiest and best way to prevent the spread of the disease was to quarantine the whole family. He said that in some cases the family could be quarantined at home, but that in the majority of cases a place of quarantine would have to be provided. He said it would not require an epidemic to fill a good sized hospital.

The matter of having separate wards for diphtheria and typhoid fever and other contagious diseases was discussed and Dr. McCarty went on record as saying there wasn't any need of separate wards, that by properly sterilizing the rooms cases of diphtheria might occupy the same room and beds recently vacated by typhoid fever cases, and vice versa.

Dr. Finnegan Resigns

Dr. Francis A. Finnegan, examining physician of the Lowell tuberculosis dispensary has resigned to accept the position with the state board of health, to which he was recently appointed as the result of a competitive examination. Mayor O'Donnell's acceptance of Dr. Finnegan's resignation is contained in the following letter:

Dear Dr. Finnegan: Your letter containing notice of your resignation as examining physician of the Lowell tuberculosis dispensary has been received, and because you are leaving to accept an important and responsible position your resignation is accepted cheerfully, but otherwise it would be with regret.

Permit me to express my appreciation of the painstaking and efficient service that you have given the city during your incumbency, and to wish you long and continued success and happiness in your new field.

Respectfully,
James E. O'Donnell,
Mayor of Lowell.

The mayor is in receipt of a communication from Ruth Burke, secretary of the executive committee for Middlesex County chapter, American Red Cross, in which she states that the Red Cross headquarters in Washington has been informed as to the soldiers' relief work as mapped out in Lowell. She also sent instructions sent from Washington in regard to the matter of help for families of soldiers and sailors.

Steel Filing Cases

The steel filing cases for the various vaults at city hall have arrived and will be installed next week. The cases represent several thousand dollars and are being installed by order of the state authorities.

Want Chauffeurs' Licenses

Thirty applicants for chauffeurs' licenses took the examination at city hall this forenoon. The examiners were Messrs. Hubble, Olzen and Bowman of the Massachusetts highway commission.

AUTO RUNS WILD

BOSTON, June 30.—Otis Chamberlain, a GAR veteran and the oldest letter carrier in Cambridge, and four companions were seriously injured at about 9.30 o'clock last night when the automobile in which they were riding overturned on Walnut street, Somerville.

These in the automobile were Otis Chamberlain, his wife, Martha J. Chamberlain, their daughter, Edna C. Chamberlain of 41 Armory street, Cambridge; Mrs. Josephine Brooks and her daughter, Mildred Brooks of 881 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge.

When the car began to descend the steep incline of Walnut street, Somerville, got beyond the control of Officer Chamberlain, Special Officer Burns, who was doing traffic duty near the base of the hill, observed that the car was running wild and pursued it after it passed the base of the hill. The car swerved to the side of the street and partly overturned. All the occupants were thrown to the street. Officer Burns rushed to the car, and with the aid of spectators raised it from the body of Miss Chamberlain, who was partly pinned to the ground.

It is thought that the steering gear failed to move at the command of the driver, and that this was responsible for the runaway and the consequent accident.

JURY IN DISAGREEMENT

NEW YORK, June 30.—The jury in the case of Rae Tanzer, accused of perjury in identifying James W. Osborne with Oliver Osborne, disagreed yesterday afternoon and was discharged, with thanks for its attention, by Judge C. E. Waverton in the United States district court. The jurors started their deliberations at 1.30 on Wednesday, and spent four hours and a half in discussion before they went to the Knickerbocker hotel for the night.

They resumed deliberations at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, and tried vainly to reach a decision until 3 in the afternoon. At that hour Foreman Frederick Kelly in answer to Judge Waverton's inquiry in open court said he thought there was no chance of an agreement.

SISTERS ARE GRATEFUL

The sisters and the children at St. Peter's orphanage cordially thank the good people, their kind friends, who so generously furnished automobiles to take them to the "Rasing" yesterday afternoon. The "lovely ride" will be a happy memory to the children, and will be the chief topic of their conversation for days. They thoroughly enjoyed the afternoon, and were jubilant over their "good time." These children are sincerely grateful to Reverend Father Gulligan and to Reverend Father O'Connell who spared no effort to make them happy, and they thank all who interested themselves in their merriest.

BUSINESS MEN'S DRILL

Strenuous Day's Practice at Dracut—Trenches Dug and Imaginary Enemies Bombarded

The business men's battalion left for the trenches "somewhere in Dracut" yesterday afternoon and there was no weeping or wailing at their departure either. If any fond farewells were taken the scenes were enacted at home for many a woman should be called to Mexico. And while we don't want to boast too much about our own, we have the tendency to assert that had Carranza, Villa (alias "Mexico's terrible Teddy") or any other of the wool shearing leaders in Mexico seen the business men on their hike yesterday afternoon they would have taken to the woods. There was earnestness, courage and determination written on their countenances and their very step sounded the keynote of victory. It is fortunate for the state to have men like these to take the place of the volunteer militia in time of need.

They looked the very incarnation of the love of home and God-help-the-enemy. There were long and short fat men, long and short lean men, men who looked overfed and men who looked underfed, but all wearing that "stand together and fight it out to the last ditch" expression that makes the enemy quail. We held that their appearance on the border line would mean the bobbing up of a "real" flag of truce in Mexico. We were proud of them, we are proud of them and we will be proud of them and if there were more than three tens we would use them. All glory to them, all hail to them and may no wall ever come to them. That's how we feel about it, and we use the pronoun "we" advisedly for, in its broader sense, "we" means many, and in this instance a great many—all of us. Hurrah!

Our enthusiasm is now at such a pitch that we almost feel it our duty to take a recess in order to let it cool down a bit, but far be it from us to leave these brave fellows on the road between Lowell and the trenches in Dracut. The people en route cheered them to the echo and the khaki clad heroes reached the rifle range in safety. They had left Lowell by the way of Merrimack, Moody, Aiken streets and Aiken avenue to Dracut centre and thence via Bridge street to the range. And let it be said that this route was the only disappointment of the day, for a large number of proud and expectant spectators ranged in Merrimack square and along Bridge street and waited in vain to see Lowell's fighting battalion pass. The high school life and drum corps led the main force and the usual good playing of the boys was enhanced by the inspiration in the rear.

Company A went on ahead as the advance guard, a squad of men occupying a lone position some distance in the front. Companies B and C with the drum corps came next after an interval, representing the main body of an army on the march. Company D brought up the rear as rear guard.

Lieut. S. R. Waller of Company G, Sixth regiment, was the commanding officer, assisted by Lieut. Cashin of Company K and Lieut. Duffy of Company C, Sixth regiment, and non-commissioned officers of the Sixth. Cadet Rosster Garity of West Point was in command of Company B.

GUARANTEED TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

permanently with perfect ease and safety. Wet your hair all over with Q-Ban, the only guaranteed hair color restorer, every day and expose it to the sunlight and air—then your hair will gradually and evenly change to its original color. Q-Ban is absolutely not a trace of gray hair will be left and nobody can ever tell how it happened. Just think of that! Furthermore, your hair will be much more glossy, lustrous, soft and fluffy than ever before—and fascinating to behold.

The secret of this wonderful change in the color of your hair is mainly brought about by a process of oxidation (oxygen in the air) which results from drying your hair in the sunlight and air after Q-Ban has been applied. Sunlight and air are Nature's own medicines and a very important part of the Q-Ban process. Only in this way—with Q-Ban and the aid of sunlight and air—can the color be permanently and safely restored to your hair. Make no mistake about this—all preparations claiming to instantly restore the color to your hair are fakes or treacherous dyes.

Q-Ban is made from a scientific formula of glycerine, swetel, alcohol, stave and perfume discovered after years of laboratory work and approved by the greatest chemical experts in the world, including Prof. Von Huber. Everybody uses Q-Ban nowadays, because it is safe and the only guaranteed liquid hair color restorer that is absolutely free from dangerous, dirty, sticky dyes and poisons and we want you to know the facts.

Give Q-Ban a trial today—you can't do anything until you try—get it at Dr. J. J. Jones, Drug Store, 121 Merrimack st., Lowell, Mass.—or write Messrs. Ellis Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn. Money refunded if not more than delighted. The famous Q-Ban Hair Tonic, Hair Shampoo and Toilet Soaps are also made by us. Write for authoritative booklet on hair culture—free.

who had children, and horses and cows in the streets and fields.

One member of the battalion, thoroughly acquainted with the country, led the way to an elevation which commanded a sweep of the vast panorama—the Mexican trenches, plainly visible only 500 yards away; to the left the historic old yellow meeting house in which so many happy couples were united, was in danger of being torn to pieces by shells, while other old landmarks had been entirely wiped out. Through the vista of trees the outlying defenses of the Navy Yard were dimly outlined through the curtain of smoke. A terrific bombardment was in progress, and the crash of shells and whizz of bullets echoed all along the front. That's a Newton shell," said a fellow who had worked in the Newton Mfg. Co., when a crash more terrible than the rest rent the air.

The commanding general turned to the Associated Press representative who was privileged to accompany this noble party. "Come up here," said the general, "and get a good view of the scene." And climbing to this point of vantage, the party looked out on one point after another designated as those on which the ravages of war had fallen heaviest.

Meanwhile the main body of the battalion was busy digging trenches. Men unaccustomed to the shovel and the Irish anchor, sometimes called pick, went to it in good shape and before the sun went down a long trench 3½ feet in depth, which is 1½ feet shy of the regulation trench, had been dug and there were those among the diggers who wanted to stay in the trench over night rather than hike home.

While the digging was going on, two other companies were putting in their work on the targets and this seemed novel work for most of them, too. Lieut. Cashin of Company K of the Sixth regiment was in command at the target ranges and he was assisted by Lieut. Duffy of Company C and Lieut. Y. Rodger, a former militiaman and one time member of the state rifle team. Some of the men who will some day fight for their country—perhaps—made good scores. There was Herford N. Elliott, for instance. He scored 22 out of possible 25 and was probably the best marksmen surprised man in the crowd. This was at the 200-yard range, and at the revolver target, 40-foot range, he scored a perfect record in three shots, so if you value your life don't have any words with Herford. Another fellow to keep on good terms with is Ira H. Mahoney. He made a perfect score at the revolver range with five shots. Dr. Matthew P. Mahoney was the king pin at the 300-yard range, the most difficult of all. He made 17 out of a possible 25. The heavy automatic pistol was used.

The return trip was made in special coaches, and the men, tired and their long hike and arduous duties in preparing for the enemy that is liable to be heard from at any time, the boys didn't consider it the least bit disgraceful to ride home, and according to last night's late despatches the event was considered highly successful.

This last little remark that we are about to make should have been inserted elsewhere in the story, and in this belated fashion it probably should be given a seat in the P. S. row, but P. S. don't go in war correspondence, and, anyhow, it doesn't make much difference where or how it goes. If you don't want to read it, you don't have to. See!

The incident has to do with Omer Smith, the genial, efficient and patriotic janitor at the Market street building, commonly called "police station." On the march to the to-be-made-trenches in Dracut, Omer was instructed to keep 25 paces in the rear, acting, so far as our war knowledge goes, as rear guard, but our war knowledge extends only a few hundred yards beyond the old yellow meeting house. It is characteristic of Omer to pay strict attention to orders and yesterday was no exception, but his friends in Dracut and along through there, didn't seem to appreciate it for this is what Omer was getting all along the line: "Depeche-toi Omer, ils vont te perdre. Il fait chaud, hein? Prends mon bicyclette tu te rendras plus vite et tu fatigueras moins," which means in English: "Hurry up Omer, they will lose you. Hot isn't it? Take my bicycle and you will get there quicker and with less exertion." It was very evident that they thought Omer could not keep pace with his comrades.

With Prices Sky High I Announce My Famous Free Pant Offer

$5.00 PANTS ABSOLUTELY FREE

FRIDAY, SATURDAY AND MONDAY

With conditions forcing many of them to handle and sell woollens not good enough for a South Sea Islander two years ago

I Will Give the Clothing Trade a Jolt this Week

FIRST—I am going to give you woollens—decent worsted woollens—woollens made from silk and worsted yarns and not from the bark of trees, understand me—worsted, not cassimeres.

SECONDLY—I am going to sell these goods on the old time purchasing power of a dollar—not on the present day European war inflation basis.

THIRDLY—To every customer ordering a suit Friday, Saturday and Monday, he has only to ask for it and I will give him a pair of trousers absolutely free of charge, made to his measure.

I want to put two hundred new customers on my books during this sale. In ordinary times you could go any place and get fair clothing for $12.00, $15.00 so many of you never got around to give me a trial.

Today things are different—if you want goods like a man ought to wear and haven't a pocketful of money to pay for a suit, you'd better make up your mind to come to my store, where you know I am a crank on good worsteds and carry nothing else.

Suit to Order $12.50

WOOD'S COLLEGE

Closing Exercises at Associate Hall—The Graduates

Associate hall was the scene of a very pretty gathering last evening, when the graduating exercises of Wood's Business college took place. The stage was prettily decorated with flags and bunting, intermingled with the class colors, which were crimson and gold. The front and the sides of the stage were covered with lattice work, and interwoven in this were yellow flowers, giving a very beautiful effect, while in the background was set the seal of the school, "Business Efficiency."

MR. ELLIOTT F. WOOD, Principal

The hall was also strung with bunting, and the balconies were covered with white, while the centre of the hall had a network of flowers, giving an unusual touch to the whole, and setting off to advantage the white gowns and dark suits of the graduates. After the opening selection by the Titania orchestra, Miss Sara Beatrice Lee, in behalf of the graduating class made the address of welcome. She was followed by the speaker of the evening, Mr. Franklin E. Johnson, treasurer of the Merrimack River Savings bank, whose subject was "Patience and Perseverance."

Following the usual custom, Mr. Harold Rostrom Entwistle, president of the class of 1910, presented the school with a bust of George Washington, set on a pedestal. The gift was accepted by the principal, Mr. Elliott F. Wood, who briefly thanked the class and also gave the graduates some good advice.

Hon. James E. O'Donnell addressed the graduates, after which he presented diplomats to the following: Louise Lombard, Anna Mary Moran, Mary Vincent Lyons, Theresa Elizabeth Dillon, Sarah Beatrice Lee, Matilda Frances Soobie, Doris Josephine Handley, Louise Constance Dursthoff, Marguerite Catherine Cabili, Mary Cecilia Hennessy, Lauretta Louise Noonan, Florence Alice Smith, Emma Mae Dadd, Anna Agnes Gardner, Julia Agnes Shanley, Mary Agnes Tobin, Marietta Margaret Blessington, Bertha Harper Duxbury, Theresa Regina Kneafsey, Harold Rostrom Entwistle, Robin Bucan, Joseph Francis

O'Neill, Ernest Tibbets Wright, Francis McCabe, Patrick John O'Hearn, Edward Joseph Winston.

Dancing was enjoyed until midnight. Officers for the class of 1910 are: President, Harold Rostrom Entwistle; vice president, Louise Lombard; treasurer, Joseph Francis O'Neill; secretary, Sarah Beatrice Lee. The success of the exercises was due to the untiring efforts of both Mr. Elliott F. Wood and Miss Anna A. Conley, who have worked so hard and faithfully for the college.

U. S. PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE ASKED TO MAKE AN INVESTIGATION

NEWPORT, R. I., June 30.—The children who were taken to the Newport hospital because of being poisoned at the St. George Sunday school picnic, were discharged today and at the rectory it is stated that so far as reports have come in, all the victims who were taken to their homes are on the road to recovery. State and city health authorities have begun an investigation and Congressman O'Shaughnessy has asked the United States public health service to make an investigation, he wires Newport.

Secretary John H. Murphy of the board of trade and Mrs. Murphy have gone to the latter's home in Vermont until after the Fourth.

The last session of the course in personal efficiency which has been given at the Y.M.C.A. during the past 16 weeks was held last night when K. C. Griswold of New York city, the instructor, gave an interesting summary of the former lectures.

The dumps are on the rampage again. This morning at 10:35 a telephone alarm summoned engine 4 to extinguish a fire on Stackpole street dump and at 10:55 hose 12 was called to put out a fire on the Alken street dump.

Miss Matilda Sharpe of 14 Shaffer street is on an extended vacation tour that will include New York City, Washington, Buffalo, Niagara Falls and other points of interest. Miss Sharpe intended to go to Europe but conditions there due to war prevented.

The local employees of the post office are endeavoring to popularize the U. S. Postal Guide, and the monthly supplements as showing clearly the rules of the department relative to parcel post and other matters of the local district, is lost at the post office dealing with people who know nothing of the rules.

Mrs. Glendower Evans, a member of the lecture party which is touring the states under the auspices of the Women's Peace party, will speak in Lowell on Saturday evening, July 1, at 7:45 o'clock. The speaker will deliver an address on "The Great War and What to Do About It," and she will speak from an automobile at the corner of Jackson and Central streets.

A very interesting neighborhood suffrage meeting was held Wednesday evening, June 28th, at the home of Miss MacDougall, 51 Gates street, under the auspices of the Massachusetts Women's Suffrage association. The speakers were Mrs. James Stuart Murphy, chairman of the Lowell district, and Mrs. Wm. E. Sprague of Lowell, and Miss Carson, of Boston.

DEATHS

CARTER.—The many friends of John Townsend Carter, formerly of Lowell, will be grieved to learn of his death at his home in Topsham, Vermont, on June 27. Mr. Carter was well known among those who remember his skill as an artist and wood carver, examples of his art being in many of the public buildings and private homes of this city. He was born in this city on April 8, 1841, and was in business here for many years as a cabinet maker on Fletcher street. He is survived by a widow, Alcina M. Carter, and three children, Frank H. Carter of Topsham, Vermont, Robert M. Carter of Milwaukee, Wis., and Catherine B. Carter of Lowell.

ROCK.—Joseph Rock, a well known resident of this city, aged 40 years, died today at his home, 22 Laurel street, after a lingering illness. He is survived by his wife, three daughters, Mildred, Beatrice and Doris; two sons, Theodore and Oswald; three sisters, Mrs. Amanda Boule of Fall River, Mrs. Angeline Demers of Pawtucket, R. I., and Mrs. Rosanna Diodoro of this city; two brothers, Alban, age of Hartford, Conn. and Telesphore of this city.

DESMARIS.—Mrs. Frank Desmaris, nee Antoinette Martel, aged 42 years, died today at her home, 16 Marshall street. She leaves besides her husband, two daughters, Lila and Bertha, and a sister, Mrs. Harry Eno.

LEVASSEUR.—Roland, aged 10 months, died today at the home of the parents, Delphis and Aurora Levasseur, 57 Marshall street.

FUNERALS

DANE.—The funeral of Hermon Dane was held from his home, 49 Grove street, yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. James M. Craig, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and Rev. F. A. Wilson, pastor of the Free Congregational church of Andover. Appropriate selections were sung by Mrs. Fred L. Roberts. Delegates were present representing Chevalier Middlesex lodge, 2 Pythias and Highland Veritas lodge, 6, L.O.O.F. The following delegation from the Knights of Pythias conducted the committal service at the home, and also acted as bearers: F. E. Porter, C.C.; Doff Myrick, P.C.; C. F. Nichols, V.C.; A. A. Clark and R. F. Wilkins. Burial was in the family lot in the Spring Grove cemetery at Andover. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Mr. Archibald Higgins, under the direction of Undertaker George W. Healey.

FUNERAL NOTICES

CRYAN.—The funeral of Mrs. Ann Cryan will take place Saturday morning at 8 o'clock from the funeral chambers of Higgins Bros., 114 Lawrence street. High mass of requiem will be celebrated at the Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock. Burial will take place in St. Patrick's cemetery. Funeral arrangements in charge of Undertakers Higgins Bros.

DESMARIS.—The funeral of Mrs. Frank Desmaris will take place tomorrow morning from the home, 16 Marshall street. Solemn high mass of requiem at Notre Dame de Lourdes church at 9 o'clock. Burial in St. Patrick's cemetery. Funeral arrangements in charge of Undertakers Joseph Albert & Son.

LANGLEY.—Died in this city, June 29, at his home, 33 Tremont street, Clark M. Langley, aged 59 years, 1 month, 16 days. Prayers will be said at his home, 33 Tremont street, Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and services will be held at the First Universalist church at 2 o'clock. Friends invited to attend. Burial private. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Undertakers Young & Blake.

NUTTER.—The funeral of Mrs. Bridget M. Nutter will take place Saturday morning at 8 o'clock from her home, 16 Albion street. At 9 o'clock a high mass of requiem will be sung at St. Michael's church. Burial in St. Patrick's cemetery in charge of James P. O'Donnell & Sons.

MATRIMONIAL

Arthur M. Mowatt and Miss Myra McFadden were married yesterday afternoon by Rev. A. C. Archibald, pastor of the First Baptist church. The best man was John Mowatt, brother of the bridegroom, while the bridesmaid was Miss Jennie Mowatt, sister of the bridegroom.

Mosher-Kiesling

Francis Elmer Mosher of this city and Miss Helen Kiesling of Lawrence were married Wednesday by Rev. Benjamin R. Harris, pastor of the Fifth Street Baptist church, at his home in Methuen street. The couple will make their home in Chelmsford.

Bourque-Bourque

Emile Bourque and Miss Eva Bourque were married Wednesday evening at St. Joseph's rectory, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Augustin Gratot, O.M.I. Joseph C. Surprenant was best man, while the bridesmaid was Miss Josephine Ledoux. After an extended wedding trip to Canada the couple will make their home at 19 Lombard street.

Slavin-Gruzinger

Michael J. Slavin, formerly of this city and now of Amsterdam, N. Y., and Miss Mary G. Gruzinger of the same place, were married Tuesday morning, the ceremony being performed at a nuptial mass at St. Joseph's church, Amsterdam, by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Laura. The best man was George Rozier of this city, while the bridesmaid was Miss Elsie Brindle. The bride wore white Georgette crepe and a picture hat and carried lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was attired in pink crepe de chine; she wore a picture hat and carried pink roses. The bridegroom's gift to the best man was a gold stick pin, while the bride's favor to the bridesmaid was a wrist watch. After a honeymoon spent in Baltimore, New York and this city, where the couple will be the guests of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Slavin, 612 Chelmsford

WILSON IN FIGHTING MOOD

President Ready to Enforce Golden Rule With Nations at Any Cost to Himself, He Declares

PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—President Wilson, describing himself as "in a fighting mood," furnished yesterday to a large crowd of auditors in Independence square his conception of some of the cardinal American ideals. He declared that America, in dealing with other nations, must "vindicate at whatever cost its principles of liberty, justice, and humanity," that "America first" must be translated into action exciting it above all selfish interests, and that the nation's policy and development must be guided by the whole people and not by any group.

IF YOU WORRY, READ THIS

Worry never brought any good to anybody. But, you say, "I don't worry because I want to." I worry because I can't help it. Or, "I worry because I have so much to worry about."

We all have our troubles and worry, of course, makes matters worse. The patient generally recognizes this fact without being able to profit by it. The doctor who could meet this nervous condition and cure it would be the most popular medical man alive. But he cannot do it because the form of nervous exhaustion known as neurasthenia, of which worry is a characteristic symptom, must be cured by the patient himself. That is why you should write today for the book "Diseases of the Nervous System" and read the chapter on "Neurasthenia." So many people have read it and written back, "This hits my case exactly, I am giving the treatment a trial and being benefited," that Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., has had a lot of these books printed and will send you a copy free on request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a non-alcoholic tonic, particularly suited for nervous, neurasthenic people. Your druggist sells them or they will be mailed postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50.

"I believe," the president said, "that America, the country we put first in our thoughts, should be ready in every point of policy and of action to vindicate at whatever cost the principles of liberty, of justice, and of humanity to which we have been devoted from the first."

"I believe that at whatever cost, America should be just to other people, and treat other people as she demands that they should treat her. She has a right to demand that they treat her with justice and respect, and she has a right to insist that they treat her in that fashion, but she cannot with dignity or with self-respect insist upon that unless she is willing to act in that same fashion toward them."

"That I am ready to fight for at any cost to myself."

Urging that the whole people should shape the national policies, the president said that some men pretended to believe in the average man, but when they acted they showed they did not.

"America first" means nothing until you translate it into what you do, was a statement that brought prolonged applause. Cheers also greeted the president's declaration that while he was not interested in fighting for himself he was "immensely interested in fighting for the things that I believe in and so far as they are concerned I am a challenger to all comers."

Officially, the president addressed delegates to the convention to the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World, but a mixed crowd heard him. He spoke in the open air, under the shadow of Independence hall. He left for Washington immediately after the address.

The President's Speech
President Wilson said:
"You will understand that I have not come here to make an extended address. I do not need to explain to you the circumstances which have made it impossible that I should prepare an extended address, but I count myself very fortunate to be able to leave my feet at Washington long enough to face this interesting company of men who have the very fine conception that it is their duty to lift the standards and ideals of their profession.

"I understand, gentlemen, that you have associated yourselves together in order to promote candor and truth in the advertisement of your business. I wish very much, gentlemen, that candor and truth might always be the standard of politics as well as the standard of business. I want to challenge your attention for a moment to this aspect of your activities."

"I do not see how a man can devote himself to candor and truth in the promotion of a particular business without studying the life of the great nation to whom he addresses his advertising. I do not see how a man can fail, having established the horizon of his business where the great hills of truth lie, to lift his eyes to the great multitude of laboring men and striving women who constitute a great nation like ours, and in the very act of addressing them get in his own consciousness some part of the impulse of their life."

"You cannot commend your business to people that you do not understand, and you cannot understand the people of the United States without wishing to serve them."

"So I come to you with this thought: America is at a point, gentlemen, where it is more than ever necessary that she should understand her own ideas, not only that she be ready to put them into action at any cost. It is one thing to entertain fine principles and another thing to make them work. It is one thing to entertain them in the formulas of words like the splendid words which were uttered in and have given distinction to this ancient and historic building behind me, but it is another thing to do what those same men did, make those words live in the action of their lives. And America is summoned in each new generation to renew not only the pledges that those men made, but to renew the example which they gave the world."

"I am not interested, and I beg that you will believe me when I say that I never have been interested in fighting for myself, but I am immensely interested in fighting for the things that I believe in, and so far as they are concerned I am a challenger to all comers. It is important, therefore, since I am in fighting mood, to let you know what are some of the things that I do believe in."

Put Country First

"America first" means nothing until you translate it in what you do. So I believe most profoundly in the duty of every American to exalt the national consciousness by purifying his own motives and exhibiting his own devotion."

"In the second place, that America, the country that we put first in our thoughts, should be ready in every point of policy and of action to vindicate at whatever cost the principles of liberty, of justice, and of humanity to which we have been devoted from the first. You cheer the sentiment, but do you realize what it means?"

"It means that we put first in our thoughts, not only that we are ready to go to the just to your fellow men, but that as a nation you have got to be just to other nations. It comes high."

"So, gentlemen, I feel at home in this company, not because I advertise, but because I have got principles that I am perfectly willing to expose to the public view, and because I want to express my sympathy with, not only, but my admiration for a body of men who think it is worth while to get together in order to tell the truth."

Truth the Emancipator
"The only thing that set any man free, the only thing that ever set any nation free, is the truth. A man that is afraid of the truth is afraid of the law of life. A man that does not love the truth is in the way of decay and of failure, and I believe that if you will just let the vitality that is in you run beyond the confines of the businesses that you may be interested in, you will presently feel that infinite reward, as if the red blood of a whole nation came surging back into your own veins."

"Can you imagine, my fellow countrymen, a more inspiring thing than to belong to a free nation and make your way among men, everyone of whom has the right and the opportunity to say what he thinks. Criticism does not hurt anybody. I heard an old politician once say to his son, 'John, don't bother your head about lies and flattery; they will take care of themselves; but if you ever hear me deny anything, you may make up your mind that it is so.'"

"And when you see a man winning under criticism, you may know that something hit him that was good. And, therefore, when they are saying the things that are not true, there is no credit in keeping your head and not minding it."

"I have such an inveterate confidence in the ultimate triumph of the truth that I feel, with old Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, that the truth is no paradox, and you need not mind now, and you need not mind now, a splendid constitution and she will survive every trial and every labor."

"I have come, therefore, as I have abundantly shown you, not to make a formal speech—if I could show you some of the things I have been obliged to do before I came here you would know that I could not possibly make a speech up—but merely to show you profound interest in a body of men who are not only devoted to business, but devoted to ideals."

"Business is all right so long as it is not sordid, and it cannot be sordid if it is shot through with ideals. A man, no matter how humble his business, can hold his head up among the princes of the world if, as he ought, he will think of himself as the servant of the people and not as their master, as one who would serve and not as one who would govern."

Why He Is a Democrat
"I believe, and this is the reason I am a Democrat, not merely with a D, but with a little 'd' in my mind, of a democrat, so far as I can discover, but the root of the whole business is this—that I believe in the patriotism and energy and initiative of the average man. Some men say they believe in it, but when they act they show they do not. They show that they think the only advice that it is safe to take is their advice."

"I was not referring to any individual, but I could give you an interesting and a very short list of a group of individuals who have that opinion, namely, that it is not safe for the United States to escape from their control."

"I feel perfectly safe in the hands of the average body of my fellow citizens. You are bound to feel safe in their hands. If they do not believe in you, you cannot sell anything. If they do not believe in you, you cannot conduct your business. Your vitality comes from them to you; it does not go from you to them. The theory of government which I decline to subscribe to is that the vitality of the nation comes out of closeted councils, where a few men determine the policy of the country."

"So, gentlemen, I feel at home in this company, not because I advertise, but because I have got principles that I am perfectly willing to expose to the public view, and because I want to express my sympathy with, not only, but my admiration for a body of men who think it is worth while to get together in order to tell the truth."

HIGH CLASS RECITAL

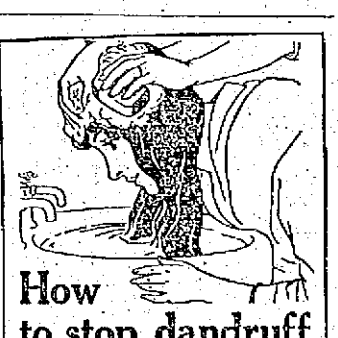

PUPILS OF MRS. CAROLINE WHITE McNALLY PLEASE AT COLONIAL HALL.

A group of the pupils of Mrs. Caroline White McNally gave an exceptionally pleasing and artistic piano-forte recital last evening in Colonial hall before a large and delighted audience. The program was more exacting than that usually attempted by young pupils, but throughout the pupils played with an intelligent appreciation of the meaning of the music while displaying the brilliant technique which has always distinguished their teacher. The young players were more than mechanical performers; they were real musicians, made so by intelligent supervision and a faithful adherence to the highest standards. Mrs. McNally played in selections with the pupils and in solo and there were vocal numbers by Mrs. Robert Lister, soprano, of Boston. Following was the program in full:

Anitra's Dance Grieg
In the Hall of the Mountain King Grieg
Misses Helen Quigley, Mildred Denver, Mary Blake and Mrs. McNally.
Pavane, Op. 26 Beethoven
Romance, Op. 28 No. 1 Schumann Solitude, Op. 28 No. 1 Chopin
Miss Ethel Dixon.
Aria, Ritorno Vinctori (Aida) Verdi
Mrs. Lister.
Lisette Adam
Misses Anna Donohoe, Bertha Chapman, Emma Labrie and Mrs. McNally.
Consolation III Liszt
Novellotto Strakoski
Miss Denver.
Waltz in E Minor Moszkowski
Frelude in E Minor Mendelssohn
Liebestraume Liszt
Miss Labrie.
Love Has Wings Rogers
Wind Song Rogers
Come to the Garden Salter
Mrs. Lister.
Valse des Fleurs Ketterer
Misses Germaine O'Leary and Emma Labrie.
Fugue, If I Were a Bird Henselt
Fugue, Op. 22 No. 2 Wollenhafer
Fugue, Op. 48, No. 1 Kullak
Miss Dixon.
Andante Sostenuto, from Concerto in G minor Saint Saens
Mrs. McNally.
Orchestra accompaniment arranged for second piano and played by Miss Chapman.

The opening selections with four performers at two pianos immediately established the recital as something more than a perfunctory display of mechanical ability. The group numbers were played in a spirited sympathetic fashion that reflected a noble equality in the interpreters. The other selections played by more than one also showed great ability in memorizing and the power to keep each part so as to produce a perfect effect in unison. The solo numbers were especially finished, again demonstrating the power of memorizing and playing so as to make the audience know what the composer strives to express. The reputation of Mrs. Caroline White McNally does not depend on her recitals, but that of last evening confirmed the conviction that she plays and teaches as a real artist. The Saint Saens movement played by Mrs. McNally was given with a delicate shading of expression that brought out all its possibilities. One forgot the technical perfections in the appeal of the text, but the effect was due to the mastery of the instrument.

How to stop dandruff and loss of hair with Resinol

Here is a simple, inexpensive treatment that will almost always stop dandruff and scalp itching, and keep the hair thick, lustrous and long. At night, spread the hair apart and rub a little Resinol Ointment into the scalp gently, with the tip of the finger. Repeat this until the whole scalp has been treated. Next morning, shampoo thoroughly with Resinol Soap and hot water. Work the creamy Resinol lather well into the scalp. Rinse with gradually cooler water, the last water being cold.

which the player possesses as well as to her musical feeling. Mrs. Lister of Boston who is well known to Lowell audiences, is always delightful as a concert soloist. Her selection from Aida was given with beautiful tone and expression and her group of songs was so arranged as to demonstrate her artistry in different modes of singing. She added just the touch needed to give zest to the instrumental numbers and rounded out a truly enjoyable and educational recital that was appreciated and applauded by the audience.

TWO NEW PITCHERS

PIEPER SIGNS TWO BIG LEAGUE
TWIRLERS—RECALLED FROM
HARTFORD—ONE 10 YEARS OLD

Louis P. Pieper, manager of the Lynn club, has compiled two pitching stars, who will join Lynn immediately. Dick McCabe, who last season pitched for Lynn, now the property of the Red Sox, will report, while Walt Hoyt, the New York schoolboy phenom, who has been a member of the New York Giants, is also scheduled to don a Lynn uniform. McCabe was sent to Hartford this season, but when Heine Wagner was ousted as manager by Owner Clarkin, Carrigan recalled McCabe, as the latter player stated that he was not satisfied. He wanted to play with Lynn. Pieper arranged matters with President Lannin and Manager Carrigan for McCabe to come here.

Hoyt was signed two years ago by McGraw and has been kept on the Giants' bench drinking in baseball knowledge every day under the eye of the Little Napoleon of baseball. Pieper and McGraw held a conference Sunday and Monday. McGraw said he would allow Hoyt to come here but the Giants still hold a string on him. Hoyt is 16 years old at the present time and is said to be a fellow who will deliver the goods.

M'TIGUE MAKING GOOD

TWIRLER SAID TO HAVE BARRELED
OF STUFF

Our old friend, Buck Freeman, one-time slugger with the Boston Americans, and now jumping in the International league, comes to bat with the assertion that Rebel McTigue, former Brave and Tiger hurler, but at present pitching for the Toronto Leafs, has more stuff than any other pitcher he ever worked behind. McTigue started his career in the New England league. McTigue, who, despite a good record on the spring training trip, was turned back to Toronto by Manager Jennings after five innings of big league ball, is making quite a record in the minor organizations. With a sixth place club, the lengthy southpaw has registered six wins, four defeats, one the game, and twice hurled one-hit shutouts, and against Rochester on May 30, and the other against Providence, league leaders, on Saturday last. In each of the above contests the hits were of the decidedly fine variety, and the slow roller to the infield, which spoiled a perfect record in Rochester on Memorial day, came after two men had been retired in the ninth inning.

The pitcher twirled three times last week, winning all three of the contests, two of which were shutouts, besides playing right field on two other occasions. In addition to heaving a fine ball of ball, McTigue is hitting the ball in great shape, as his nine hits in 22 trips to the plate during the past week would indicate.

M'INNIS TO REMAIN

NEEDS HIM

If you are a dead game sport and wish to bet on a sure thing, place your money on "Stuffy" Minnis to continue as the first baseman for the Mackmen. There has been a lot of talk that the boy from Gloucester will be traded, the last story emanating from Cleveland, which indicated that "Stuffy" was being sought by the Red Sox.

President Lannin has denied that he sought the services of Minnis, and Connie Mack put his official denial on the year. "Stuffy" is all that Connie has left of the million dollar infield that used to shine in the days of yore and he intends to hold him.

"Stuffy" is young, but he has had a lot of experience and next year he will be needed to undertake the work of construction as Lajoy's contract expires at the end of 1916 and he will have to look for something new to do.

There is not a chance in the world of any other team getting "Stuffy." Mack needs him in his rebuilding plans. The man that used to head the world's series trust did not wish to discuss the chances of his own team. "I don't wish to talk about my team," he said.

"It is not a bad team and it will be heard from later. We did not win a game in the west, but we did not play so awfully bad. I am not going to place the blame for defeats in any specific place, but later on we will be heard from."

Connie thinks pretty well of Cleveland. He thought the team played great ball when he looked them over. Their attack was very similar to that of the Tigers and Athletics of other days. He did not think that they were stealing anybody's signals.

Is Connie Mack downhearted? No!

SALLEE QUILTS GAME

ST. LOUIS TWIRLER SAYS HE IS
ALL DONE—OWNER TURNED
DOWN $10,000 OFFER

ST. LOUIS, June 30.—Harry Salle, pitcher for the St. Louis Nationals, has retired from the game, according to a statement issued by Schuyler V. Britton, president of the club.

"Salle told me that he had quit the game," the statement says. "I wanted to reinstate him, because we wanted him, but he told me that he was tired of the game. Salle did not ask to be traded. I had an offer of $10,000 cash for him and New York wanted to give me Terrace for him, but I turned down both propositions. I hope he changes his mind."

Salle was suspended two weeks ago for leaving the club in New York and failing to report at Cincinnati.

ROTH MAY STOP RACING

Arthur V. Roth, crack marathoner of the Dorchester club and winner of the E.A.A. race on Patriots day, has announced that he will retire from athletics after next Tuesday if he is defeated in the 12-mile run that is to be held in connection with the annual field day of Division 72, A.O.H., at the South End grounds, Boston.

HANS WAGNER TO WED

JOHN HENRY, VETERAN PIRATE
SHORTSTOP, TO WED DAUGHTER
OF PITTSBURG DETECTIVE

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 30.—John Henry Wagner, the veteran Pirate shortstop, is preparing to become a blushing bridegroom. County Detective John G. Smith admitted yesterday that the great Hans will wed Bessie Paine Smith, aged 24, probably at the close of the baseball season next fall. Miss Smith, daughter of the county detective, is a popular young woman of Cranston Heights. She is an enthusiastic baseball fan and has attended nearly every game played here by the Pirates in the last four years. Wagner, an amateur, played baseball with his intended bride's father on the back lot of Carnegie and Cranston. Smith was a pitcher and is just a few years older than the Pirate shortstop.

DIAMOND DAZZLES

Heinie Wagner, recently released as manager of the Hartford team, was out practicing at third base with the Red Sox before the game and did some classy work around the hot corner.

Jack Barry was back in the Red Sox lineup for the first time in six weeks, taking McVail's place at the bat in the fifth inning and then going to second. Jack had hardly settled in his position when he made a wonderful catch of a line fly.

Manager Carrigan is not a bit disconcerted over the two defeats and is still confident the Red Sox will repeat last year's performance and again land the pennant.

He does not fear the Cleveland team at all, but has some respect for the Griffins, who he admits are a much improved ball team over what they were formerly. "I am confident that when the race narrows down to the real test we will land on top," said Carrigan last evening. "I believe I have the best team. There is more class to it than most of our rivals can boast of, and in due time it will be proved that class will tell."

The Braves are suffering a batting slump. Yesterday they got but four hits off Pitcher Smith of Brooklyn.

The Yankees got a grip on first place yesterday by trimming the Mackmen while the Indians accepted defeat from St. Louis.

After being defeated five straight games, the Philadelphia champions took both games of a double-header from the Giants. In the first game but 21 men faced Pitcher Rixey.

Wolfgang, formerly of Lowell, pitched Chicago to victory and into the first division yesterday. He allowed the Tigers but four hits in the entire game and of these Cobb and Heilmann got two each.

TO SAVE DAYLIGHT

CITY OF MANCHESTER TO MAKE
THE CHANGE ON SUNDAY, JULY 2

MANCHESTER, June 30.—Representatives from all organizations and interests of the city will meet on Wednesday, July 5, to hear the report of the directors of the Manchester Publicity association which is investigating the much-talked-of daylight saving plan.

The Queen City wants to be identified with this popular movement, and some definite action will surely be taken, it is said. Final decision on this plan of daylight saving will be made at the meeting.

The proposed time for shifting the clocks ahead an hour is Sunday evening, July 2, in order that everyone may know just when the change goes into effect, and that all clocks will be set forward together, the whistles and bells will start giving the notice at 5.30. The signals will be given at five minute intervals until 9 o'clock at which time it will suddenly become 10 o'clock. Presto, the trick is done, and women who have been the same age for several years will be at least one hour older.

All the industries favor the change.

EASTERN LEAGUE COMMENT

Lowell and Hartford will play a double header at Spaulding park tomorrow.

Helfrich, who played second base with the team in the Connecticut cities, is a third baseman. He was with the Brooklyn team in the Federal league.

Paddy Green's arm went back on him in the seventh inning when five hits and a couple of errors gave the visitors five runs.

In the last three games played, Lowell has outbatted its opponents but has not put over the needed runs.

Manager Kilhullen made a shift in the batting order which should bring better results the way the men are hitting at present.

There are three Martins, all pitchers, in the Eastern league. Portland has one, New London has another and Worcester has just signed up a Martin who started the season with Bridgeport.

Holmes, the Hartford first baseman, led the Eastern league batters yesterday with five singles in as many trips to the plate.

The Fourth of July games between Lowell and Lawrence have been transferred. Owing to the big preparedness parade in the down river city in the morning, the game will be played here at 10.30 and the afternoon game in Lawrence will be called at 3.30.

Hartford is kicking about the work of Tom Eannon, claiming that his work in recent games has been away off. Hartford may join with Billy Hamilton in the move to have Tom removed.

Dick McCabe, the Lynn pitcher secured from the Boston Red Sox, was hit hard by Hartford yesterday. McCabe was with the Hartford team for a time earlier in the season.

The Eastern league magnates are praying for one thing and that is that Saturday of this week and that is that it should rain on both those days. It would be a blow that the league would have extreme trouble getting over. Good weather, however, will go a great ways to help the magnates out. —Lawrence Tribune.

Lynn is to have a Boosters' day at Ocean park on Saturday, July 8, with the New London millionaires the lucky ones. The Lynn papers are now boosting for a big attendance and say that the turn out of the fans will have a bearing on whether or not league baseball will be continued in Lynn.

Of the five games this year in the Eastern league in which clubs got 16 hits, Springfield has figured in four of them. The Ponies made their fourth 16 hit affair at Bridgeport this week.

Secretary Dan O'Neil of the Eastern league announces that after July 1 all second games of double headers shall be shortened to seven innings. His ruling is that in view of the postponements in the early part of the season there will be many double headers that should all be uniform. This decision is being protested by the Connecticut papers. O'Neil should leave this question to the teams and umpires.

Interest begins Saturday, July 1st, at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

DILLON BEATS MORAN

Spectacular Bout at Brooklyn—
Moran Had Advantage in One
Round—Nearly Put Jack Out

Spectacular Bout

Dillon, the giant killer, gave one of the most spectacular exhibitions of gameness seen in a New York ring in years. Moran, 35 pounds heavier and 6½ inches taller, pounded his smaller adversary without mercy in the third round after landing that famous pile driver right. Dillon was reeling and apparently about to be knocked out when the bell saved him. The brief rest of a minute between rounds meant a difference of victory and defeat for Jack Dillon.

When the fourth round began he rushed from his corner, as in all preceding ones, landed a hard right to Moran's face and overwhelmed the Pittsburgher on boxing points all the rest of the way.

Dillon, as compared to his gigantic foe, looked almost like a lightweight, and the way he outclassed Moran in ring experience brought reminders of Packey McFarland, Joe Gans and other great boxers. Moran was so slow and so wild in comparison that Dillon landed fully 10 square punches to every one that connected solidly with him.

Moran plainly depended almost entirely on his stout right arm. Dillon, knowing this, varied from his usual fighting position by inclining his body a bit sideways at almost all times, so that he was out of range of the pile driver.

The spectacular way in which Dillon showed his superiority in the first two rounds made the crowd totally unprepared for Moran's big bid in the third.

It was here that the Pittsburgher first employed the trick that nearly carried the day for him. Calling on his immense strength, he forced Dillon by sheer weight to back to the ropes. Steadying himself, he drove in his right with all the power in his command, ripping it in again and again. The blows weakened Dillon, who was almost out on his feet.

The little man clinched to save himself. The referee pried them apart, and once more Moran literally pushed his adversary clear across the ring. He jammed Dillon out of the ropes again, and continued to beat in with the same mighty fist. There was plenty of power in the blows, but Moran lacked the accuracy to land on a vital spot.

Dillon Nearly Out

Suddenly Dillon lashed out with both hands to Moran's face, but he left himself wide open, and a crashing right-hand more accurate than the others knocked him into a reclining position on the ropes in Moran's corner. He hung there a moment as the referee seemed preparing to count him out, but instead of falling to the middle of the ring, with what little strength remained he lunged on. The bell was a most welcome sound to him at that instant.

In the fourth round Dillon rushed and smashed rights and lefts and uppercuts at close quarters, one of his snappy jolts sending the blood flying from Moran's nose.

During the next six rounds Dillon always had the upper hand, ducking Moran's swings at times and then rushing in to close quarters, where he always landed three blows to Moran's one. Moran tried frequently to get over a right swing, but never could land it effectively, although several times he

esting part of the program. Fifteen big carbon arc lights made the ring a centre of brightness in the midst of the surrounding block. One with a good eye who surveyed the surroundings of the old ball park could see every window in tenements on Second avenue packed to the danger point.

The first outburst for the spirit of rivalry in the Moran and Dillon camps was offered in the semi-final bout in which Gus Christie of Milwaukee, Dillon's head trainer, met the Zulu Kid of Brooklyn, Moran's chief sparring partner. They traveled the full 10 rounds, with both in dead earnest. Christie had the better of it, thereby giving the Dillon camp first blood.

Lively action marked the first two bouts of four rounds each, in which Sallor Frank Skies drew with Willie Shea and Mickey Delmont outpointed Jack Tracy. Hank Harris then tackled Billy Irish in a scheduled six-rounder, but Irish ended it in the first minute with a right hand punch to the jaw. It was a clean knockout. The second six-rounder bout netted a victory on points for Frankie Wilson over Papa Monte.

Women Near Ring

At least 100 women were near enough to the ring to hear the third of blows. Ethel Eastymont was with her husband, Russell Colt. Laurette Taylor's escort was her spouse, J. Hartley Manners. They and most of the other fair ones were "dressed" as if for a lawn party.

During the delay Announcer Peter Prunty gave out the ringside weights. Dillon 169 pounds and Moran 20½, without costume, giving the latter an edge of 3½ pounds. As time flew by it was hinted about the boxers' managers were arguing about the money.

Dillon left the dressing room and began his way through the long aisles at exactly 10:34. Sam Warburger, his manager, acted as his chief second, aided by Joe Cox, Gus Christie and Banty Lewis.

A great noise greeted Moran when the big Pittsburgher climbed into the ring three minutes later. Willie Lewis was the head adviser in his corner. Others were Dan Washington and Frank Kendall. Announcer Prunty read a telegram from Fred Fulton challenging the winner, and Charlie Welner issued a verbal call when he was introduced.

MUTINY ON STEAMER

TWO MEN ARMED WITH KNIVES AND FIRE ARMS ATTACKED MEMBERS OF CREW

NEW YORK, June 30.—The Norwegian steamship Nordanger, two members of the crew in irons, reached here early today from Marseilles. The two men, a Mexican and a Spaniard, armed with knives and fire arms, refused to work after the vessel left Marseilles and until two days ago when they were finally seized fought with the crew and succeeded in destroying a large quantity of the ship's stores. The captain, ill from lack of sleep was unable to imprison the mutineers whose hiding place on the steamship was guarded by confederates. Many of the crew reached New York with cuts and bruises. Once, when captured and locked in the carpenter's shop aboard the vessel the mutineers set fire to a pile of shavings and escaped. The crew fought the blaze. The mutineers were turned over to the police when the vessel reached quarantine. The crew was composed of Spaniards, Mexicans, Levantines and Norwegians.

hits and two errors in the eighth inning in yesterday's game and despite Lowell's effort to come back in the last half when a single run was tallied, the Murrins won by a score of 8 to 4.

Paddy Green was on the mound for Lowell and while he was not invincible it looked as though he had the game bottled until he blew up in the eighth. Woodward twirled for the home team and was touched up for 12 hits.

Lowell scored one run in each of the first three innings and had a three run advantage. New Haven not counting until the fourth when one run was brought in. The home team added two more in the seventh and then came the fatal eighth when Green weakened, allowed five hits which coupled with costly errors by Greenhalge and Helfrich scored five runs. All that Lowell could do in the last half was score one run.

Helfrich started at the bat with three hits and each of the local outfielders secured two safeties. Greenhalge played poorly on laid, making

SIX HUNDRED DELEGATES, REPRESENTING 3,000,000 ORGANIZED WORKERS, MEET IN LONDON

LONDON, June 30.—A special trades union congress of 600 delegates, representing three million organized workers, met in London today and passed a resolution asking the government to take steps to regulate the prices of food and fuel. The resolution expressed the view that price regulation could be enforced only by a department of the government with power to commandeer and distribute food and fuel, fix freight rates, requisition bonanza crops and establish standard prices for fuel. The movers of the resolution said prices had increased 39 per cent, owing largely to the rise in freight and the greater cost of coal.

The congress also adopted an alternative resolution in favor of government ownership of all merchant shipping.

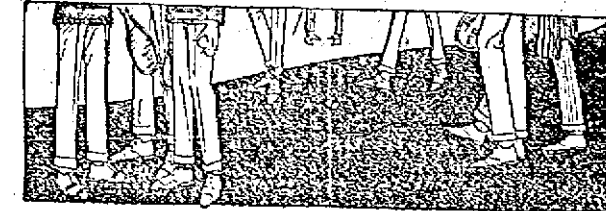

Still another resolution declares that if the government offers objection to the proposals of the congress immediate steps will be taken to press for such advances in wages as are necessary to maintain a proper standard of living.

The congress also adopted a resolution asking for an increase of 50 per cent in old age pensions during the period of high prices.

MR. HUGHES ISSUES

Although the republican platform was general enough to commit Mr. Hughes to no special policy, it is difficult to see how he can advance one strong issue in his campaign against President Wilson. It is a year of great events and the international developments in which the United States must take part are such as to dwarf into insignificance any purely domestic agitation. A few years ago the tariff might have proved a stumbling block to the democratic administration, but when the country is so prosperous and when the full dinner pail is the rule rather than the exception, the tariff has no force as a campaign issue. Moreover, this administration is out for a tariff commission on a scientific basis and the ground has been cut from under those who would have talked tariff as a vote producer.

How about the hyphen? The balance is all with President Wilson who has mapped out a course that can neither be ignored or controverted. It is not likely that Mr. Hughes will deliberately alienate any support of the hyphenated variety but he cannot afford to emphasize or arouse the democratic issue at a time when the patriotism of America is touched to the quick and when any foreign machinations in this country could not be regarded without arousing strong American indignation. The more the organized hyphenated vote shows itself for Mr. Hughes, the more pressing shall be the necessity for him to disclaim any pandering to this element in the community. Moreover, the union with Roosevelt will make the lot of the so-called foreign voters anything but comfortable, and whenever they force the issue on the attention of the country, the advantage shall be with President Wilson who has nothing to withdraw in word or action against such machinations.

How about Mexico—the factor most depended on by President Wilson's opponents? Again, this might have been made good campaign material some time ago, but while the relations are so critical, references to it during campaign time will be in questionable taste, whether in a national or a political sense. We now see more of the justice of President Wilson's position than at any time since the death of Madero, and the consistent idealistic and withal courageous policy of Washington in trying circumstances looms up above all factional opposition. It is not strange that Mr. Hughes hesitates so long about announcing his issues. He is without one strong argument in favor of a change of government.

SCHOOL GRADUATES

The diplomas have been presented, the fine speeches have been said and another large crop of Lowell boys and girls have severed their connection with the schools of the city. Many—too many unfortunately—will not go to high school and comparatively few of those who have graduated from high school will go to college. Some are constrained by circumstances to abandon all ideas of higher education, while again some short sighted ones deliberately throw aside their chances and choose to go to work rather than to go on with their education.

Even at the risk of appealing to deaf ears, The Sun urges all who can do so to take advanced courses of education, whether in one of the recognized colleges or universities or in higher schools of this city. No regret is heard expressed more frequently or more sincerely than the regret of those who see too late where they threw aside their chances to fill higher places in the world than they can now aspire to.

Those who cannot go to college and who must go to work should not think that their chances of education are permanently closed. We have many splendid schools where our boys and girls may take special courses and fit themselves for higher places in the ladder of life. Whether in the textile school, the vocational school, the evening commercial college, or some of the private schools with which Lowell is well provided, all who are ambitious may discover the means of later competing with those who, through good fortune, are able to go to Harvard or Dartmouth or Holy Cross or any of the other larger colleges.

The world of today has no place for the uneducated man. The operative at the loom is expected to become an expert, the salesman must regard his vocation as a science, the janitor of old days has become a building manager. It is the age of efficiency and the expert and the way to secure future recognition and to walk with confidence and assurance is to be a student always and never to conclude that the need for further education is past. The graduate of 1916 and the graduate of 1906 alike are amateurs in the work of the modern world.

POLAR EXPEDITIONS

Spite of the discovery of the north pole by Peary and the discovery of the south pole by Amundsen, the lure of arctic and antarctic exploration still calls modern investigators into the wastes of ice around the poles, and

from time to time strange tales of human endurance or of tragic defeat come from some far away icy cape beyond the reach of civilization. After the tragic death of Captain Scott and his companions, Sir Ernest Shackleton started another antarctic expedition which has met defeat in the old way. In a telegram sent from Port Stanley, Sir Ernest tells of his escape with a few of his companions, leaving twenty-two comrades in an ice hole on Elephant Isle with little hope that they shall ever come out of it alive. The ice conditions are so bad that only a special ship would stand any chance of getting through, and their supplies are low, they being forced to depend on the meat of penguins, the supply of which is not assured. The world may not ponder much on their fate owing to the terrible tragedies that are reported daily in the waste of wars, but there is something peculiarly gripping in the thought of 22 brave, strong men doomed to die from cold and starvation in the wastes of eternal ice and snow.

As a contrast to the despairing news from Shackleton comes an apparently authentic report that the ship sent to the arctic to rescue Donald B. McMillan and his Crocker land expedition has succeeded. A letter from the captain of the ship to his family tells of the rescue and of the plans for the return, adding the characteristic touch: "There were some members who wanted to remain for another year." It is a story of triumph over "a jam of ice and a gale" and later a broken crankshaft, but the fact seems assured that while one party meets death in the far away antarctic, another will come back to the world of men and events from the equally far arctic. And, notwithstanding success or failure, men will for years to come organize bands of adventurers and strive to conquer nature in pioneer ways where they who play the game play with death as the stake, and nevertheless play the game gallantly.

A HISTORICAL DINNER

A few nights ago Charles E. Hughes, aspirant for the presidency and Theodore Roosevelt, ex-aspirant for the same office, dined together in peace and harmony and mutual good will. No statement was given out and no reporters were present, but this did not prevent the occasion becoming one of the historical events of the year. Greatly would the American public like to get a little inside information on what was said and done and planned, but Mr. Hughes talks very little and Mr. Roosevelt has learned that if he is to serve his chief he too must talk in greater moderation than hitherto.

There is nothing to prevent one's imagining that politics was touched on only slightly and it is highly unlikely that Mr. Hughes asked his guest to explain why he made slighting reference to the Hughes whiskers. The progressive vote may and may not have been analyzed and weighed by two master strategists, but since we must depend only on possibilities the first guess is that the weak spots in the Wilson campaign arguments were sought after eagerly. The one link the binds the twin most strongly is a common bond of opposition to President Wilson, and from now on Mr. Roosevelt will unquestionably lose no opportunity to attack the present administration in order to advance the candidacy of Mr. Hughes. It was a great dinner surely, but not until present politics have become history and the private diaries of the principals are published shall we see its true bearing on the strenuous days immediately ahead.

PLAIN TALK NOW

One good thing that the prolongation of this war has done is to rob diplomatic notes of superfluous and mystifying verbiage, and the longer it goes on the more blunt and direct do the international exchanges become. Those who had patience enough to read some of the first notes to Germany and to England must recognize the change of tone in the recent note to Carranza and in the still later note to Austria regarding the attack on the Petrolite. It is as though Secretary Lansing and his chief have grown weary of looking for nice ways of saying unpleasant things, and surely they have exhausted the glossary of pretty phrases. The text of the note to Austria is as plain and direct as though the United States state department were an accusing attorney before the court of civilization. Austria is told that the attack was a deliberate insult to the United States; that the explanation given is inconsistent and untrue; that there is no doubt of the guilt of the submarine commander and that reparation should be made. About the only courtly phrase comes at the close when this government assures the Austrian government of our confidence in its desire to play square in its dealings with us. It may be that Austria would like one of the roundabout and diplomatic notes of yesterday, but this type of note stands better chances of being read by the American public.

of automobiles to acquaint themselves with the terms of the new automobile law which goes into effect next Saturday. In all its provisions it is a radical departure from the present law and if enforced it will be found drastic enough to suit the views of the most exacting critic of past loop holes. As a sample of the effective changes in the interest of public safety is the elimination of a fine for the offense of going away after colliding with and doing injury to a person. The penalty under the new law is imprisonment for not less than thirty days. Those who have looked upon cars as playthings for the gratification of speed hobbies and those who are accustomed to drive while under the influence of liquor ought to look out and amend their ways if they still wish to drive, as it will be easy for such to lose their license almost before they realize it. This law has come only after persistent complaints and continual agitation in the cause of public safety and it ought to be tested in a way that will bring home the change to all whom it may concern.

DISARMAMENT?

The leading socialistic paper of Germany recently came out with an article on disarmament that has aroused world-wide discussion. Strangely enough, the German government has ignored the article which has been assumed to have the Kaiser's tacit approval. It says in effect that the idea of disarmament and an international court of arbitration would do away with the present international jealousy and the necessity for maintaining large armies and navies. Possibly Germany, seeing ultimate defeat in the offing wishes to take the initiative in a newer and better international policy, but the allies are not likely to favor disarmament until Germany can be actually forced to ask for peace conditions which may include voluntary reduction of military forces. Be that as it may the war is proving the fallacy of any nation's thinking it can rule the world by force.

Gives Away Secret

"When lecturing on one occasion in the north," says Sir Ernest Shackleton, the famous explorer, "before the proceedings were timed to commence I took a peep through a curtain to see what kind of an audience I was likely to have. Things looked promising, and I said so.

"Yes," said the chairman, "I think you are going to have as big an audience as the hand-bell ringers had last week."

"These are the sort of things I hear," added Sir Ernest, "and they keep me modest."

The Missing Chapter

The new pastor of a certain country parish is likely to lose the confidence of his flock unless he changes his ways. During his sermon one Sunday morning not long back he stopped abruptly and asked:

"How many of those here are diligent students of their bibles?"

Fifty hands went up. "Good," said the pastor. "Now, how many of you have read the second chapter of Jude?"

Twenty-five hands went up. "That's also good, but when you go home read the chapter again, and you will doubtless learn something to your interest."

The point of this story lies in the fact that the Book of Jude consists of one chapter only.—Pearson's Weekly.

The Southern Watermelon

Mark Twain was speaking by the card when he wrote some years ago: "The true southern watermelon is a boon apart, not to be mentioned with commoner things. It is chief of this world's luxuries, king by grace of God over all the fruits of the earth. When one has tasted it, he knows what the angels eat. It was not a southern watermelon that Eve took; we know it because she repented."

Melons will soon be with us, and within us. As one of our cub reporters, covering the markets, wrote some years ago of the "possum, the melon is one of the 'most delicious fowls' ever seen in these parts. The sooner it comes the more cheerful will our people be.—Exchange.

That Passeth Understanding

"A rabbi serving as a chaplain in Flanders was one day asked by a dying French soldier to unbuckle his tunic and to hold the crucifix he was wearing so that in his last moments his eyes might rest upon that symbol of love unto death. With a fine humanity the Jew held up for the comfort of the dying man that which stood for the condemnation of his own people."

We wish all our Know-Nothing friends might note this paragraph!—Collier's Weekly.

Our Working Army

America must recognize that militarism cannot be abolished by prayer or fasting, but only by a reasonable counter-proposal. America must have a working army. Every girl, as well as every boy, should be a conscript to public service. A year of each young life should be given to public works. This will incidentally indicate a sound patriotism harmonious with universal as well as national well-being. It will take care of the surplus labor that makes a fringe of poverty choking the life of each community. It will furnish an opportunity for vocational training in which young people can experiment in life and the nation select its soldiers, engineers, nurses and social workers. No man shall be set aside primarily for murder. The army shall be a working army, not a standing army.—Charles Zuehl.

Designs on Money

The minting, in new design, of silver half dollars, quarter dollars and dimes will begin on July 1 next. It has been 25 years since the dies of these coins have been changed, and there has been curiosity to see what the artists have done for the new designs.

On one side of the new silver half dollar will appear a figure of Liberty outlined against an unfurled American flag. The goddess carries an armful of laurel, and the rising sun at which she is gazing is said to be symbolical of the dawn of a new day. On the reverse side appears the eagle with outstretched wings perched on a wreath.

The quarter dollars are said to be stamped with equally attractive designs and both coins carry the historic phrase, "In God We Trust." Work on these coins has cost the treasury department much thought and labor. To the numismatist every figure, flower and branch on them has its significance. It is prophesied that the coins will be more popular than the "buffalo nickel" has proved though there has been no great complaint of that coin. The Lincoln penny has won its way to popular regard, and promises to continue with us for some time.

DYSPEPSIA OF WOMEN

Special Treatment Required.

Many women suffer from a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not yield to ordinary treatment. While the symptoms are similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines usually prescribed do not restore the patient's normal condition.

There seems to be a kind of dyspepsia caused by derangement of the female organism. While this appears to be the same as ordinary indigestion it can be relieved only by a medicine which, besides acting as a stomach tonic, is good for female ailments. Read what such a medicine did for Mrs. Williams:

She says:—"Before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was troubled with dyspepsia and bearing down pains in my back and sides, and after my meals my stomach would bloat up till I could scarcely get my breath. At times I was so weak I could hardly stand on my feet, and I looked hollow-eyed and my skin was yellow. Now I have a good color, have gained in every way and can do my work without any pains. I think it is the best medicine on earth for stomach troubles of women."—Mrs. NELLIE WILLIAMS, 31 West 33 Street, New Albany, Ind.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

The world needs a good dose of honest laughter, these days, and at the B. F. Keith Theatre, the final days of the present week, Douglas Fairbanks, in "The Habit of Happiness," shows one of the prime ways for getting it. The title is an alluring one, and the picture lives right up to the title. You see, Fairbanks has the role of a young man of means, with nothing particular to do, but with a mighty good heart beating in his breast. He conceived the idea of going down into the slum district and bringing a smile to the faces of the "down-and-outs." And, in this, he was eminently successful. He got to understand his "patients" thoroughly, and anybody who has followed the Fairbanks pictures will very readily understand how it was that his own smile proved so infectious. Having given the slum-men a course in first-aid laughing, this wealthy young man was sought out by a physician who had for a patient a millionaire who absolutely refused to look at things through fog-glasses. The millionaire's doctor summoned the doctor of laughing and the latter took up his abode in the house of the perpetual grouch. While it was at times rather hard to make the slum-men laugh, it was a thousand times harder to bring a flicker of a smile to the face of the millionaire. Fairbanks told him funny stories—but to no avail. He jested, joked, imitated, laughed for him—and still there was nothing doing. Heroic treatment was necessary, and Fairbanks got mixed into this treatment himself. The millionaire, it appears, was heavily interested in the stock market. A movement against him was engineered, and those who were interested sought to keep him away from the market. They employed all sorts of nefarious means to do this, even to the hiring of a lot of yeggs to watch the house. At a time when the yeggs were closing in on the millionaire the laugh-doctor took charge of the situation, and was shot. The shooting brought a smile to the face of the doctor, and in turn, it also brought a real one to the lips of the grouch. Of course it wasn't a dangerous wound, but it had tremendous consequences. Fairbanks—we prefer to call him that instead of by the name of the character—won for himself a pretty bride, and the millionaire-grouch recovered his good spirits and eventually his health. This makes a decidedly interesting comedy, of a rather high type, and doubtless it will attract many people to the theatre. The photography is of a high grade and the acting is throughout of the very best.

"The Bath House Blunder" is a rollicking comedy, with Charles Murray, Mae Busch and a cast of expert bathing girls featured. It is a typical Triangle-Keystone feature, and that means that it grows faster and faster with every foot of film, until, at the close it causes outbursts of laughter. There isn't much story to it, other than the inevitable mistake which causes so many complications, but the mistake is the germ of humor.

"Three Friends," a Griffith subject, is an admirable little story told in one part, and the Hearst-Vitaphone shows many new views, particularly one of the new Harvard regiment, receiving a stand of colors at the Stadium. Mutt and Jeff in a new animated cartoon, "The Indestructible Hat," is full of fire.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

The splendid program of pictures which was immensely enjoyed by the many patrons of the Merrimack Square theatre who chose yesterday to see it will continue to be shown at this theatre today and tomorrow. It is a very gripping play, "His Brother's Wife," the play in which Carlyle Blackwell and Ethel Clayton play the leading parts. It tells in a most absorbing manner of the contrition and atonement a brother makes to repair the evil he has caused and does all in his power to restore happiness to the home of his brother. From which he took it. Quite a different theme is "Susie Snowflake," the other five act feature on this program. Diminutive and charming, Miss Ann Pennington plays the role of Susie, the capricious, vivacious little stage miss, who horrifies the community of a small town by introducing the latest-to-the-minute Broadway ways and customs which are all new to the prim minds of the villagers. The Burton Holmes pictures, depicting the customs and views of foreign countries, will also be shown today, together with the screaming comedy and other plays.

JEWELL THEATRE

We have seen Chaplin in all kinds of scrapes and roles. Today and tomorrow he and his company of fun producers will be seen in a farcical comedy called "The Fireman," in which the gallant fire fighter is treated to a little burlesque on his serious occupation. Miss Edna Purviance, Chaplin's charming leading lady, has much to do with the fun of the new play, which is the second release of the $575,000 contract, which has set the states talking. If Charlie keeps on getting a boost in his salary every year, there will be a shortage of money some of these days, and he might have to actually work for nothing at all. However, while the going is good, Charlie is coping the kale, and getting everybody's "goat" by his funny antics. Besides this new Chaplin comedy, a new Mutt and Jeff cartoon by Bud Fisher, and an episode of Universal's stirring serial, "Peg of the Ring," with Grace Cunard and Francis Ford, are among the other good attractions booked for the end of the week.

OWL THEATRE

"Sealed Lips," a stirring five act photodrama will be the attraction at the Owl theatre today and tomorrow. Appearing in the stellar role of this Equitable feature film is the famous stage star, William Courtenay, who is well known to local theatregoers as the leading man in such great successes as "Under Cover" and "Under Fire." A specially selected all-star cast will ably assist Mr. Courtenay in this wonderful production.

In addition to "Sealed Lips," many other excellent attractions will also be presented at the Owl theatre today and tomorrow.

CANOE LAKE PARK

"Boys and Girls," one of the best musical comedies ever written for production on the American stage, is the attraction offered tonight at the Canoe Lake Park theatre, with Bob Ott, the funniest comedian in America. All week long the famous comedian has been pleasing the big crowds at the big open air theatre. The play itself is breezy and as full of dash and comedy as one could hope to see, and the chorus of attractive American beauties only lends a lot of attractiveness to the vehicle. Bob Ott has always been noted for his selection of a handsome and well balanced chorus, but this season with his big comedies he has outdone even himself. No musical comedy that can be remembered in a long time has had such a well balanced and sprightly chorus. Every member of it has a well trained voice, while the terpsichorean novelties introduced are the best ever. The story of "Boys and Girls" is built around a college whose purpose is one of co-education. The boys and girls all pick out husbands and wives for themselves and then when the folks come to see them on commencement day there is a lot of trouble when they try to break the matches. The boys and girls fool the folks and that is the whole story of this delightful comedy. Sunday evening the theatre management will offer one of the finest possible picture programs, the first Sunday evening attraction for the coming summer.

FORTY HOURS' DEVOTION

SERVICES AT SACRED HEART CHURCH, OPENED TODAY, WILL CLOSE SUNDAY

There was a large congregation at the 8 o'clock mass at the Sacred Heart church this morning, which marked the opening of the forty hours' devotion. This evening there will be services at 7 o'clock, while the morning at 8 o'clock a high mass will be celebrated. At the 11 o'clock mass on Sunday the services will come to a close. As the feast of the church also falls on that day, the ceremonies will be of double significance. Solemn high mass will be celebrated, with a special musical program. On Sunday evening there will be a procession, and also a sermon on the feast. The musical program for the 11 o'clock mass on Sunday will be as follows:

NEW PASTOR SETTLED

REV. A. G. LYON HAS MOVED INTO PAWTUCKET CHURCH PARSONAGE IN VARNUM AVENUE

The new pastor of the Pawtucket Congregational church, Rev. Arthur G. Lyon, has with his family, moved into the parsonage at 113 Varnum street. He will conduct the regular Friday service this evening and communion service on Sunday morning.

Rev. Mr. Lyon was born in Taunton, Mass., in 1873, a son of the late Gilbert A. Lyon, a shoe manufacturer. He is a graduate of Taylor university, Indiana, and of the Banner Theological seminary and also pursued special studies in Columbia university. He preached in Taunton for five years and for four years in Maine during his studies in Bangor. He has held pastorates in Haverhill for the last eight years, the last three years of the period at the Riverside Memorial church. In the latter charge he had a most successful pastorate, during which 57 united with the church and 83 were baptized. Six hundred dollars was raised on the debt and he leaves the church better off financially and in a stronger condition than ever before. Two clubs have been organized for the boys and a brother class for the men. Two Christian Endeavor societies, and a large chorus choir of young people for the evening service, doubling the attendance. The church was very loathe to accept his resignation and a petition was signed by over 200 persons, asking him to reconsider his decision.

In 1892 he married Miss Martha T. Lane, daughter of the late Levi T. Lane, pension attorney and veteran of the Civil war. Mrs. Lyon has ably as-

No wonder children are fond of Grape-Nuts food. Its crisp, attractive form and delicious barley sweetness appeal wonderfully to the child's taste.

Grape-Nuts is made of Nature's finest food grains—wheat and barley. It is ready to eat direct from the sealed packet—convenient, economical, easy to digest, richly nourishing—the most perfect cereal food ever devised.

But above all, this food makes children sturdy and helps them to get big A's in their studies. For bounding health and vitality every boy and girl should have a daily ration of Grape-Nuts with cream or good rich milk.

Napoleon Led Infantry

Down Valley of the

Brenta River

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 30.—The

The fierce offensive of the Austrian forces in the Tyrolean Alps and especially in the Val Sugana seems to substantiate those chroniclers who maintain that history has a habit of repeating itself.

The present situation apparently offers the Tyrolean power an opportunity to weaken on the southern kingdom a century-deferred revenge for a defeat suffered at the hands of Italy's ally,

France, in the same Sugana valley more than a hundred years ago," says today's war geography bulletin of the National Geographic society, issued from its Washington headquarters.

"It was down the valley of the Brenta river, where recently the Archduke

Charles Francis Joseph began pressing back the Italians, that Napoleon won his amazing descent upon the Austrians in 1796. The French genius of war led his wonderfully mobile infantry a distance of more than 60 miles in two days and at the end of the march rushed them into battle against the forces of Wurmser who had fallen back upon the city of Bassano, 20 miles south of the present Tyrolean border and 35 miles northwest of Venice.

This phenomenal dash began at Trent, where the Napoleonic forces had been assembled after the victory at Rovereto four days previously.

"Levico, a town of 6000 inhabitants,

lying at the east end of Lake Caldaro nazzo and 14 miles southeast of Trent, is at the head of the fertile, vine-clad

Val Sugana, which follows the course of

northward bend as it makes its way

east, finally crossing the Italian border at Terzo, 47 miles by rail from Trent.

"The valley of the Brenta, the largest town in the valley is Borgo, known in Roman days as Ausugum. On the heights surrounding this picturesque place of 4500 people are the ruins of several ancient and medieval castles which lend a unique aspect to the landscape.

"When the Italians were driven south of the Tyrolean border they took up a strong defensive position almost par-

along the heights above the Frenzella valley, through which runs a railway connecting the two quaint Italian towns of Asiago and the passage, known as the Canale di Brenta, the Venetians of the 17th century brought to the coast

the products of numerous tobacco plantations which they had established in this fertile section. Today the gorge offers many points of strategic value to an army on the defensive, and if the Austrians succeed in their drive down

counters may be staged here."

75 POISONED AT PICNIC

PASTOR OF PORTSMOUTH, RHODE ISLAND, CHURCH AMONG THOSE STRICKEN—SEVERAL MAY DIE

PORTSMOUTH, R. I., June 30.—Seventy-five children and adults, members of St. George's Episcopal church, were stricken with ptomaine poisoning at a Sunday school picnic held here yesterday, following their partaking of the lunch provided by the church. Fifteen, including the Rev. George Vernon Dickey, pastor of the church, are critically ill. Scores of automobiles and taxicabs, impressed by frantic telephone calls, and all available police, fire and private wagons, rushed to the scene of the picnic, Lawton's Valley, some six miles out of Newport, and carried the unconscious victims to hospitals and physicians' homes.

The scenes at the picnic struck terror into those who were present. A short half-hour after lunch time—at about 2:30—people were seen to become dizzy, and finally fall to the ground. Two persons who rushed to a telephone fell as they spoke into the receiver.

The children ranged in age from 6 to 15. Among the dangerously ill are several of the Sunday school teachers and numerous aged women. The cause of the catastrophe is generally admitted to have been chopped ham sandwiches, which were generally served to the picnickers. The ham, it was said, had been home cooked at the house of one of the women of the Sunday school, whose own children were among the picnickers. All night the work went on. Rigid investigation of the cause of the occurrence was at once undertaken by Captain James J. Leary of the Newport police. It was learned that lemonade, cheese and ham sandwiches

PUT TO DEATH

Shillitani Executed for Murder of Two New York Policemen

OSWING, N. Y., June 30.—Orestes Shillitani was executed in the Sing Sing prison this morning for the murder three years ago of two New York policemen, who were attempting to arrest him for killing a man in a quarrel about a girl.

Shillitani made no pretense of insanity during his trial but became apparently crazed with terror in the deathhouse a few weeks ago when two other prisoners were executed, smashed the furnishings in his cell and beat on the bars of the door and begged to be set free.

A week ago he obtained possession of a revolver, fatally shot one of the keepers in the deathhouse and wounded another. Taking the keys to the deathhouse doors from them, he escaped to the prison yard, and stripping off his clothing, swam around the end of the prison wall, which extends into the Hudson river. He went straight to the Oswining hospital, demanded admission and was returned to prison.

Appeals were made to the governor on the ground that Shillitani was insane but he declared the prisoner was sane and declined to interfere.

Shillitani went to the electric chair without resistance and before his death made a short statement, saying he was sorry he killed the prison keeper and declaring that his "brain was not right."

GATEMAN SAVES WOMAN

FLAGGED TRAIN AND ENGINE STOPPED TEN FEET FROM DISABLED AUTOMOBILE

BOSTON, June 30.—Two Winthrop women, whose automobile had crashed through the gates at the Forest street crossing in Wakefield yesterday afternoon, were saved from an onrushing train by Chester C. Patch, who ran down the track, flagged the train, and succeeded in bringing it to a stop on the crossing about 10 feet from the machine.

Mrs. H. G. Clapp was driving the machine and had crossed the tracks and started up the Foster street hill. Half way up the hill she tried to shift gears, but found difficulty in doing so, and then tried to stop the car. The brake failed to work and the car started to coast backward down the hill.

Patch, who is the crossing tender, heard the woman's screams, and letting the gates down to stop the momentum of the auto, he took a red flag and ran down the track, and the car started to coast backward down the hill.

The engineer applied the emergency brakes and brought the train to a stop with the front part of the engine on the crossing.

The women became hysterical, but after a short time were able to proceed to the machine. Mrs. Clapp's companion refused to give her name to the police.

INDUSTRIAL and STORE NEWS

The members of Local 829, Machinists union, held an interesting meeting at 22 Middle street. The attendance was large, several new members were initiated and considerable business was transacted.

Major Walter G. Penfield, manager of the Remington Arms Co. of Bridgeport, Conn., is to be in the city for the purpose of managing, but his successor has not yet been named. One of the Bridgeport papers thinks his successor may be able to establish a better feeling between the management and the 10,000 employees of the company.

Railway Clerks

The Railway Clerks held their regular meeting last evening and transacted routine business. The meeting was largely attended and new members were initiated.

Labor Day

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the Labor day celebration, which will be held in this city on the first Monday in September, will meet probably next week to organize the various sub-committees. This committee is composed of delegates from the various union organizations of the city. The program of the celebration has not as yet been outlined, but it is believed that the traditional parade will be in order with sports on the commons.

SERGT. WHELAN KITCHENER WILL

Represents the British Government Here as Munition Inspector

While visiting with a party of Lowell friends, in Claremont, N. H., some few years ago we met one of the natives of that beautiful town, who spent several hours showing us around. He was possessed of a typical "top country" twang, so common to the Yankee farmer, and when toward evening he announced that he would be obliged to leave us, in order to attend an important meeting, one of the party remarked:

"What you got on, a meeting of the Grange?"

"Grange, gosh no! This is meeting night of the Hibernians and I'm the secretary, and they raise the old Harry if I don't show up to read the minutes," was the startling reply.

After he had departed, one of the party ventured the assertion that if he had not been so busy, he would have been in Lowell, with that twang, he'd find them all from Missouri.

I was pleasantly reminded of the meeting with my Claremont friend, last evening, when Sergt. J. Patrick Whelan, the jovial, melodious and popular representative of the British government at the U. S. Ordnance Co. plant, who speaks with a dialect that would make Sam Deane green with envy, informed me that he is a member of the Hibernians and the United Irish league, in dear old Lunnun. And he's a great rooster for Hon. John E. Redmond into the bargain.

Sergt. Whelan is a native of Wexford, London, though his parents, and, as he told me "all the Whelans" came from Queens county, Ireland. He has been in the British army since 1886, and is a veteran of the Boer war, and wears the medal of five bars. He was prepared to go to the front when the war broke out in Europe, but, on account of his experience in artillery matters, his superiors thought he could be of greater service as an inspector, to keep tabs on the munitions being manufactured for England, in this country, and hence, one year ago, he was assigned to the Lowell plant and coming here as a resident ever since, and has made friends galore in this city.

But for the past 25 years when not fighting, or inspecting munitions, Sergt. Whelan has busied himself writing songs, and among the English residents of Lowell has been a favorite. He has composed some 300 songs, many of which have been good successes across the water. He has continued to write them and sing them, since coming to Lowell, and there is probably no member of the Bunting club, who has not enjoyed his sweet music, for he has been a resident ever since, and has made friends galore in this city.

Although passionately fond of music, a good singer, and successful at song writing, Sergt. Whelan has never studied music and doesn't play any musical instrument. He starts his songs with the words, and then he sets them to music, as the melody comes to him. He gets a piano player to write the music for him, after he has sung the melody to him, and then after fixing it up, and making changes to put a finish on the melody, his song is ready for the publisher.

Two years ago, after hearing a home rule speech by Hon. John E. Redmond, in the house of commons, Sergt. Whelan became inspired and wrote a song entitled "Loyal Ireland," which he dedicated to the Irish leader. The latter wrote him a nice letter in acknowledgment, and the letter is among Sergt. Whelan's treasured possessions, today. The song "Loyal Ireland," was published in London and in Dublin and made a big hit, judging from the big sales.

Since coming to Lowell, Sergt. Whelan has written several songs, one of which was published in New York for the benefit of the Red Cross. Sergt. Whelan sent the first 50 copies of this song to Miss Burke, of this city, who is connected with the Red Cross, and the second 50 were sent to London. Another song, written by him since coming to Lowell is entitled "Norie's Mourning," and the copyright of this song he presented to the Bunting club, to raise funds for the club. Some time ago he presented the Bunting club a complete projectile, which was disposed of by ticket for the benefit of the building fund.

Sergt. Whelan finishes his duties in Lowell on August 1, and goes from here to Portland, Me., where he is to serve as inspector in a munitions plant in that city. He goes wherever he is assigned by his government, though if he had his choice, he says, he would remain in Lowell for he likes the place and people "blooming well," and he has made many good friends in town.

Mr. Whelan's song dedicated to John E. Redmond, and according to the London press announcements, was sung with great success by Dave Carter, the popular Irish tenor. The first stanza of it runs as follows:

"Britain today is full of care and strife,
Britain they say has got to fight
She needs help from every mother's son,
Will Ireland come and help her is a question asked by some?
Time heals wounds, and Ireland's discontent,
Was healed by words John Redmond said of late in parliament."

BRITISH WAR LORD WHO

Was Drowned Left Estate of $850,000

LONDON, June 30.—The will of Field Marshal Earl Kitchener, the British secretary of war, who lost his life in the sinking of the cruiser Hampshire off the Orkneys June 5, was admitted to probate today. It shows that he left an estate valued at £171,420, (approximately $350,000).

The largest bequests were the sum of £20,000 to his nephew, Henry Hamilton Kitchener and the Broom park estate and all lands in Kent county to his nephew, Commander Henry Franklin Chevalier Kitchener, R. N., a son of the new earl.

The will makes a number of smaller bequests to relatives and friends, including £200 each to several officers who served on Lord Kitchener's personal staff.

Among these was Gen. Sir William R. Birdwood.

To Col. Oswald A. G. Fitzgerald, Lord Kitchener's personal military secretary, who was drowned with the field marshal, was willed all Kitchener's lands in British East Africa amounting to about 5000 acres in plantations, etc.

Swords of honor, plate and other gifts to public bodies and devolved as heirlooms to settled estates. The will was dated Nov. 2, 1914.

IRISH TAG DAY WORKERS GIVEN GOOD TIME BY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE LAST EVENING

A social and entertainment that did not have a dull moment from start to finish was that given last evening in Hibernian hall by the Irish Tag day executive committee of 25 as complimentary to the young lady volunteers and the O.M.I. Cadets who helped on tag day. About fifty of the cadets were present in uniform, their blue and white giving a pretty touch to the audience of over 200. One of their number, Captain Leith of Company D, and a corporal in the Ninth regiment had come from Camp Whitney, Framingham, to be present, and when he left he was given a rousing send off with three cheers and a tiger.

There was a delightful musical program and a few brief addresses. James C. Miskin was chairman of the occasion and he made the introductory address thanking all present for their aid on tag day. Mr. James O'Sullivan, treasurer, made a detailed report showing that $3000 had been collected for the families of those who suffered in the recent Irish rebellion.

Paul Angello who also played made the accompaniments for the evening. There was a cornet solo by William Daley, a violin and piano duet by the Dainty Misses Goggin, and a piano solo by Miss Mildred Denver. Songs were sung by Commissioner James E.

WHY MILITIA MUST

ACTS OF 1903 AND THOSE WHO REFUSE

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Instructed by the War Department, the War Office of every state in the Union, or been instructed by the War Office, to take the oath of allegiance to the United States are subject to court martial under the provisions of the Acts of 1903 and 1908. The purpose is not to compel militiamen to take the double oath prescribed by the new national defense act. Under the constitution they are obliged to serve at the call of the president within the territorial boundaries of the United States.

The joint resolution just passed by congress authorizing the president to "draft" as well as call the militia, will eliminate the necessity for taking the new oath. Under this draft President Wilson is empowered to send militia troops anywhere that he can send regulars.

Any guardsmen who are holding back from taking the oath on the theory that the new law is not compulsory must now reckon with the new power conferred upon the president to draft them, which supplies any lack in authority provided by the old law.

The commanding general of the District of Columbia militia has informed the few men who are balky at taking the oath that the old law makes it compulsory for them to present themselves for muster and they will be promptly court-martialed if they fail to do so.

Adj. Gen. Cole of Massachusetts is within his rights in threatening to apply the court-martial to recalcitrant guardsmen in that state.
